GREENSBORO, NC—Smart milking machines and bar charted milk vial lids provided some of the innovative discussion topics here Monday morning as the 1990 National DHIA technology symposium opened the annual meeting for delegates and farmers from around the world.

A video of the robotic milking machine, developed in Holland and set to be refined with a research grant at the University of Maryland, caused the most stir in audience reaction. This futuristic equipment, designed to automatically attach the milking machine unit anytime day or night, allows the cow to decide when she feels the need to eat or be milked.

Set as the center of a self-sufficient 30 cow free-stall barn complex, the unit records the cow's identification by computer as she enters the milking compartment. As soon as the computer knows its visitor, feed is dispensed according to pre-determined needs. A bridge in the floor rises to widen the stance of the cow's real legs while gates contract beside her hips to keep her in place.

According to the video, the cow calmly eats her pellets as metal arms reach between her legs and udder from the back. Suddenly, a rolling wash brush cylinder follows the metal pipe arms in under the udder. For 45 seconds this mechanical brush cleans the cow's udder as slick as in any car wash operation you'll see the next time you get to town.

Then it happens. At the blink of an eye, four teat cups slide in under the cow. With pantomime like movements, each cup moves into position, computed to the exact length and width of teat placement. Each cow is different, you know. But the machine recalls its previous experience with her teat placement. It's evidently hard to fool this smarty.

To make sure the teats remain in milkable position, an inflatable ring inside the top lip of the cup summons everything into place just before the vacuum pump is started. Gasps of disbelief and laughter turned to a battery of questions as the lights came up at the conclusion of the sales video.

How Ag Impacts Economy

BY LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — Members of the Bedford County Chamber of Commerce heard about the impact of agriculture on the local economy at their March meeting.

Sue Fox, Bedford County Extension interim director dairy agent, introduced her subject by pointing out that 197,000 cows in Bedford County produce 13,400 pounds of milk. There are 52,000 cattle, 1,040 calves, 10,000 hogs, 210 pigs, 2000 sheep and 80 lambs presently residing on 1040 Bedford County farms.

To feed this livestock, 35,600 acres of corn are produced along with 12,000 acres of grain, 32,000 acres of alfalfa, 1,000 acres of wheat, 600 of barley, 6,400 of oats, and 900 of soybeans.

Fox warned that there has been a decline in the amount of farm acres in the county. "We need at least 30% of the land in farms in order to maintain our agriculture," she told the group. In 1954, farmland totaled 56.4 percent of Bedford County. By 1982, that figure had dropped to 36% and by 1989 to 34%.

Dairy Council Inc. Survives Test Of Time

TREVOSE (Philadelphia) — The 70th anniversary of the Dairy Council Inc. provided an opportunity for review of the nutrition-education agency that serves a tri-state area of Delaware, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Jan B. Stanton, executive director, said that in preparing for the annual meeting she had an opportunity to look back through old Dairy Council records and discovered that time hasn't changed everything.

She said conducting the research was educational.

"In doing so, two things really struck me," she said. "How progressive and foward thinking Dairy Council has always been and . . . how certain good ideas, projects and programs have been recycled and updated to meet contemporary needs."

According to Stanton, in the early 1920s, Dairy Council focused on the health of young children by working within the Philadelphia School District by offering nutrition classes and giving free milk to undernourished children.

"Our records show that in three months, the children who were 18- to 20-percent underweight improved such that there were only six- to eight-percent underweight," Stanton said.

"In recent yearsh, we have continued to have the nutritional needs of school age children as a priority at Dairy Council," Stanton said. "However, now there is more concern with the overweight, rather than the underweight children."

She said that the focus has now turned toward education.

"In this past year we offered a seminar . . . 250 educators attended . . . ," she said. Additionally, she said the milk promotion conglomerate has introduced new materials directed as informing children about nutrition and fitness.

"Although our work began in the city of Philadelphia, we quickly expanded to other counties in Pennsylvania, as well as New Jersey. Today we work with educators in 35 counties (in the tri-state area)," she said.

"Our special relationship with Philadelphia has continued," she said, "as we officially adopted Sharswood shcool in south Philadelphia last year."

She said that the Dairy Council worked with the Middle Atlantic

Industry, Laboratories Combat Salmonella

Editor's note: Last week, Lancaster Farming covered some of the causes of SE and concerns about the continued spread of SE through the layer industry and the human population. This week we focus on a new mandatory SE testing program.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Now there is a mandatory program to control the spread of SE.

A program has been set up by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to control the spread of Salmonella enteritidis in table-egg poultry flocks in the United States, according to Jo Ann R. Smith, assistant secretary of agriculture.

"Salmonella enteritidis is a growing problem for the $3.2 billion egg industry and has emerged as a serious public health concern as well," said Smith. "Strains of SE are endemic in egg production flocks in the Northeastern and Mid-Atlantic states, and are now expanding into Midwestern and Northwestern states."

The control program will address the problem by testing and certification of the primary and multiplier breeding flocks that produce the table-egg layers, and tracebacks and testing of commercial table-egg layer flocks if and when they are implicated in human infection with SE.

Interstate movement

Interstate movement of chickens, eggs, and associated articles from flocks infected or associated with SE will be restricted, and all egg production breeding flocks must be classified "U.S. Sanitation Monitored" under the National Poultry Improvement Plan (NPIP), or meet the requirements of an equivalent state program, to move interstate.

Smith said the action is a logical progression from the Voluntary Model State Program and the NPIP for testing of SE begun in 1988. "That program was neither nationally accepted nor fully successful, primarily because both testing and reporting of SE was not mandatory," Smith said.

Much of the control work will be done through NPIP.

On February 1 this year, the USDA declared poultry diseases caused by SE "endemic diseases of economic and public importance," and made $6.8 million in additional funds to USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) available to implement the control program.

Uniform SE monitoring

The plan will be mandatory in

Delmarva Broiler Fryers
March 14, 1990

Movement of ready to cook whole fryers was only fair today. Some buyers have rescheduled or canceled regular commitments in an attempt to control floor stocks. Supplies were fully adequate. Less than trucklot asking prices were steady at 59-67 cents. Live supplies were adequate. Average weights were mostly desirable. Processing schedules were moderately heavy. The trade sentiment was barely steady. In the parts complex, supplies of wings were adequate and clearing, cutlets were somewhat irregular and ranged adequate to fully adequate, whole breasts, and the dark meat items were fully adequate for the cautious buyer.

National Egg Market

,MARCH 14, 1990

NATIONALThe market tone was fully steady to instances firm with some underlying cautiousness noted. Distributive movement ranged slow to moderate with limited retail promotional activity. Supplies were mostly in balance with needs and additional offerings were irregularly available but usually held with confidence. Breakers attempted to work as close with needs as possible with finished product sales slow and both end users and further processors reluctant to carry heavy inventories.

Eastern PA & NJ Poultry
March 14, 1990

Prices were about unchanged on light-type fowl and too few sales to report on heavy hens. Offerings were limited and short of next week's full capacity; however, buyers were resisting bidding higher due to resistance from the canner segment. Undertone barely steady.

N.E. Chicken Parts
March 14, 1990

Trucklot buying interest was limited for yellow parts. Wings were adequate and in closest balance of all items. Supplies of boned skinless breasts were irregular; however, any extra product was difficult to place. Whole breasts ranged adequate to ample with some standing commitments noted as canceled; other buyers were cautious and some bid for additional supplies in the low 90's despite sellers attempts to clear stocks at unchanged levels. Leg items were fully adequate to ample with spot trading noted as low as 27 cents on leg quarters.

NY & Phila. Frozen Eggs
March 9, 1990

Prices were unchanged to higher. Trading activity was spotty and usually restricted to immediate needs. Higher costs and limited offerings of raw materials had several further processors reassessing their position. Floor stocks were usually in balance with needs.

Alfalfa's Triple Crown.

Emerald. Maxim. Funk's G-2852. These hardy alfalfas from Hoffman will place you in the winner's circle with improved yields, exceptional stand longevity, and broad-based disease protection.

Emerald's the yield leader from start-to-finish. It has consistently bested Hoffman trials, while producing 5½ percent better than average yields in New York and Pennsylvania state trials.

Maxim's a sure bet for exceptional stand longevity. And its two-year production average of 9.6 tons/acre will give you front-running yields.

Funk's G-2852 tops the field with some of the best disease resistance available. Backed by years of research, this newcomer has shown annual yield advantages of ½ ton/acre.

When you're looking for a winning alfalfa yield, call your local Hoffman seed representative. Or call Hoffman Seeds direct for more information about Alfalfa's Triple Crown.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

MAR. 19-25, 1990

Mar. 20, Spring Equinox.

Chipmunks emerge Oysters spawn on the full tides after the full and new Spring moons Mar 19, the moon runs low, meaning it is lowest exactly above the south point of the observer's horizon Mar 21, 1685, birthday of Johann Sebastian Bach, German composer and musician The lion puts on the fox's skin when cunning is more fruitful than force

Ask the Old Farmer: I'm trying to find the meaning of "faunching" as in "faunching in the bit" A co-worker in Maine also uses the word H J, Wyo

It comes from "fauces," which is a gimmick in the throat and has to do with the sound made by clearing the throat It might apply to a horse that crib

Home Hints: Equal quantities of vinegar, mineral oil, and turpentine will remove wax build up from wooden furniture

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: Rain is heavy in central sections and it's snow in the mountains A cold snap hits, sunny, and it's cold with more snow

Greater New York-New Jersey: Rainstorm but mild Cloudy but cold Sprinkles to end the week It's a bit of this, a bit of that, typically

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Heavy rains and warm temperatures, you'd think it might be tropical, but a cold wave is coming instead Cloudy, rain

Keeps Your Diesel Running In The Worst Winter Cold!

Fuel filters, separators do nothing to keep diesel fuel from the waxing or gelling that blocks up and clogs fuel lines and filters.

FPPF Polar Power contains FPPF's Fuel Power and FPPF's Polarized Diesel Fuel Flow Improver, the industry's leaders. It will keep your diesel running in the worst winter cold: lowering the pour-point, totally dispersing water, eliminating gum/varnish...outperforming all other additives and at lower cost.

OPINION

Test Layers

The small layer industry — the backyard farmers with flocks from under 1,000 to 20,000 birds — should look to test their flocks.

A law signed into effect on Feb. 15 has made it mandatory that all layer flocks be tested on a regular basis for Salmonella enteritidis (SE). No farm is exempt, even the backyard farms.

According to the Keystone Ag Digest, egg production for December 1989 totalled 450 million. The total number of layers on hand averaged 19.6 million during December and production per 100 layers was 2,302 eggs. Annual egg production in Pennsylvania for the year ending November 30, 1989 was 5.23 billion eggs, and placed Pennsylvania in fourth place in total U.S. egg production.

That's a lot of eggs.

While most of the large commercial industries with 20,000-60,000 layers have their own testing programs or cooperate closely with the state in testing their birds, the small farms must seek help to comply with the new rules.

It's simple. All the small farms have to do is contact their extension office, or call one of the labs listed in this issue of Lancaster Farming, to find out how to test for SE.

Farmers must keep in mind that SE can be detected and treated. While SE poses no health threat to the birds themselves, if the disease is transmitted to layers and ends up in the eggs, people can become sick if they do not cook the eggs.

Summer is also a likely time for the disease to spread, because eggs are not always refrigerated until they are cooked. According to the Penn State Department of Poultry Science, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture is developing a proposal to change the standards for marketing eggs in Pennsylvania. Proposed regulations would require that eggs be cooled to an internal temperature of 45 degrees F before being delivered to retailers and held at that temperature until being purchased by consumers. But even now, proper handling and cooking of the eggs will elminate most, if not all, cases of SE infection.

With the producer, the marketing chain and the consumer working together, we'll have no problem at all.

NOW IS THE TIME

To Apply Poultry Manure Sparingly

With the large poultry population in this region, poultry manure is in good supply. Since poultry manure may contain from 15 pounds to nearly 50 pounds of nitrogen per ton, depending on moisture and litter content, over application can burn crops and result in disappointments. Gardeners should not be using heavy amounts of fresh manure in their soils. On cropland it is recommended that poultry manure applications be limited to not more than 5 to 7 tons of 75% moistsure content per acre.

Keep in mind that some poultry manure may contain up to 50 pounds of nitrogen per ton and can burn seeds and crop roots. Poultry manure is also the highest in phosphorus and potash of any of our farm manures. It has excellent fertilizer value when used propertly.

The 1989-90 Agronomy Guide (page 19) gives additional details about the fertilizer values of farm manures. The Agronomy Guide is available through any extension office in Pennsylvania for a $5.00 fee.

To Recycle Paper

Many people are interested in recylcing paper, and farmers want newspaper for use as bedding materials for farm animals. According to Glenn Shirk, Extension Dairy Agent, the challenge is to connect the supply with the demand.

Businesses have been formed for collecting, processing and merchandising recycled paper as bedding material. Some farmers are inviting people to bring newspaper to their farm. Others are giving donations to local groups for conducting paper drives.

If you want to recycle newspaper but have no outlet for it, create a deposit site in your community or place of work, and contact a farmer for periodic delivery or pickup. If you do not know a farmer, try advertising in a local paper or place posters in local farm stores.

To Remove Trash

Landowners along rural roads are the victims of people who have little respect for the property of others. Too many people are dumping trash in fields along the road. In all cases when this is dumped on pastures or cropland, the trash should be removed before spring growth begins. This trash will be hard on farm equipment when on cropland and may be poisonous to livestock when on pastureland.

We urge property owners to remove the trash in the next week or two. If any type of identification can be made, as to the owner of the trash, this should be reported to Township officials; prosecution can be made for dumping trash along the highway.

To Be Patient

This is the time of year that we are under strain and pressure to get a lot of jobs under way for the planting season. It also means that we are not as patient with people and livestock. Let's be careful, as we move our cattle around, and not give them that extra slap or prod to try to speed up movement. Keep in mind, that extra shove or push could have an effect on production. Cows can "sense" the change in pace and temperament and respond with a little less production.

There is a great deal of activity in the spring season, but let's not take it out on our cattle. Be patient and try to maintain a relaxed schedule as we move our livestock around. It'll pay off in the milk check.

We find that in the best producing herds the animals are relaxed and the workers are relaxed. This tells us something about the tender loving care that cattle needs.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE CHOICE
March 18, 1990

Background Scripture:
John 11:47-53; 18:1-14
Devotional Reading:
John 17:1-11

It would be interesting for each of us to attempt to rewrite the story of Jesus' betrayal and arrest in the Garden of Gethsemane. Some of us, the "macho" wing, that is, would probably follow Peter's attack on the high priest's slave with each of the disciples brandishing a sword and defending their Master with a vigorous attack, either routing or killing the arresting party. Another variation would have Peter striking out, not at the slave of the high priest, but Judas. If anyone suffered for this terrible deed, surely it should have been him.

Another scenario someone might suggest would have Jesus denying that he was the one they sought, slipping away from his captors so that he could continue to preach the Gospel. This would appeal to those who believe that martyrdom is often a wasted expenditure of life. Then too, Jesus might have met his foes with a withering denunciation. They might arrest him, but not before he had made a ringing defense of his innocence.

Choices Not Taken

Those are just some of the ways in which any of us might have reacted in that situation. But Jesus did not choose any of these scenarios. He did not hide, but said forthrightly: "Whom do you see?" When they said, "Jesus of Nazareth," he replied without evasion: "I am he." And when they seemed uncertain or unable to make the next move, it is Jesus who moves them off dead-center: "I told you that I am he; so, if you seek me, let these men go" (18-8).

Now the question that always divides Christians is whether Jesus sought martyrdom, or simply accepted it. Did Jesus want to go to the cross, or did he merely accept the cross rather than deny the gospel? Did Jesus have to go to the cross, or could he have chosen not to? I truly believe Jesus did not have a choice. I believe he chose freely and his choice was to remain faithful to that for which God had sent him. Jesus did not want to die, I am convinced, but even more than that, he did not want to fail in this mission which God had given him. Accepting death was preferable to accepting defeat.

End or Beginning

So, Jesus did not lie, cheat or steal to get out of his dilemma. He did not "sneak away to fight another day," either. He remained true to his calling as the Christ. You and I can all be glad that he did, for because he was willing to pay that price, the gospel did not die on Calvary, but was resurrected with him. What seemed "the end of it all" became "just the beginning."

Often, we are confronted with the same kinds of choices. We can take a stand for the right, or we can find a way of avoiding the choice. Sometimes, like Jesus, we have to have the courage to stand up and be counted, even if the count is a paltry "one." That's not easy. I know. There have been times when I have rationalized that it would be better to keep my mouth shut then to open it and get in trouble. And sometimes that is good advice: unlike Don Quixote, we cannot joust with every windmill we see.

But there are also times when we must say to ourselves, "This far, but no further." And when that happens, it must never be because the choice was forced on us, but because, like Jesus, we would rather bear the pain and win the crown.

Only Farm Credit Has Loan Officers Who Were Trained In The Field.

While you were growing up on the farm going to 4-H, FFA, maybe even AG school, do you know what your Farm Credit loan officer was doing?

Same thing.

Not many bankers can say that.

True, they can make loans nine ways to Sunday. But, now your Farm Credit loan officer can, too. Over the last few years our people have gone through extensive training at making every kind of farm loan imaginable. Now a Farm Credit loan officer can give you the lowdown on rates, options and creative financing as well as any city banker can.

And around here, our Farm Credit loan officers have the power of approval that's equal to most bank presidents.

So the next time you need to get a farm loan, think about this for just a moment.

Then let one of our Farm Credit loan officers prove to you what we've been saying all along.

That bankers can't be farmers.

But farmers can be bankers.

PLANT MORE MILK.

More milk per acre means more profit per acre, and W-L Alfalfas have proven their advantage - in milk and in dollars.

For example, WL317 produced 148 pounds of milk per acre over the top competitors in recent tests conducted by W-L Research. The results were derived from a program that calculates milk production based of forage quality. These tests clearly show that, pound for pound, it means more to a dairyman to plant higher quality alfalfa with high yields, than to plant a high-yielding alfalfa with lower quality.

The potential dollars per acre advantage using W-L Alfalfa came in at $92 greater milk yield per acre over the top competing varieties. And, that milk per acre value advantage with W-L Alfalfa adds up to greater profitability.

Time after time, top producers have selected W-L Alfalfa varieties that reward them with high quality, low cost feed.

It all adds up to more milk - and more profit - per acre.

Plant W-L Alfalfas.

to light-duty finishing harrows

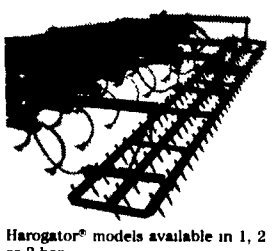
If you're leaving your seedbed rough consider the alternative. Heavy-duty Harogator® tillage tools from Unverferth.

The Harogator® mounted harrow is a perfect tillage tool following a field cultivator, disk or chisel plow. Mounted directly to your existing equipment, it allows one-trip seedbed preparation. Because of its heavy-duty, rigid structure, the Harogator® breaks up clods, fills in pockets and levels soil to produce a superior seedbed.

The UM Harogator® mounted harrow is available in 1-bar, 2-bar and 3-bar models. Standard widths and folding wing extensions have been designed to match your existing implements. It's the perfect companion tool to mount directly on your field cultivator, disk or chisel plow.

Put an end to poor seedbed preparation with the alternative. Harogator® For more information and the name of your dealer, contact Unverferth Manufacturing Co., Inc., P.O. Box 357, Kalida, OH 45853. 1-800-322-6301 in the U.S. • 419-532-3121 FAX 419-532-2468 • Telex 265026

Harogator® wing mounted harrows are designed to fold along with the implement for transport



Harogator® models available in 1, 2 or 3 bar

asks Ernie Miller

Berks county dairyman Ernie Miller is vice chairman of the State Ag Republicans.

You can make the difference

We need registered Republican farmers and agribusiness people to help in key House and Senate races.

A switch of three seats in the fall elections will give Republicans control of the Pennsylvania House.

Two races could decide who controls the state senate.

Join Ag Republicans and get the job done. Write for our free brochure at the address below.

In 1989, our Democrat governor signed a proclamation making March 20 meatless day in Pennsylvania.

It wonders me.

Didn't his advisors tell him agriculture is Pennsylvania's No. 1 industry?

Didn't he know that state farmers rang up $2,357,800,000 in 1988 from livestock and livestock products alone?

Or didn't he care?

The governor got the word for his "Great American Meatout Day" from those true sons of the soil — the Farm Animal Reform Movement. Only one other governor followed suit.

These FARM yahoos want to make us all vegetarians. Believe me. They visualize Pennsylvania green with broccoli and rural roads lined with cords of zucchini.

I keep visualizing ham and eggs without the ham. And chicken pot pie without chicken

Frankly, the governor just doesn't know what good is.

Next Tuesday is March 20. If the governor again proclaims meatless day, there's always currant-glazed squash with orange rice stuffing. Awk!

Me? I'm going to help elect a Republican governor and stop all this nonsense.

FARMING FOR THE FUTURE with

Model AW11BQ—4480 c/w transporter▲ pulling corn planter on one pass.

◀John VanDorp— Woodstock, Ontario Dairy and hog operation

"The Aer-Way is playing an important role in my soil-building program, and saving me fuel and labor at the same time."

Most of my farm is on rolling ground that is highly erodible. I was losing too much soil. This made it necessary for me to look at alternative tillage practices.

I found the Aer-Way to be an excellent tool for tilling the soil and relieving compaction while maintaining maximum residue cover for protection from wind and rain.

The Aer-Way works great with my legume cover crop system. The tool can be adjusted to till the soil without destroying the established growth that provides protection for wintering, while it opens the soil to allow the water to soak in.

On corn, I use the roller working angle at either 7½ or 10. On my corn ground, I Aer-Way in the fall to partially incorporate the stalks. This helps to hold the soil and water on my hillsides and speeds up the rot-down of the residue. The Aer-Way only uses between five to six horsepower per foot of working width, so on my land I can use a smaller tractor. In the spring time, I hitch the planter directly to the back of my Aer-Way. This enables me to work and plant the field in one pass.

Due to the additional amounts of protective surface residue, I had to add a set of trash whippers to my existing corn planter. This tillage practice is helping me keep the soils in good shape for future use.

Alfalfa/Pasture. I set the roller working angle to either 0 or 2½ . Each season I use the Aer-Way on my hay and pastureland to alleviate the compaction caused from all the fertilizing and harvesting traffic. The Aer-Way ground allows the moisture and fertilizer to soak into the soil for better absorption by the roots. This allows me to maximize my fertilizer dollar.

Weigh the Benefits
LORSBAN*15G crushes rootworm and cutworm... and doesn't stop there.
Controls primary pests — LORSBAN* 15G granular insecticide is the only soil insecticide that provides excellent control of rootworm, in addition to all species of cutworm.
Broad spectrum control — LORSBAN 15G also controls pests like grubs, seed corn maggots, wireworms and flea beetle larvae.
Not a Restricted Use Product — LORSBAN 15G has the signal word "caution" on the label, not the more hazardous "warning" or "danger" designation. In fact, LORSBAN 15G is one of the least hazardous to handle of all the soil insecticides.
All these benefits add up to the heaviest return on your insecticide investment. See your chemical dealer for LORSBAN 15G or call 1-800-258-CHEM for more information.

Dairy Council Inc. Survives Test Of Time

Philip Milhouse leads a fifth grade class in singing a medley of milk promotion songs as part of entertainment during Dairy Council Inc.'s 70th annual meeting.

Milk Marketing Agency (local dairy promotion group) to promote the consumption of milk in Sharswood.

As part of the promotion, the children who were considered winners were taken to a Philadelphia 76ers basketball team practice and game.

In reviewing past annual reports, Stanton said "I was surprised to see that working with athletes to promote good nutrition is not something new for Dairy Council. In the 1950s, the well-known Philadelphia Phillie (baseball) Curt Simmons was on the staff of Dairy Council in the off-season."

She said that Simmons used to visit high schools and lecture on the importance of nutrition and physical activity. He had visited 135 schools in 1958.

In 1972, the first comprehensive nutrition curriculum was introduced by the council, followed by an elementary program, she said.

Last year, the elementary program was revised and re-introduced to elementary grades, she said.

"1989 was a major year for promoting this new curriculum and over 2,500 kits were sold in our area," Stanton said.

"We estimate that more than 100,000 children have been reached with these lessons on sound nutrition."

Community work has also been a tradition with Dairy Council, Stanton said. "In 1935 we established an exhibit at the Franklin Institute and in 1936, Dairy Council sponsored a dairy barn at the Philadelphia zoo."

Both programs saw brief haitus' during World War II, but were resumed and expanded, especially during the 1980s, she said.

She said most recently, an exhibit at the Academy of Natural Sciences called "Cows! Fact and Fancy" had been a "major activity for out staff in 1989." The exhibit ended January.

Also in 1989, Stanton said a project called, "Nutrition Issues for the Black Community," which involved meeting with community leaders and more than a year of "brainstorming and research" resulted in the production of a video called "Barbershop Talk;" a video aimed at black male audience. The video is yet to be released.

According to Stanton, over the years the agency has conducted many projects taking advantage of new technology and results have been successful.

She said the goal of the council now "is to maintain our leadership position."

The 1990 board of directors was also announced during the meeting.

Representing Atlantic Dairy Cooperative are Curtis Akers, H. Karl Beegle, Robert Gehman, Roy W. Hetrick, William N. Hopkins, Robert B. McSparran (president), Ivo V. Otto Jr., Elvin Rohrer, Rhelda Royer, L. Elmer Vickers, and Robert A. Winner.

Lee Ressler represents Eastern Milk Producers on the board. Independent Producers are represented by George Haenlein and David Lee. Distributors are represented by Earl Fink and directors at large include Jesse Burall, Harold Butz Jr., Donald Duncan, John R. Plummer and Dan Wettlin 3rd.

Bucks NFO To Meet

PLUMSTEADVILLE (Bucks Co.) — Dairy farmers are invited to the annual meeting of the Bucks County National Farmers Organization (NFO) on Saturday, March 24 at 7:00 p.m. in the Plumsteadville Fire House.

The NFO is a milk marketing cooperative with locations throughout the country. The Bucks NFO serves about 50 farms and has members in several different counties in Pennsylvania and other states.

Susan Fox, Bedford County Extension Interim Director, talked to members of the Bedford Chamber of Commerce on the subject of agriculture recently.

ford County amounted to $48,462,000. Dairying dollars totaled $33,867,000; meat and animal, 8,492,000; field crops, 3,919,000; poultry, 282,000; vegetables, 169,000; horticulture, 67,000; and government payments, 815,000.

"The main issues in farming today," said Fox, "are, farm labor, rules and regulations, antibiotics, BST (a growth hormone), animal rights, water quality, nutrient management, and LISK."

"And, farmers also have to be concerned about the right to farm, nitrate-n-testing, the bottle law, land use and preservation and newspapers," Fox added. "She stated that newspapers, one of the best forms of bedding for cattle are being looked at in Bedford County. We need storage space and a machine for chopping in order to make it more feasible," she said.

As for the future of farming in the county, Fox told the group that there are a number of determining factors. "There is the Eastern influx of farmers from the Lancaster area," she stated. "A lot of plain people have found this area very attractive. At first, they were not welcomed because they do not mix socially with the other farmers."

"But that's improved," she continued. "These eastern farmers have brought a lot of new and innovative ideas to the farmers here and they also bring a lot of money. Many of them have sold farms in Lancaster for a million dollars and they buy one here for $300,000."

Fox sees a lot of part time farmers in the future as well as a group of "back to nature," farmers. And, she is particularly looking forward to what the future might bring in aquaculture.

"We are going to see more automation," Fox feels. "Europe is looking to automation to save the farm and that is what we are probably going to have to do here."

"We can be proud of the education level of our farmers here in Bedford County," Fox said. "Many of them have college degrees. There are a number of farmers who have sons or daughters who have gone to college and come back to help run the family farm. They're sharp, they keep me on my toes," she confessed.

"One of the most important factors facing the local farm community is land use planning," Fox continued. "Woodbury is the area that is most aware of this and that is because of the efforts of farmer, Dan Smith. Smith was forced out of New Jersey because there was no land use planning. He realizes how vital it is and is making the local people aware of the same issue."

Mark Thomas, vice president of the Chamber asked what this group might do to secure the future of agriculture in Bedford County.

"Get the word out," advised Fox. "Plan farm/city tours or banquets, promote interaction, make yourselves aware."

The Bedford County Chamber of Commerce is a 170-member organization.

DICK BARTH
General Manager,
Pennsylvania DHIA

Members and DHIA supervisors often ask what we are working on for new, or improved services.

It's easy to rattle off a list of dreams, like services that other state associations now offer, but we don't: individual cow pages with production graphs; genetics reports that profile the genetic potential of all cows in the herd; and a heifer management system that helps members manage replacement stock. (We are working on a heifer system at this time).

Certainly it's harder to deliver them than to dream about them.

With time, many of these dreams will become reality as more optional services are offered. They will allow DHIA members to pick the information services they want, presumably those who can maximize their income.

But, offering more and more options creates problems too; such as, how to keep DHIA supervisors trained to provide these services, how to keep educating members and extension agents about using them, and how supervisors and county treasurers will be able to accurately bill members for their services when each member's mix of services is unique. That last problem is the scary part, because 6,000 invoices for service are generated each month by 250 different people.

The only logical answer to some of these problems is a computer-based billing system. Such systems are and have been successfully used in proprietary businesses and utility companies for decades. And they're currently used by the DHIA data processing centers in Raleigh, NC and Ithaca, NY, so we know it can be done successfully in PA DHIA.

The impact of optional services will be seen in other ways too, because the one person affected most will likely be the DHIA supervisor.

There will be more to know, perhaps more to do, while at the members' farms. And making out an invoice at the farm is not a good use of supervisor time when a computerized system can do that for him.

Certainly supervisor pay systems will also need to be changed to provide incentives for them to be actively involved in, and knowledgable about, a continually changing mix of services. That means a centrally operated payroll and benefits system will also be needed.

These operational changes will have a big impact on local DHI associations and their treasurers because there will be virtually no money collection or payroll responsibilities at the local level.

Billing and payroll will occur directly from State College, and payments for all services will eventually be received there. It's doubtful that local treasurers will be needed at all, and that means that the cost of employing one can be avoided altogether.

These changes are part of the plan for reorganization that has been developed for DHIA in Pennsylvania. They will provide accurate, efficient billing and payroll services cheaply, and eliminate the massive confusion and frustration that will result from many optional services being billed through many different organizations.

If we work together to make it work right, it won't be scary.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's this week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

How Does Your Herd Compare?

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — This data is pulled from Pennsylvania DHIA's mainframe computer each week. It is a one-week summary representing approximately one-fourth of the herds on test, as they are tested monthly.

These data are valuable from a business management standpoint and can be used for comparing your operations to the averages from almost 1,400 herds across the state.

Doebler's dared to stay small

by Willard Jones

I'm Willard Jones, Doebler's sales manager.
Hands-on management means high quality seed.

The Doeblers never did want to go national. Or even cover the full Northeast.

We've seen too many midwest companies with expansionitis. They rush into the East with a lot of hoopla, only to have their hybrids self-destruct.

Soils here aren't the same. Air circulation is lousy. Hot, muggy air just stands in the rows. Disease thrives.

The Doebler family does better because we farm here. Because we've been in the seed business here 55 years.

At Doebler's, we only take on what the family can handle. And we think this hands-on management has paid off. For you as well as us.

Quality seed in every bag

Don't kid yourself. Some seed firms only give you 90% of the hybrid seed you paid for. The rest is junk seed like selfers and float-ins. Doebler's gives you 98% pure seed.

Battered seed can clip yields, too. That's why Doebler takes it slow and easy from corn picker to bagger. Check the difference.

Supplies tight on some hybrids

Order now and your dealer can still get you most Doebler hybrids. But these popular hybrids are sold out: 59X, 70XSS. These are getting tight: 84XP, 66XP, 57XP.

Bushel power in every bag

DOEBLER 86XA, 119 days. Our 1989 leader among full season hybrids, with a 202.9 bu. high. Ten best average, 171.6 bu. Sturdy stalks. Good disease resistance.

DOEBLER 75X, 113 days. No hybrid has dominated the East quite like 75X. All-time bushel record in PA, and silage record in VA. 1989 best: 197.5 bu. in Ohio.

DOEBLER 66XP, 103 days. Cornell's top recommendation for Medium Maturity hybrids. It was 17 bu. better than average of '88 plots. Super standup. Super vigor.

DOEBLER 57XP, 97 days. Watch it shell. Two yields over 225 bu. in 1987. 199 bu. average in Cornell 1988 tests. Popped 184.2 bu. at Newtown, PA in 1989. Sturdy.

DOEBLER 35XP, 84 days. Outslugged 48XE by 9 bu. in 1987 side by side comparisons. Less than 1% stalk loss in 1989 New York trials. 1989 best: 142.3 bu.

DOEBLER 28XP, 80 days. Class of our 200 series. Solid 142.7 bu. in recent Northern PA trials. Healthy. Great stalks. NY best in 1989: 145.3 bu. at Odessa.

Ephrata Agway Expands Product Lines

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — An expanding local community has increasing demands on agricultural businesses, according to Henry Hoover, owner of an Agway Inc. store located in Ephrata.

And, in order "to better meet the needs of people in different ways," Hoover said he built a 6,200 square foot addition to display the business's diversified line of products.

Starting Thursday and running through Saturday, March 24, Hoover is holding an open house to better acquaint customers with the expanded line of products.

"We enlarged and expanded the lawn and garden, water treatment and pet food lines," Hoover said. "We did it for two reasons," he said.

According to Hoover, "The (store) area was too small. And I felt that, since the community is expanding with more urbanization, there are a lot more lawns and pets. And since our water quality is not the best, there's been a big demand for water treatment systems — we do installing and servicing."

This is not the first expansion for the business, located just north of Ephrata on Rt. 322. The history of the store has been to expand, ever since Henry Hoover Sr. first started selling feed to local farmers for Eastern States during the 1930s.

In the 1940s, a warehouse and office were built in town along railroad tracks so boxcars could be unloaded right next to the warehouse. Then, almost 10 years after Eastern States merged with other feed companies to form Agway Inc., Hoover Jr. built the present store, warehouse and offices. A little later, a customized fertilizer blend plant was added, at the rear of the property.

Growth continued in 1980 with a 6,000 square foot warehouse built to west end of the building. Now, the showroom floor and repair shop for lawn and garden equipment has been added.

Those who attend to open house will find that the Ephrata Agway will continue to offer a complete line of feeds, seeds, and other products for the commercial farmer, Hoover said. But now, with the greater depth in product lines, the store carries a items to accommodate the home gardener and landscaper, the pet owner (not only cats and dogs, but rabbits, parakeets, guinea pigs . . .), and those who need to care for their homes.

Refreshments are to be available during the open house and employees will be on hand to answer questions. Hoover said he is also going to have special pricing on certain items during the three-day open house.

"We now have everything needed to make things grow, as long as we have the rain," Hoover said.

Charles Chance David Chance

Coming in with Maryland's lowest somatic cell count (SSC), Charles and David Chance's herd was also among the top 15 Kent County production herds, based on energy correct milk.

A low SSC indicates a healthy herd. Somatic cells are given off by the cow when foreign material is in the mammary gland.

In addition to being top SSC testing in Maryland, the average 71.6 milking herd at the Chances' Chandale Farm produced an average 17,610 pounds milk, 688 pounds butterfat, and 572 protein, which corrected to 18,786 pounds of milk.

Named Kent County's Outstanding Dairymen, were Robert and Eileen Brink, also of Worton. Their dairy herd's corrected production ranked second in the county, although third when compared to straight pounds of milk.

The Brinks received the title of Oustanding Dairymen based on leading the county with the most ideal herd management practices. Among these are herd average milk and fat, calving interval, days open, days to first breeding, services per conception, days dry, age at first calving, culling rates and number of animals in the herd.

The Brinks' 68 average milk herd produced 21,584 pounds milk, 793 pounds fat, and 689 pounds of protein. The corrected production averaged 22,288 pounds.

Robert and Eileen Brink sit and review DHIA records, with a trophy that names the couple Kent County's Oustanding Dairymen adorning their table.

New Program Allows Dairy Farmers To Designate Milk As Gift

AKRON — A new agreement with the Atlantic Dairy Cooperative in Southhampton, will allow dairy farmers in the region to designate a portion of their milk to Mennonite Central Committee (MCC).

The value of the donated milk will be deposited in an MCC account at the dairy cooperative. MCC will then purchase milk from the cooperative to produce powdered milk which will be fortified with vitamin A and shipped overseas. MCC will also be able to draw cash from the account to pay for costs of shipping the milk powder.

"This is kind of a dream come true," says John Hostetler, MCC Material Resources coordinator, who has been working on and off to establish such a program since the early 1980s. Two area Mennonites, board members of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, helped make it happen -- J. Wade Groff of Lancaster and Dan Martin of Manheim.

The arrangement is similar to one that has been going on in Kansas for decades, says Hostetler. There, farmers regularly designate a portion of their wheat crop to MCC. In the past as much as 20,000 bushels of wheat were donated annually to MCC, he notes.

The need for donated milk is great, says Hostetler. Throughout the 1980s MCC received milk powder, as much as 500 metric tons a year, for shipment overseas via the Canadian Dairy Commission. Money for the transfer was provided by CIDA, the Canadian International Development Agency. In 1989, however, with less milk available on the world market, MCC was able to get only 200 metric tons of milk powder from Canada.

Now, with contributions given through the Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, MCC will be able to fill requests for milk powder from Nicaragua, Guatemala, Sudan, India, Egypt, Haiti and Honduras.

Sharing milk powder overseas is a delicate situation, notes Hershey Leaman, MCC Food Aid coordinator. The powder, for example, can be more detrimental than helpful when it encourages mothers to stop nursing infants, or when it is mixed with unsanitary water. So MCC ships milk powder only to areas where use can be monitored or where MCC personnel are available to help ensure its beneficial use.

"We hope this project is the beginning of a nationwide effort among dairy cooperatives," concludes Hostetler. "We look forward to a good response from dairy farmers in the east, and believe others will be able to arrange similar programs elsewhere."

What looks like something from a movie producer's creative mind is a workable proto-type that will be marketed in the US in the next two to five years. The University of Maryland has been designated as the US research facility to continue the development of the machine into a practical product.

Rick VanRinsum, Gascoigne Melotte, said his company's main objective is to create systems that will be able to do automatically the repetitive things that happen on a dairy farm.

No one in the audience seemed to question that the process of attaching milking machines to a herd of dairy cows every morning and evening was repetitive. But some farmers were not sure the docile aged cow in the video was representative of the species. One man pointed out that the things that go on between a first-calf heifer's back legs may cause a different reaction.

"I can just see one of my heifers kick $50,000 damage out of that robot the first time through," he said.

Another farmer thought the system was made for people like this editor who wanted to keep a job in town and have a herd of cows in his back yard.

But the company expects to have real-farm systems available within two to five years. And after this new idea sank into one farmer's thinking, and he contemplated the possibility he may some day be able to stay in bed Sunday morning while the robot did the milking, he said, "You never know, it may work."

WISCONSIN'S NEW BAR CODE SYSTEM

From Wisconsin, Pete Giacomini told how their DHIA was ready to implement a hand-held data unit into their regular testing program. This unit records bar codes and matches each cow with her records and each sample vile cap with the computer link in the testing laboratory. As the milk samples move through the testing system, the bar coded vial lids are automatically removed and read by a bar code scanner. This information is run together with the information from the on-farm hand-held unit. All the information comes together by computer and the farm reports are quickly provided.

"The major usefulness in the new system is the identification of individual milk samples," Giacomini said. "The decrease in paper work, along with increased accuracy and speed will help the new system pay for itself."

Thirty herds are now on the system and another 600 herds are ready to go on next month. A complete turn over to the system will be phased in this summer.

PARASITES

Terry Skogerboe, DVM, Pfizer, discussed deworming practices and listed the life cycle of common internal cattle parasites as follows:

Grazing cattle ingest infective-stage parasite larvae with grass. The adult worms inhabit the gastrointestinal tract and eggs are passed out in the feces onto the pasture. These eggs hatch and develop in the feces and migrate onto the grass. The grazing cattle ingest the larvae and the life cycle of the parasite continues. This cycle has a tremendous potential for infection and reinfection throughout the grazing period.

Skogerboe said the goal for treatment was to prevent or limit the parasites' contact with the host animal by eliminating the adult worms in the animal before they are turned out to graze. In addition, the cows should be wormed at calving and in the fall to eliminate parasites that have been picked up through the grazing season. The trade-marked Rumatel product was recommended as a safe-effective way to deal with the parasite problem and defeat the economic liabilities of parasitism.

TECHNOLOGY

Lew Parker, ProScience, said that within the last few years, technology has been developed to detect very small quanities of substances. "One drop of antibotics in the swimming pool of 30,000 gal. could be detected," Parker said. "And we could tell you what kind and how much was there. An error with one cow can cause a detectable residue in the pool of milk from 70,000 cows.

"Fortunately for the dairy producer, the same technology is there to help him as well as regulate him. DHIA is in perfect position to deliver these techniques to the dairyman. With 2000 supervisors and 54 labs across the country, no one else has the capability to analyze samples like DHIA."

CEO REPORT

Frank Dickinson, chief executive officer, said the organization was and always will be run in a business-like manner, following the direction of the elected delegates. He said trends show a continuing long-term gain in market share seems to be one of the main signs of a successful state or regional DHIA.

Dickinson said the quality certification service procedures were up-dated and informational data bases were established for the central labs. DHIA Services, an arm of the national association, established the Staph Aureus test that positioned National DHIA to provide new technology to the entire dairy industry.

"DHIA has the unique capability to analyze hugh numbers of milk samples," Dickinson said. "We have an unmatched, nation-wide network of employees, transportation and communications. We have the ability to analyze and provide information for virtually all dairymen in the country."

KINDIG LISTS OBJECTIVES

President Robert Kindig said the people who established National DHIA 25 years ago, had forsight and should be proud of what has been accomplished. "We find ourselves benefiting from these years of progress," Kindig said. "And now we find ourselves at the threshold of a new decade."

Kindig listed ten objectives for the National DHIA operations in the 90's.

* Assist state DHIA's to increase their market share.
* Insure more efficient ways to collect on-farm records.
* Insure state DHIA's increase the quality of their internal operations.
* Provide leadership in identification, analyzation and promotion of new dairy technology.
* Insure high quality information to farmers.
* Represent DHIA amoung other organizations, nationally and internationally.
* Sponsor selective high-value educational programs to state DHIA's.
* Communicate with member all states. In addition, uniform SE monitoring procedures will be carried out. APHIS will promulgate the new regulations controlling interstate shipment of chicks and materials from infected flocks. APHIS will investigate any violations and test and certify flocks under the plan guidelines.

However, voluntary testing of commercial flocks can still be undertaken by owners. States and the Agricultural Marketing Service will regulate interstate movement of contaminated eggs from positive flocks.

At the U.S. Annual Health Association (USAHA) meeting, several resolutions were passed. In a nutshell, they are:

- USAHA requests USDA and Health and Human Services to make funds and other resources available to provide for further development of action videotapes on safe food-handling procedures.
- USAHA should develop a task force in cooperation with USDA, Health and Human Services, state agencies, and the poultry industry to develop a control program for SE in the egg industry.
- USAHA requests the USDA to develop a contingency plan for the eradication of SE Phage Type 4 if it is introduced into the poultry flocks in the U.S.

Founded in 1897, the association is an organization of federal animal health control officials, representatives of livestock and poultry organizations, and state, federal, and industrial research workers, according to Egg Industry

Eliminate bacteria

Irriradiated food can eliminate disease-causing bacteria such as Salmonella, reports the Council for Agricultural Science and Technology (CAST). Eggs, poultry, seafood, and red meats can be treated.

According to the "Report on Food Irradiation" from the Penn State Ag Information Services, this safe process kills the parasites in pork that cause trichinosis and can be used instead of chemicals for decontaminating cereals, spices, and dried vegetable seasonings.

High doses produce sterile meat products that can be stored at room temperature in sealed containers without spoilage. Substerilizing doses are useful in extending the shelf life of fresh meats, seafoods, and some fruits and vegetables, according to the Ag Information Service.

The report, prepared by a task force of 26 experts, chaired by Edward S. Josephson of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, says that food irradiation has been studied more than any other method of food processing, and no unfavorable health effects have been found. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration, the World Health Organization, and 34 nations have accepted irradiated food as safe for human consumption. The 98-page report is entitled "Ionizing Energy In Food Processing" and is available for $10 as report No. 115 from CAST, 127 Lynn Ave., Ames, Iowa 50010.

Flocks checked

According to the October 1989 PennAg Journal, the state agriculture department and Pennsylvania's poultry industry have been working together to prevent contamination of chicken eggs by SE. Under agreements signed by producers, egg-laying flocks are checked to certify that only eggs from salmonella-negative birds are packed for the shell-egg market.

The division of Avian Health has responsibility for these new programs.

Max A. Van Buskirk, Jr., V.M.D., director of the Bureau of Animal Industry, said the department conducts "tracebacks in cooperation with the health department in Pennsylvania or in other states in order to identify table-egg producing flocks that could be infected with SE," he said. "If an egg supply is linked to an outbreak of SE, the Department works with the egg producer so he can divert his eggs to proper channels until laboratory testing can identify the problem, if one exists."

Eggs stored

Eggs are sometimes stored in nonrefrigerated warehouses in the summer. In addition, they are often shipped in nonrefrigerated trucks and stocked, in room temperature, in aisles in supermarkets.

Because eggs are often stored under warm conditions in the summer, favorable for the growth of SE, the disease is more common during that time than in the winter, when temperatures are cooler and keep the bacteria from growing.

"The egg was never considered

Lynda Champlin, a poultry technician at the Summerdale laboratory, uses specific antigens to determine the presence of salmonella antibodies in chicken blood serum. The presence of antibodies is demonstrated by agglutination of the serum. QUALITY ASSURANCE

John Adams, National Milk Producers Federation, discussed a veterinarian/producer drug control check-list that has be developed to address the animal drug residue problem. The new program makes several points.

Farmers need to reduce dependence on drug therapy and raise the level of herd health management. They need to use only approved drugs and establish a valid relationship with their veterinarian.

A treatment records system needs to be in place on each farm and all drugs on hand must comply with storage requirements. Each farm should have proper drug testing capabilities, and employees should be informed about the proper use of drugs.

A new program is prepared to provide producers and veterinarians across the nation with educational materials and contract forms. This program is targeted for fall implementation to help the dairy industry to comply with the food safety and drug residue laws.

Don Wesen, National Mastitis Council, said the dairy industry needs to review the withdrawal times of medications, have a cow-side test for each residue, remove non-compliance drugs from the milking areas, have serious enforcement of the laws and use a confirmatory method for screening tests.

At the anual banquet Tuesday evening, Clyde & Marie Robinson, Pennsylvania's DHIA president, who has served the dairy industry for more than 40 years, was given the distinguished leadership award. Dr. Frank Sargent, North Carolina DHIA, received the National DHIA service award.

The annual meeting in 1991 will held in Baltimore, Maryland.

Dr. Frank Sargent, extension service, North Carolina, received the outstanding service award.

Federal Order 4 February Milk Price Down

ALEXANDRIA, VA— Middle Atlantic Order Market Administrator Joseph D. Shine recently announced a February 1990 base milk price of $15.63 per hundredweight annd an excess milk price of $12.26.

The weighted average February price was $15.26 and the butterfat differential for the month was 12.4 cents.

The base milk price was down 64 cents from January but was $2.02 higher than last February. The weighted average price was down 80 cents from January but was $1.98 higher than a year earlier.

The gross value of February producer milk was $71.0 million, compared to $65.8 million a year ago.

Shine said that producer receipts totaled 466.7 million pounds during February, a decrease of 29.9 million pounds from last February, and the average daily delivery of 2,996 pounds per producer decreased 12 pounds or 0.4 percent from a year earlier.

Class I producer milk totaled 242.5 million pounds and was virtually unchanged from last February. Class I milk accounted for 51.96 percent of total producer milk receipts during the month, compared with 48.84 percent in February 1989.

Base milk accounted for 88.94 percent of total producer milk receipts in February compared with 86.05 percent last year.

The average butterfat test of producer milk was 3.68 percent, down from 3.76 percent last February.

Middle Atlantic Order pool handlers reported Class I in-area milk sales of 207.5 million pounds during February, an increase of 1.0 percent from a year earlier.

NFU Convention Demands That FmHA Policy Continue

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. — Congress must continue the loan servicing programs of the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) on the basis of the current least cost policy, according to the National Farmers Union. (NFM).

By unanimous vote of delegates to the farm organization's convention recently, a resolution to help keep farmers and ranchers on the land was adopted and immediately transmitted to a hearing in Washington, D.C. being conducted by the Senate Agriculture Subcommittee on Credit.

"You can't get anymore direct than this," said NFU President Leland Swenson. "People who are directly affected by this issue are telling Congress that a sensible FmHA debt-servicing policy must be continued."

The least-cost policy requires FmHA to restructure debt rather than foreclose on a delinquent borrower when it is less costly to the government to do so.

Congress adopted the policy in the 1987 Agricultural Credit Act because FmHA had been foreclosing on some borrowers without consideration as to whether it would be less costly to restructure or write-down the debt, Swenson explained.

Delegates from the 23 states which comprise the National Farmers Union made it clear they were opposed to amendments which would weaken current loan servicing options to producers.

"There are people who want to limit the eligibility of FmHA borrowers for restructuring and debt write-downs," Swenson said. "The position our delegates have taken makes it clear that Congress should continue this program for family farmers and ranchers."

Swenson said the policy makes financial sense because loan restructuring often costs the government less than foreclosure actions.

"The idea made sense in 1987," Swenson said.

a perishable food by the FDA," said Kradel.

Legislation proposing that eggs be refrigerated is now being considered and may pass into law in the future, according to Kradel.

Pennsylvania flocks

According to the PennAg Journal, in one case, a traceback from another state led the Avian Health Division to a Pennsylvania flock. To protect consumers, the egg producer immediately diverted all suspect eggs to a processing plant for pasteurization while the flock was tested.

"The success of all the current phases of existing SE programs is yet to be determined," said Kradel. "The cost of food production must ultimately be reflected in the cost of the product to the consumer. Rigorous risk: benefit analyses are needed to better quantify the economic tradeoffs for controlling Salmonellosis and other food-born infections.

"Reducing or eliminating these bacteria in the production environment may be very difficult if not impossible, and will cost money," Kradel said.

Next issue: The Bureau of Animal Industry Laboratory in Summerdale, Pennsylvania performs SE diagnostic testing.

Ag Auction Set April 7

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — At 9:00 a.m. sharp on April 7, the harmonious tone of an auctioneer's voice with the sharp crack of a gavel sounding — SOLD! will echo across the Gratz Fairgrounds.

The first auctioneer's voice to be heard is that of Mervin Adams, as he starts the Fifth Annual Consignment Sale benefitting the Dauphin County Agriculture and Natural Resources Center. The fairgrounds are in the Borough of Gratz, 18 miles east of Millersburg on Route 25.

Owned by the Dauphin County Conservation District, the center relies on a continuing fund-raising campaign to assist with operational costs as well as repayment of its construction loan. The Conservation District's Director Merv Adams considers it an honor to coordinate this extensive sale. " It's heartwarming to have the donated services of 10 auctioneers and the hundreds of man-hours provided by some 50 volunteers," he said.

"Folks, this is the auction that has something of interest for everyone. In six years it has grown into the largest consignment sale in Dauphin County," said Adams. A fairground full of items will keep up to four auctioneers going all day concurrently in different areas.

More than 850 registered buyers enjoyed last year's sale. A large turnout is expected on April 7.

Do I hear $20? $25? Sold for $20! will be the auctioneer's chant at the 6th annual consignment sale on April 7, starting at 9:00 a.m. on the Gratz Fairgrounds. The auction benefits the Dauphin County Agriculture and Natural Resources Center.

Many of the items that will go up on the auction block were donated to the Conservation District to increase its fund-raising.

A sampling of items to be offered are dozens of lawn and garden tractors, farm tractors, tillage/planting/haying equipment, trucks, nursery stock, contractor tools, shop and hand tools, lime/stone/concrete, household goods, along with a limited amount of antiques and collectables. All will go to the highest bidders. For a detailed listing, watch the public sale ads in local papers.

The Gratz Fire Company with the Dauphin County 4-H Clubs will operate a food concession, and the Dauphin County Society of Farm Women will conduct a baked goods sale.

Now is the time to register consigned or donated items. To insure smooth operations, all sale items should be consigned by Friday, April 6, 1990. Anyone interested in selling goods can contact Merv Adams at (717) 692-3076 or the Dauphin County Conservation District at (717) 921-8100.

OVER 100 HOUSES SOLD IN THE PAST FOUR YEARS IN THE NORTHEAST!

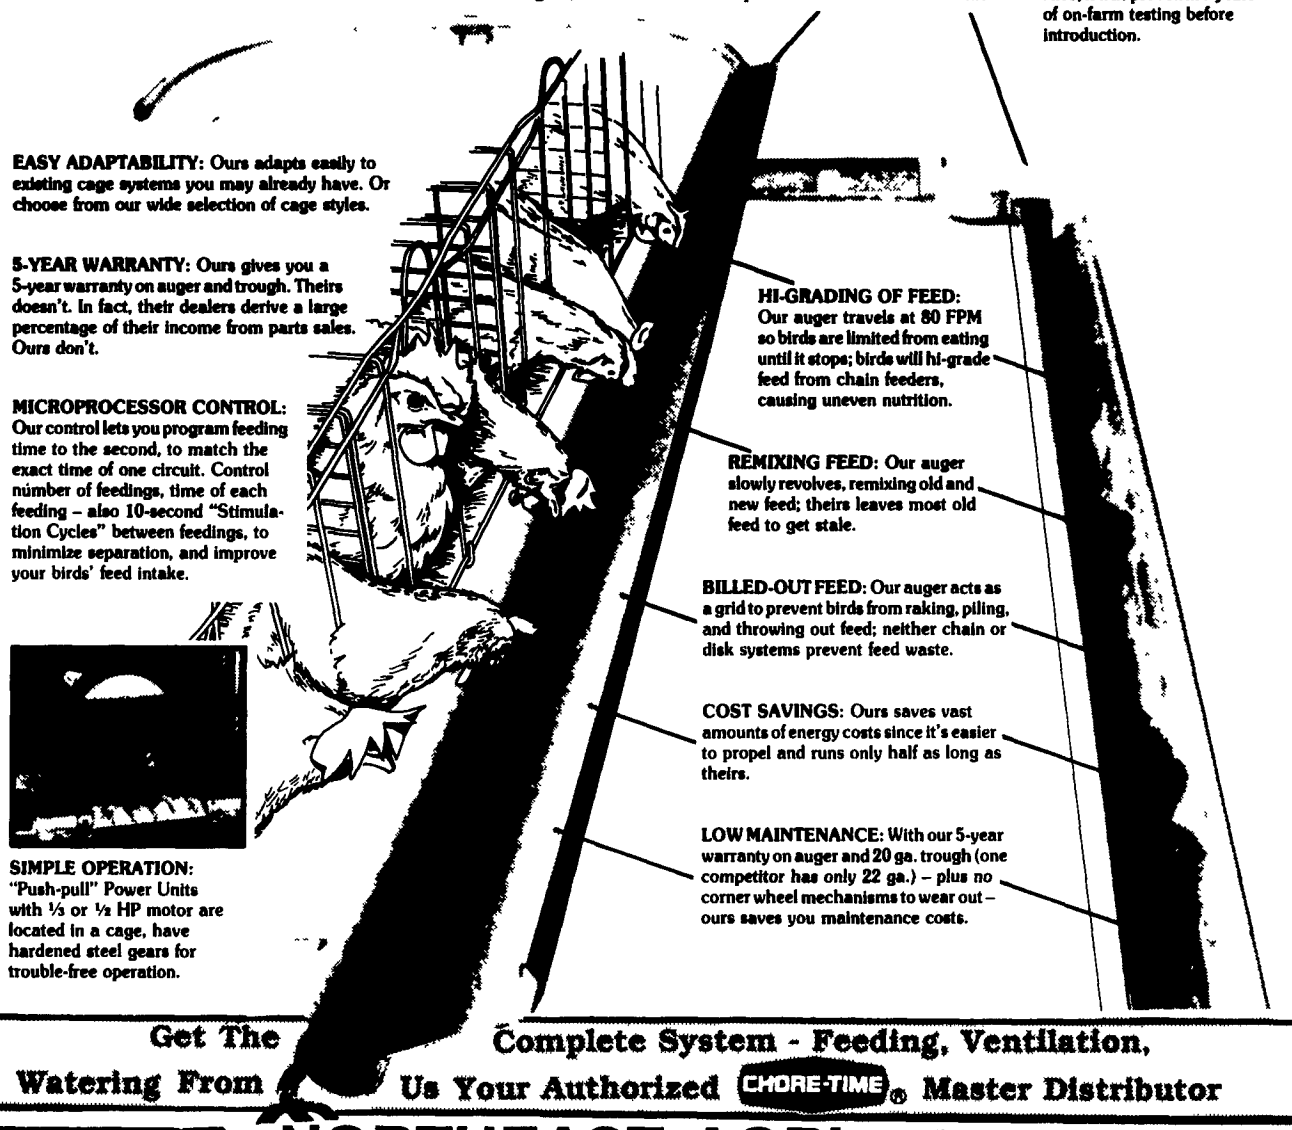
Chore-Time's ULTRAFLO® feeder for layers, pullets and breeders can free you from your chains

We have probably been too modest up to now about the merits of our new generation ULTRAFLO® cage feeder vs. the old style chain feeders some of our competitors are still trying to sell you. In fact, the only negative comments about our feeder come from our competition, not our customers. So we would like to point out the bare facts:

FEED SAVINGS: On-farm results show a feed savings of ½ lb. per 100 birds per day – over $10,000 per year savings on a 100,000-bird house. Year after year.

TROUBLE-FREE DESIGN: Our feeder has only two moving parts – the one-piece auger plus each drive wheel; their chain has more. Our corners are heavy 12 ga. zinc plated tubing for long life; their corners have a reputation for trouble and short life.

PROVEN DESIGN: Over 10 million birds are already on our feeder worldwide. Also, it was proven in 5 years of on-farm testing before introduction.



EASY ADAPTABILITY: Ours adapts easily to existing cage systems you may already have. Or choose from our wide selection of cage styles.

5-YEAR WARRANTY: Ours gives you a 5-year warranty on auger and trough. Theirs doesn't. In fact, their dealers derive a large percentage of their income from parts sales. Ours don't.

MICROPROCESSOR CONTROL: Our control lets you program feeding time to the second, to match the exact time of one circuit. Control number of feedings, time of each feeding – also 10-second "Stimulation Cycles" between feedings, to minimize separation, and improve your birds' feed intake.

HI-GRADING OF FEED: Our auger travels at 80 FPM so birds are limited from eating until it stops; birds will hi-grade feed from chain feeders, causing uneven nutrition.

REMIXING FEED: Our auger slowly revolves, remixing old and new feed; theirs leaves most old feed to get stale.

BILLED-OUT FEED: Our auger acts as a grid to prevent birds from raking, piling, and throwing out feed; neither chain or disk systems prevent feed waste.

COST SAVINGS: Ours saves vast amounts of energy costs since it's easier to propel and runs only half as long as theirs.

LOW MAINTENANCE: With our 5-year warranty on auger and 20 ga. trough (one competitor has only 22 ga.) – plus no corner wheel mechanisms to wear out – ours saves you maintenance costs.

SIMPLE OPERATION: "Push-pull" Power Units with ⅓ or ½ HP motor are located in a cage, have hardened steel gears for trouble-free operation.

buses departing every half hour.

The annual open house features the talents and creativity of students in three curriculums within the college's Ornamental Horticulture Department: floriculture production, floriculture merchandising, and landscape development.

Again this year, faculty adviser for the event is Raymond P. Yelle Jr., associate professor in the landscape development program.

He said the purpose of the show, which dates to 1967, remains the same: to provide students an opportunity to display skills and imagination in producing exhibits that provide pleasure for the public and, at the same time, practical experience for students entering the world of work.

Student co-chairpersons for the 1990 show are seniors Margaret J. O'Neill of LaFargeville (Jefferson County), a floriculture merchandising major; Brian C. Branthoover of Black Lick, Pennsylvania; and Frederick M. Bachner Jr. of Dryden, both floriculture production majors; and freshman Jeffrey P. Didion of Clarence Center, who is majoring in landscape development.

Student coordinators from the horticulture department's three academic areas have organized student teams to work on specific show segments. By curriculums, they are:

- Landscape production: Seniors Bonita K. Collins of Arkport RD 1, Kellie A. Tyler of East Aurora, and freshman Christopher P. Nasca of Hornell.
- Floriculture production: Senior Kathleen M. Conklin of Almond and freshman Gene Pakozdi of Wellsville.
- Floriculture merchandising: Senior Laura A. Alicata of Pearl River (Rockland County) and freshman Kimberly I. Mead of Wellsville.

The sub-theme of the 1990 show is "That Was Then — This Is Now," with displays to show contrasts in floral design and procedures over the years.

The landscape development portion will portray the progression of gardens from "older days" to modern times. Students involved in floriculture production and interior plantscaping will fashion scenes showing the many uses of foliage plants in the home.

Design changes in floral work for weddings — with typical arrangements from the 1930s and 1990 — will be demonstrated by students in floriculture merchandising. These students also operate the college's commercial shop, "The College Florist."

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

Let your microwave help make sweet treats. Melting chocolate chips, boiling honey mixtures, or cooking candy-like mixtures all are quick and easy to do in your microwave.

Today's recipes are good examples. Peanut Bran Bars and Easy Butterscotch Bars both call for just a little heating. But that heating is so much simpler to do in your microwave.

Conventionally, you'd need to stir all the while. Stove-top recipes say to stir constantly while cooking over low heat in a heavy saucepan. How much easier it is to pop the dish into the microwave, micro-cook, a minute or so, stir, and microwave another minute.

You don't even need to stir before heating ingredients. That's a real plus with Peanut Bran Bars, where stirring the firm and sticky ingredients would form a big gooey clump. On the stove-top, ingredients heat from bottom up, so stirring is necessary to prevent scorching and uneven heating. In your microwave, the microwaves heat food from all directions, so stirring can be done after ingredients are thinned and more easy to mix.

A sideline about these recipes: If you're aware that March is National Nutrition Month, you may question my sharing these calorie-laden recipes this week. Wait a minute! Check the nutritional analysis after each recipe. These bars really aren't that "bad" — if you cut them into 36 bars, like the recipes say, and then only eat one bar a day!

The two recipes were conventional recipes that I found in my files. Peanut Bran Bars was touted as being healthy, low in cholesterol, and low in fat. That it is. However, the easy butterscotch bars also are low-fat and low in cholesterol. One of the butterscotch bars has the same amounts of fat and cholesterol as the bran bar. Plus, the butterscotch bar is slightly lower in sodium.

What this is all getting at is: You have to watch even the so-called "healthy" recipes, modify them to suit your diet (maybe making serving sizes smaller) and use common sense. If you're on a strict medically prescribed diet, of course, you need to stick with it. But if you're modifying your own diet, the secrets are moderation and sensible eating.

Peanut Bran Bars

1 cup honey
½ cup peanut butter
¼ cup margarine or butter
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
¾ teaspoon ground cinnamon
4 cups bran cereal
1 cup raisins
1 cup chopped peanuts

Grease a 9x9-inch pan; set aside. Place honey, peanut butter and margarine in a 2-quart microwave-safe measure or casserole. Microwave (High) 2 minutes; stir well. Continue microwaving (High) 2 to 4 minutes more or until mixture comes to a full boil. Stir in vanilla and cinnamon. Then add bran cereal, raisins and peanuts; stir well. Press firmly into prepared pan. Cool. Cut into bars when firm. Makes 36 bars.

Each bar: 112 calories, 3g protein, 6g fat, 17g carbohydrate, 97mg sodium, 0 cholesterol.

Easy Butterscotch Bars

1 package (12 ounces) butterscotch chips (2 cups)
1 cup evaporated (unsweetened) skim milk
¾ teaspoon vanilla extract
3 cups fine graham cracker crumbs
2 cups miniature marshmallows
1 cup coarsely chopped pecans
Garnish: chopped pecans (optional)

Grease a 9x9-inch pan; set aside. Place butterscotch chips and milk in a 2-quart microwave-safe measure or casserole. Microwave (High) 2 minutes; stir until smooth. If necessary, continue microwaving (High) 30 to 60 seconds more or until chips melt completely when stirred. Stir in vanilla. Remove about ½ cup of butterscotch mixture; set aside for glaze. Stir crumbs, marshmallows and pecans into remaining mixture. Spread in prepared pan. Frost with reserved butterscotch mixture. If desired, sprinkle with additional chopped pecans. Chill several hours or overnight before cutting into bars. Store covered in refrigerator. These freeze well. Makes 36 bars.

Each serving: 127 calories, 2g protein, 6g fat, 17g carbohydrate, 77mg sodium, 0 cholesterol.

Questions and answers —

Q. How come the brand of baby formula I use says not to heat it in the microwave?

A. The company probably puts this information on its label to protect itself from the possibility of the consumer heating the formula too long and thus burning the baby's mouth. If the company chose to do so, they could give exact microwave heating directions, but that would take up a lot of precious label space. There isn't much room on a label, so the on and what to leave off. In this case, the company uses less space and protects itself, too.

It's not dangerous to warm baby formula in the microwave oven. With any method of warming baby formula or food, it's necessary to test for temperature before feeding. I hope people caring for babies know they must test formula no matter which way it was warmed — in the microwave or in a pan of hot water.

Q. Does microwaving destroy any of the nutrients in baby formula or milk?

A. According to my knowledge, there is no research showing that vitamins or other nutrients in baby formula are destroyed by microwave warming. If they were, nutrients would also be destroyed by other methods of warming.

Q. I'd like to use my microwave for warming my baby's bottle. What is a safe way to do it?

A. Here is the recommended way to warm baby formula: Use dishwasher-safe plastic or glass bottles. Do not use bottles with plastic liners. (Liners can melt). Take off the top and nipple. Remember that room-temperature formula (or milk) will warm faster than refrigerated formula. For four ounces of room-temperature formula, microwave on High for 15 to 20 seconds; for six ounces, 20 to 25 seconds; and for eight ounces, 25 to 30 seconds. For refrigerated formula, add 10 to 15 seconds to above timings. Shake the bottle to even out heat. Then test by sprinkling a few drops on your inner wrist. If not warm enough, microwave for intervals of 10 seconds, shaking bottle and testing after each interval until formula is barely warm.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Farmers, at least from my personal observations, are generally not what you would consider sentumental, "flowery" individuals.

It seems to me that they have a liking for reasonably-decent weather conditions, dependable equipment even if it isn't brand new, farm sales, a hot meal on the table when they show up (whenever that might be), animals, little children, and a Sunday afternoon nap.

Farmers do much of their thinking and planning from a tractor seat, next to the udder of a cow, running feed for the hogs, or behind an adjustable wrench. They're practical, work-oriented, and quickly grow impatient with rules, regulations and bureacracy.

And, yet, they can be almost reduced to emotional mush by the smell of freshly-turned ground.

Digging in fresh soil is nothing less than an addiction once you've gotten the habit into your blood. It's a need that periodically goes dormant, subdued by zero-degree wind chill factors, frozen manure spreaders, cold-chilled batteries, and crashing down onto one's backside on the ice while headed out to do morning chores.

But sure as the sun climbs even a little higher and warmer, the grass colors up a bit greener, and a balmy southern breeze melts the ice edging pond banks, that uncontrollable urge comes rushing back.

And nothing satisfies until we go dig in the dirt.

After this bizarre winter, with all the cold lumped into a few short weeks, interspersed with unseasonable previews of spring, the addiction has struck even earlier than usual. Frankly, we watch this early warmth with a healthy measure of suspicion and some concern, after a decade marked with the worst droughts in a half-century.

Still, pestered by the same itch that sends the men off readying moldboards and chisel teeth, I headed for the garden last week.

"It's too early," part of me argued. "You know it's going to get cold again. You know stuff won't grow yet. Remember the year you planted in early March, and it turned cold and rainy for the next six weeks and some of the seeds rotted and you got a lousy germination rate and had to replant? Remember? Remember?"

I remembered - and grabbed the hoe and my favorite spade and headed for the garden anyway. If nothing else, I could at least tear up the remains of last year's mulch materials and clean off a residue from the fall grasses which choked last year's planting of asters, strawflowers, and statice.

One section, an awkward offset between the field road and electric pole, rises several inches above the rest of the patch. Because of the pole, this small section can't be tilled with the field equipment and thus never gets worked down and leveled along with the rest. So since it requires hand digging, I instead mostly keep it mulched and weed-free with a sheet of heavy black plastic salvaged from the trench silo.

But the plastic was ragged after two years and needed replacement. Grabbing the corner of it, I yanked.

Soil in the rest of the garden, laying slightly lower, was still a little on the damp side. But the dark, soft ground under the plastic sheeting was perfect, absolutely perfect. Loose, with just the right amount of moisture. Fat earthworms pulled back into their burrows at the unexpected exposure to light. And the sharp corner of the hoe opened up a beautiful furrow.

This soil just cried out to be planted. Now.

While I struggled against an urge to run to the house for the garden seeds, the roar on an approaching tractor temporarily distracted. Stirring dust as he passed, our son maneuvered into an adjacent field, lowered the chisel and began recycling former corn stubble into alfalfa seedbed. Another generation giving in to the urge to stir up the soil.

Oh, what the heck.

Onions can stand a little child. And the pack of Swiss chard seed specifially instructs to plant while the soil is still cool.

Sure, it may rot, not germinate, need replanted. All things considered, though, a ninety-cent pack of seeds is cheap therapy for Spring Fever.

National Cooking Contest For Youth

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff encourages Pennsylvania chefs ages 12 to 18 to submit entries in the first national Turkey Lovers' Recipe Contest. The contest, sponsored by the National Turkey Federation, has an April 15 deadline.

"Pennsylvania turkey producers raised a total of 7.9 million birds last year valued at $69.5 million," said Wolff.

Recipes, using at least one pound of fresh or cooked turkey meat, will be judged by a panel of food professionals for taste, appearance, appeal, simplicity and two written essays. One essay should describe the recipe's nutritional quality and the second should describe the proper food handling techniques during preparation.

The winning teen-ager will receive $1,000 and a two-day, all-expense paid trip to Washington, D.C. with a parent or guardian. In addition, the winner's school receives a new microwave oven for its home economics department. Other prizes included $500 for second place recipe, $400 for third, $300 for fourth, and $200 for fifth.

Recipes should serve 4-8 people. Students can enter more than one recipe, but each must be submitted separately. Essays, not to exceed 200 words, must be printed or typed on 8½ x11 inch paper and attached to the recipe.

Send entries to: Turkey Lovers' Recipe Contest, National Turkey Federation, 11319 Sunset Hills Road, Reston, VA 22090. All entries become the property of the contest. For a complete set of rules, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the same address.

Hot Trends In The Kitchen

While the American family has become a smaller, more diverse unit, with a lifestyle that moves at a faster pace, the kichen has still retained its place as the heart of the home. It is the first and most important room on almost every family's remodeling list.

For modern families, the ideal kitchen is a multi-purpose room. If the home has a formal dining room, it often sits unused, collecting dust. The kitchen, meanwhile, has evolved into a great room that has become an integral part of the entire house.

As we begin a new decade, tastes and trends in kitchens are changing. The most dramatic trend is toward the "Euro-style" look — light colors, sleek surfaces, minimal hardware. Consumers prefer it because it has a clean, uncluttered appearance and is easy to maintain — two important attributes for a room that is so heavily used.

Appliances are being selected on the basis of fashion as well as function. The appliances that are going into these remodeled kitchens are generally premium pieces, designed to make a statement, as well as provide top performance. Since the life of the average kitchen is 15 to 20 years, people are willing to spend money on something they will live with for many years. Regardless of the price range, however, the preferred look is that of an upscale, all-white kitchen. In high-end appliances, white glass has become the color of choice, ending the long reign of black glass.

To maintain the sleek look, built-in appliances are everywhere. To keep them from sticking out beyond the cabinets, some newer refrigerators are only 24" deep. And, electronic-control appliances, including dishwashers and wall ovens, are particularly appealing to consumers. Visually clean, these less encumbered appliances are also physically easier to clean. Downdraft appliances, such as cooktops and grill-ranges, are styled to eliminate the need for an overhead hood range. Some require no venting at all.

Other trends include using durable, easy-care countertops and flooring. Although consumers want their kitchens clean, they don't want to spend much time cleaning them! More convenient and organized storage areas are also important. Pull-out or roll-out shelves in addition to adjustable dividers are available in stock cabinets as well as custom-made cabinets.

As the general look of the kitchen becomes lighter and brighter, light itself, both natural and artificial, has become more important. Particularly desirable are many windows, skylights, and patio doors — anything that increases the quantitiy of natural light. Task light — for cooking, for cleaning, for audio and video equipment — means that no one has to work in his or her own shadow.

But, before the consumer gets carried away with all this functional luxury, how much should one reasonably spend? Although costs can easily escalate into thousands and thousands of dollars, home appraisers generally advise spending no more than 15 percent of the current house value on a new kitchen, with 10 percent to 15 percent being the rule of thumg. For a home valued at $300,000, the range for kitchen remodeling is $30,000 to $45,000; for a home valued at $100,000, the range is $10,000 to $15,000.

FOOD ADDITIVES: WHAT THEY ARE & HOW THEY ARE USED

Food additives have been around for centuries and play a very important and valuable role in keeping our food supply safe to eat. By definition a food additive is anything added to food — a substance or mixture of substances, other than basic foodstuff.

Food additives keep food appealing to look at, maintain freshness, maintain or improve nutritional value and help in processing and preservation.

One of the first additives was salt. In prehistoric times, salt was probably used to preserve fish and meat. Salt as well as sugar and corn syrup continue to be the most common food additives. These three, along with baking soda, pepper, mustard and vegetable colors make up 98 percent by weight of all additives in the United States. There are about 3,000 different additives which are deliberately added to food to cause a desired effect.

Food labeled "No Preservatives" seems to pop out at you on the food shelves of supermarkets. What's so bad about preservatives? Why all the hype about colors, stabilizers and other additives in foods?

The two major reasons that food additives receive bad press are that some people have allergic reactions to them and there has been a carcinogenic (cancer causing) link to certain additives.

Food additives are closely regulated by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and the Food Safety and Inspection Service (FSIS). All additives are initially evaluated for safety by the FDA.

Additives to be used in meat and poultry products must also be evaluated by the FSIS which is part of the United States Department of Agriculture. FSIS uses FDA guidelines, but looks more specifically at the additive's effect on meat and poultry products.

It is important to remember that the absolute safety of any additive can never be proven. That is why additives are never given permanent approval and the FDA and FSIS continually review the safety of approved additives.

Additives are a necessary part of our food supply. Without them we would have to come up with new ways to solve some nutrient deficiencies such as rickets and goiter. Rickets is a vitamin D deficiency which affects the growth of bones in children. The addition of vitamin D to milk in the 1930s helped reduce the incidence of this disease in America. Adding iodine to salt, beginning in 1924, helped prevent goiter (enlargement of the thyroid gland).

Other problems such as spoilage would occur if food additives were unavailable, and some experts maintain that without additives to keep food from spoiling, we could not afford to eat. Also, some foods would not be available in some parts of the country because they could not be shipped fas enough to avoid spoiling.

The wisest advice for those of you who are concerned about consuming food additives is to eat a variety of foods. Remember, an excess of any substance may be harmful.

Simplesse To Revolutionize Food

COLLEGE PARK, MD — Scrumptious sundaes; thick, creamy salad dressings and dips; smooth butter and margarine spreads. These tempting delights are the dietary downfall of many weight-conscious Americans. But perhaps not for long.

The NutraSweet Company has created a natural fat substitute called Simplesse, which could take the guilt out of eating some of the high-fat foods we love.

"This product is truly revolutionary," says Dr. Mark A. Kantor, a food and nutrition specialist with the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service (MCES). "It could be the biggest thing to hit the food industry since sliced bread."

Simplesse is unique as a fat substitute in that it is made totally from existing natural ingredients: primarily protein from egg whites or milk.

These ingredients are heated and blended by a patented process called microparticulation, which shapes the protein into spherical particles so small (about one thousandth of a millimeter) that the tongue perceives them as fluid rather than as individual particles. The tiny size and round shape of the particles allow them to roll easily over one another, creating the smoothness, richness and creaminess normally associated with fat.

"Essentially, the creators of Simplesse have discovered a way to make protein mimic the texture of fat" says Dr. Kantor. "The new product can be used to replace fat in a variety of products on a gram for gram basis."

Since one gram of Simplesse contains 1⅓ calories compared to 9 calories on one gram of fat, this substitution would result in a calorie reduction of 20 percent to 80 percent, depending on how much is used in the product. For example, a frozen vanilla dessert made with Simplesse has 120 calories per 4-ounce serving — 56 percent less than the same size portion of a superpremium vanilla ice cream with 274 calories.

NutraSweet officials envision using Simplesse in such products as ice cream, mayonnaise, salad dressings, sour cream, yogurt, dips, margarine and butter spreads and cheese spreads. Although it also could be enjoyed as a condiment on hot food, like sour cream or butter on a baked potato, it could not be used in frying or baking because the prolonged heat would cause the protein to coagulate and lose its creaminess.

Simplesse has just gained the approval of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) for use in imitation ice cream. Kantor expects it to be approved soon for other products as well. Several studies have shown that the human body will digest and absorb Simplesse as it would the protein in milk or egg whites.

The only people who would have to avoid Simplesse are those who are allergic or sensitive to eggs or milk.

Migrant Workers Snarled By Poverty And Disease

BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin Co. Correspondent

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.)— "Taking care of migrant farm workers in Franklin County is like taking care of people in a Third World Country," according to Joanne Cochran, head of Keystone Migrant Health Corporation.

"The average migrant lives to be 49 years old," she said. The rates of sickness and death in children of migrants are "inordinately high."

Cochran co-founded Keystone Migrant Health Corporation with Tammy Zuroweste in 1987. Cochran, a clinical nurse specialist with a master's degree in community health nursing, serves as administrator of the non-profit corporation. It provides all the health services for migrant farm workers who stay at the 24 migrant camps in Franklin and Cumberland counties.

While other areas have health care services for migrants, Keystone is unique in that it is a private corporation which hires doctors and nurses to provide health care. Other community health programs are dissolving, according to Cochran, due to a shortage of doctors and nurses.

When the migrant workers reach southcentral Pennsylvania in July to pick peaches, Cochran's nurses visit the camps to take blood pressure readings and to inform the migrants how to obtain health care. Some come in to the Keystone office to receive care. Others are bussed to Chambersburg for the Thursday evening clinics held at the office of Cumberland Valley Family Physicians.

At these clinics Cochran's health care workers see diseases they rarely see in the general population. Twenty to forty percent of the migrants have intestinal parasites; many are infected with tuberculosis. According to Dr. Edward L. Zuroweste, medical director of Keystone and one of four doctors who make up Cumberland Valley Family Physicians, the incidence of active tuberculosis in 1986 to 1989 was about 88 times higher among migrants than among the general population. According to the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta, Georgia, 12 cases of active TB are seen per 100,000 people in the general population per year. In the clinic, Zuroweste has seen 30 cases of active TB among migrants in the past three years. "That's out of about 600 to 700 people," he said. "These people live in crowded conditions, so sanitation is a huge problem. There is often a lack of adequate clean water. They pass diseases on to each other."

Zuroweste has been involved with migrant health for the past ten years. "There are four million migrants in the United States," he said. "About 18 percent are reached by health programs."

Disability among migrants is three times more common than among the general population. Some of their children show the effects of malnutrition.

"Because they cannot establish residency, these people are not eligible for food stamps and welfare," Cochran said. "Last summer, 40 percent of the migrants ran out of money for food." Keystone has a contract with South Central Community Action Program, however, under which Cochran can provide the migrants with Women, Infants and Children (WIC) services.

But migrants are not here for a hand-out anyway, she stressed. "They are migrant farm workers. They want to work, and they do work. The only thing that keeps them from their work is excessive pain. They often wait too long to go to the doctor because they don't want to miss a day of work. They might have an infected finger, and by waiting too long to get help, they could lose a hand."

The five-month period that the migrants spend in Franklin County picking peaches and apples is the longest they live in any one location, according to Cochran.

In 1986, the sale of fruit brought about $14 million into Franklin County. Much of that fruit was picked by migrant laborers.

"No one else is willing to do the work they do," Cochran said. "We want their work, but we do nothing to encourage them."

Despite those words, Cochran and her small staff obviously do a great deal to encourage migrants. She teaches her health care providers about Haitian and Hispanic folk medicine, so that they may recommend culturally appropriate treatment methods. One of Cochran's staff members speaks Haitian. During an in-service course, staff members learn about Haitian-Creole and Spanish-American cultures.

In the Haitian culture, for example, the man is the "power person," Cochran explained. He takes the children to the doctor and makes such decisions as whether or not his wife should use birth control.

Cochran has also informed local emergency room personnel about living conditions in the migrant camps. If someone comes into the emergency room with an abscess, health care workers might recommend hot and cold compresses. For migrants, "that's ludicrous," she said. "They have no running water."

Lack of Education

The underlying cause of many of the problems that the migrants must face is a lack of education. "The average education of a migrant worker is about sixth grade," Cochran said. "Migrants are not migrant by choice. They live in five to six different places per year, and their children attend five to six different schools. They are ill-housed, ill-clothed, and ill-educated. The only way to make the migrant independent is through education, Cochran believes.

When migrants come to the Franklin-Cumberland County area, their children are bussed to a special school in Gettysburg.

But often children are in the orchard picking fruit beside their parents. Cochran told of a nine-year-old girl who refused to go to the school because she wanted to help her pregnant mother pick fruit.

The best way to educate migrants is through other migrants, Cochran said. This summer, she will be selecting a few Spanish-American migrants and a few Haitian ones for training as camp health workers.

Dental Care

Migrants are now able to obtain dental care in Franklin County, thanks to Cochran's efforts in obtaining a grant through the Gannett Foundation and the Alexander Stewart, MD Foundation. Dr. Michael Cerveris of Chambersburg donated office space for the three-times-weekly clinics. A dozen local dentists volunteered their time to treat the migrants.

"She's a superstar," Dr. Cerveris said of Cochran. "She wouldn't let up until she got some grant money. She is committed to this project and to this group of people." The grant money was used to purchase dental supplies needed to treat the migrants.

According to Paul Saberin, who transports workers from the camps to the health clinics, the migrants like to come to Franklin County. "They say that the orchard conditions here are better than other places, and the health care is better," he said. "Some of them are very appreciative."

At least part of the reason for the migrants' sentiments is Cochran's attitude toward them. "Only two-tenths of one percent of the migrants cause trouble. The rest are good, hard-working people trying to earn a living, but who are caught in a cycle of poverty and despair.

"They are human beings to be treated with love and respect," she continued. "I've never met a kinder, more grateful group of people. I have gotten more from them than I have given to them. Let's welcome them to Franklin County."

Joanne Cochran, co-founder of Migrant Health, said the average migrant worker lives to be only 49 years old.

Dauphin County Holds Seedling Sale

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.)— In his State of the Union Address, President Bush stated that he would like to see one billion trees planted this year in the fight against global warming.

Numerous National Environmental Organizations are endorsing a similar goal. Locally the Dauphin County Conservation District has set a goal to sell 40,000 bareroot seedlings during their Annual Seedling Sale.

According to Duayne Forsberg, a resource specialist with the conservation district, "This national goal of planting one billion trees is well timed. The 20th anniversary of Earth Day will occur on April 22, 1990. The intent of Earth Day then is the same as now, to draw attention to environmental problems and to establish corrective actions.

"Perhaps through Earth Day more people will develop a better understanding of the consequences of tropical rainforest destruction, global warming, and the greenhouse effect. These environmental concerns share a partial common cure, planting trees, lots of trees," said Forsberg. "By planting trees in central Pennsylvania, not only are you beautifying your property, you are also cleaning the earth's atmosphere."

Forsberg explained that a healthy living tree removes between 25 and 45 pounds of carbon dioxide from the air every year. Excessive levels of carbon dioxide in the earth's atmosphere is commonly credited as a leading contributor of the greenhouse effect.

The conservation district is offering local residents the opportunity to improve their environment by planting trees.

For its 16th year the conservation district is offering inexpensive planting stock during its annual seedling sale. These bareroot seedlings range in size and age from 7-20 inches for the 3- to 4-year-old evergreens and 12-40 inches for the 1- to 2-year-old hardwoods. A bundle of 10 evergreens will cost $6 and the hardwoods cost $1 each. Discount rates are available for 500 or more evergreens. No use restrictions are imposed for these seedlings.

Evergreen selections for 1990 include Douglas fir, Scotch pine, concolor fir, blue spruce, white pine, and Frazer fir. Hardwood selections are white flowering dogwood, European white birch, Eastern redbud, pin oak, and European mountain ash.

Seedlings must be purchased by placing a prepaid order. Call the 24-hour "Evergreen Line" at 921-8298 or write to the Dauphin County Conservation District, 1451 Peters Mountain Road, Dauphin, PA 17018 to request an explanatory order form. March 28 is the order deadline.

What's For Dinner? Make It Seafood

March is National Nutrition Month. Although most American adults are knowledgeable about nutrition, a recent Gallup survey found that many still choose foods based on "good" or "bad" perceptions.

Balance, variety and moderation are the keys to healthy eating. Many people neglect variety because they are accustomed to particular foods and limit their choices.

The Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Area (MAMMA) prints many recipe brochures to help you cook choice, nutritious meals. The brochures are free. Several of the recipes from "Calcium-Rich Everyday Entrees," "Cheese Can Do," and "Healthy Meals with Time To Spare" are included in today's column.

Request these brochures or a list of available brochures by writing to Pat Purcell, MAMMA, 216 Carroll Building, 8600 La Salle Road, Towson, MD 21204. Include a business size, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Kid's Korner

Wisecracks — Egg Recipes For Kids

EGG SALAD PIZZA CONES
6 servings

¼ cup bottled reduced-calorie creamy Italian salad dressing
½ teaspoon Italian seasoning, crushed
6 hard-cooked eggs (recipe below)
¼ cup sliced green onions with tops
¼ cup (1 oz.) minced pepperoni
6 plain ice cream cones (cups)
Chopped mushrooms, green peppers and/or black olives, optional
About ¾ cup pizza sauce
About 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Put the salad dressing and seasoning into a medium bowl. Stir well.

Chop the eggs with a knife or an egg slicer. (A slicer is easier — slice the eggs one way, then turn them around and slice the other way.)

Stir the eggs, onions and pepperoni into the salad dressing mixture. Cover the egg salad and put it into the refrigerator for an hour or two to get cold. While you're waiting, you can chop the mushrooms, green peppers, black olives or any other foods you'd like to use as a topping.

When you're ready to eat, scoop about ⅓ cup of the egg salad into each ice cream cone. Top each scoop of egg salad with about 2 tablespoons of pizza sauce. Add mushrooms or any other toppings. Sprinkle about 1 teaspoon of cheese over it all.

SHELLY'S QUICHE
8 servings

6 slices whole wheat bread, cut in half diagonally
1 cup (4 oz.) chopped turkey
1 cup (4 oz.) shredded American cheese
½ cup shredded carrots
6 eggs
1 cup low-fat milk
¼ teaspoon dill weed
Set the oven to 375° F.

Cut the bread crusts off. You won't need them. Cut each bread slice in half diagonally to make two triangles. Press some of the bread triangles all around the sides of a lightly-greased 9-inch pie plate. Use the corners of the bread to make a jagged edge. Press the rest of the bread over the bottom of the pie plate. (It's okay if the pieces don't fit together exactly.) Bake 5 minutes. Take out of the oven.

Sprinkle the turkey, cheese and carrots into the bread shell.

With a fork, beat the eggs, milk and dill weed in a medium bowl until well mixed. Pour the egg mixture over the ingredients in the bread shell.

Bake about 40 minutes. Pull out the oven rack with the quiche on it and insert a knife into the quiche halfway between the middle and the edge. If the knife comes out looking clean, the quiche is done. If it's not done, bake it about 5 to 10 minutes longer. Let it stand 5 minutes out of the oven before serving.

CHOCOLATE SPONGE CAKE CUT-OUTS
10 to 12 servings

6 eggs, separated
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
⅔ cup sugar, divided
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup unsweetened cocoa
¼ cup all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
Fillings (listed below)

Lightly grease 15½ x 10½ x 1-inch jelly roll pan. Line bottom with waxed paper and grease again. Set aside.

In large mixing bowl, beat egg whites with cream of tartar at high speed until foamy. Add ⅓ cup of the sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, beating constantly until whites are glossy and stand in soft peaks. In small mixing bowl, beat egg yolks at high speed until thick and lemon-colored. Gradually beat in remaining sugar and vanilla until blended.

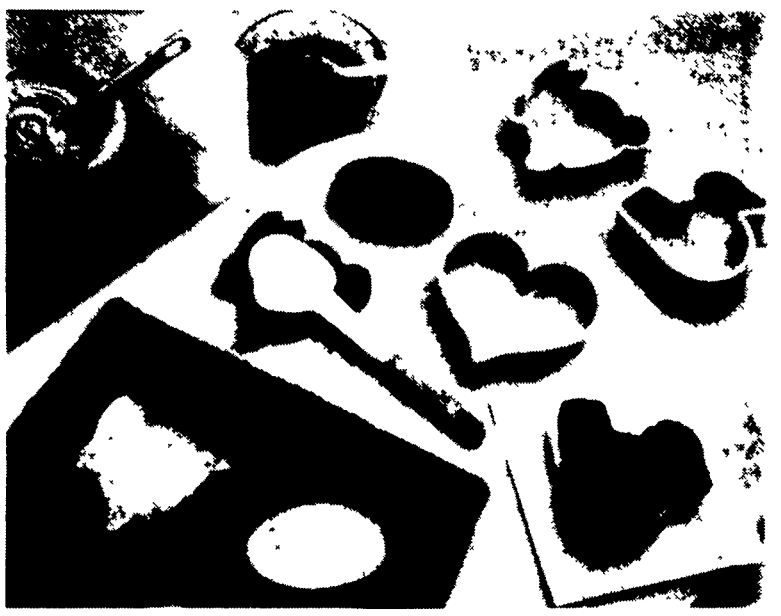
In small bowl, stir together cocoa, flour and salt. Sprinkle over whites. Add beaten yolk mixture. Gently, but thoroughly, fold yolk mixture and flour into whites. Pour into prepared pan and gently spread evenly.

Bake in preheated 400° F. oven until top springs back when lightly touched with finger, about 10 to 12 minutes. With spatula, loosen cake from sides of pan and invert onto rack. Carefully pull waxed paper off bottom of cake. Cool completely.

Using cookie cutters, cut shapes from cooled cake. Spread or top one side of each cake shape with filling ingredient(s). Place 2 cake shapes together to make "sandwiches," if desired.

Filling suggestions: Softened cream cheese and jelly; peanut butter and sliced bananas; marshmallow fluff; softened ice cream, etc.

You'll crack up over egg salad pizza cones. This neat treat starts with an easy egg salad that's flavored Italian-style and includes bits of pepperoni. Scoop it into plain ice cream cones and the merriment begins.



It's fun to eat nutritious food if it looks tasty. Make the easy sponge cake recipe and cut out your favorite shapes when the cake cools.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Society 6

Berks Farm Women Group #6 met at the home of Linda Youse of Oley. Discussions during the evening were concerning the Spring Rally held at Dickerson College May 23, the Reading Fair, the anniversary celebration for Group #5, and Christmas Dinner 1990. Again it was unanimous to donate to the Youth League and Scholarship awards. Adjournment was at 9:30. After some "brain teasing" games introduced by Naomi Mest, the group enjoyed some absolutely scrumptious refreshments served by Linda Youse.

Lancaster Society 20

Lancaster Farm Women Society #20 met at the home of Vera Herr on March 1 with Jean Ressel as co-hostess. Most of the 21 members present arrived shortly after 9 a.m. and sewed bed pads until lunchtime. Then everyone enjoyed the delicious covered dish dinner. Three hundred seventy-six bed pads were sewn throughout the day.

The devotions were conducted by Vera. The roll call was answered by exchanging candy bars. The Ways and Means Committee cleared certain items for the food stand at the horse races at Andrews Bridge on March 24, and the Sewing Committee reported there are some saddle bags completed, which can be delivered with the bed pads. Cards sent this month were three get well and one baby congratulation. Definite plans were made for the April meeting when we will be entertaining guests at the United Methodist Church, Quarryville.

A safety program was given in the form of a skit by Dorothy Crawford, Emily Gallimore and Freda Wimer which warned of standing on stepladders. Never leave candles or lights on Christmas trees burning when leaving the house. A motion was made and carried to have Mary Shenk as an honorary member as well as Sara Horner. Hands were raised by those who plan on going to the spring rally at Carlisle in June. The meeting was closed by singing "Brighten the Corner."

Berks Society 3

Group 3 of the Berks County Society of Farm Women recently held its February meeting at the home of Dora Pollock, Boyertown R3. Speaker for the evening was Tom Pollock, who will be serving as a missionary to the American Indians in Minnesota. Slides of the Indian Reservation were shown to the 11 members present.

The program for the next meeting will be a demonstration on glass blowing at Taylor Backes, Washington Street, Boyertown, followed by the business meeting at the home of Sonya Moyer, Boyertown R4.

Berks Executive Board

Joan Loeb of Oley has accepted the position of vice president of Berks County to fulfill the unexpired term of Judy Swope who resigned from the Berks County Executive Board.

Mary Lou Kuzminski, director of volunteers at Berks Heim, challenged the 20 board members present to encourage their individual groups to reach out and touch someone through volunteering at the center.

The Board, in conjunction with the Berks Farm-City Council, will honor the first baby born on March 20 with a basket of farm products. The baby will also be named "Ag Day Baby."

The project for the year is to give $150 to Berks Heim for a "Day Bus Tour" for the residents, and $150 to Hamburg Center for their Easter Basket needs.

President Schlegel gave her report on agri-business and other meetings she attended. Committees for the Scenic River Festival to be held in July and for the county convention were appointed. The next meeting will be held in Ag Center May 16.

Berks Society 9

Group #9 of the Berks County Society of Farm Women met on Wednesday, March 7, at 7:00 in the home of Peggy Lewis. Eight members made and filled Easter Baskets for residents of Romyn's Country Home.

In April members will celebrate "Everybody's Birthday" with dinner at Schwambach's Restaurant.

Members will meet after dinner in the home of Helen Oxenford of Amityville for dessert and to exchange birthday presents with their Secret Pals.

Candy Business Makes Easter A Sweet Occasion

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

EAST PETERSBURG (Lancaster Co.) — Those creamy chocolate-covered peanut butter and coconut eggs taste so yummy, but are so messy to make. At least for most cooks.

But not for Brenda Garber. For weeks, Brenda has been mixing up 250 to 300 dozen pieces of the candy in her East Petersburg home.

Her kitchen is immaculate and the process well organized.

"Other people might not mind working in a mess," she said. "But I can't."

Easy and neat

As she forms the egg-shaped candy, melts the chocolate and coats the eggs, the procedure looks so easy and neat.

"I could do this all day," Brenda said as she took a fork, dipped peanut butter eggs into the melted chocolate, and placed the coated eggs on deli paper to cool.

Weeks before Christmas and Easter holidays, Brenda makes candy almost all day long, from 9:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

"It's really an overgrown hobby," Brenda said. "About 15 years ago, I helped the fire company and the youth group make candy for fund-raisers."

Make candy

After many years of fund-raising experience, Brenda offered to make candy in her own home. Word-of-mouth advertising told of the delicious candy and orders came in.

Most the candy is sold through S. Clyde Weaver's Meats at their nearby retail store and market stands and at Minnich's Farm Market, Lititz.

"At this point, we're not interested in expanding more until the children are older," Brenda said.

The children, Richard, 6 and Michelle, 9, stay home for school and are taught by their mother. Both mother and children believe working and schooling together are ideal. During the Easter and Christmas season, the children help with the candy making. They go to school year-around because studies show that children taught at home retain more.

Push children

"We don't push the children to help with the candy making because that would defeat the purpose," Brenda said. "But the children enjoy helping."

Brenda, who was raised by parents Stanley and Myrtle White on a Manheim farm, said that it was a big adjustment for her to move off the farm.

"If you live in a development, there isn't enough for children to do. We wanted to give our children a sense of responsibility.

"We feel like the Lord has led us into making candy. It allows me to spend time with the children. It teaches them to handle money and work with customers."

Children paid

The children get paid for the amount of candy they complete. They use the money for educational tapes and other items agreed upon by the family.

Dressed in aprons, the children industriously help their mother roll the candy eggs.

Richard said, "My eye is itchy, but I can't itch when I'm making candy."

The candy making starts with Glenn mixing batches of dough and using an industrial-size mechanic cookie cutter that shoots out dough in cookie-sized shapes. The shapes are just the right size for rolling into egg-shaped peanut butter and coconut eggs. It is this part that the children help their mother the most. Later, she dips the eggs in the melted chocolate and places them on deli paper sheets to dry.

Candy packed

When cool, the candy is packed into cardboard boxes that have been folded by the children.

Michelle prefers to roll the dough into egg shapes, but her brother prefers to box the candy. He's just learning to coat the candy.

In addition to peanut butter eggs, the family makes opera fudge in vanilla, coffee, and peanut butter flavors. The opera fudge recipe comes from her aunt, Naomi Gingrich, Lebanon.

Although Brenda does not want to give away her secret candy recipes, she will share one of her specialties that she makes for families and friends.

BRENDA'S CREME DE MENTHE PATTIES

½ pound butter
6 tablespoons creme de menthe non-alcoholic syrup
¼ cup hot tap water
8 cups confectioners' sugar
1 to 1½ pounds coating chocolate, light or dark

Mix ingredients with electric mixer. Pinch off pieces and shape into one-inch balls. Place on waxed paper-covered cookie sheets and flatten patties with a fork. Allow to dry.

Melt coating chocolate in microwave oven on low heat. Stir occasionally until melted.

Dip one patty at a time into the chocolate and carefully place on wax paper or cake rack to cool completely. Store in airtight tins. Makes about 11 dozen two-bite patties.

Nine-year-old Michelle practices her typing.

Six-year-old Richard samples a chocolate-covered coconut egg that he has helped make.

If you've got kids at home, chances are your budget is tight. Count on eggs to provide your children with high-quality protein at low cost. One egg equals one ounce of lean meat, fish or poultry. When Large eggs sell for 90 cents per dozen, it's the equivalent of only 60 cents per pound. That makes eggs one of the best buys around. Serve two eggs as a main dish or use them to stretch more expensive protein foods.

EGGS MAKE THE TEAM

Conrad Weiser FFA Holds Banquet

ROBESONIA (Berks Co.) — The annual Conrad Weiser FFA banquet was held on Thursday, March 8 at the high school.

The welcome was given by Dr. Larry Schmidt, assistant superintendent. Following a buffet style beef and ham dinner, families, faculty, and special guests gathered in the auditorium for the presentation of awards.

Terry Reber, superintendent of schools, gave remarks. Katie Stewart, chapter secretary, introduced the special guests.

John Kleinfelter, chapter vice-president, presented Certificates of Appreciation to Ted Bowers, a loan officer at Hamilton Bank and a member of the Conrad Weiser Agriculture Education Advisory Committee; Bonnie Ulrich, a high school secretary that helps the FFA with many details; Al Seifarth, for his help with the 8th grade Agriculture Interest Inventory and for his favorable comments about agriculture; and Shirley Fingerman, for her help as a chapter public speaking judge.

Sattazahn, Feeg, and Bowers are on the Agriculture Education Advisory Committee and were chapter public speaking judges.

Bryan Brubaker presented the Blue and Gold Award to Duane Pysher, a county conservationist. Pysher has helped to set up and judge county land use management contests and has helped to judge county public speaking contests in several divisions. He also judged area and regional speaking contests and helped to plan the land use seminar this summer.

Steven Miller, chapter advisor, presented plaques to honor the chapter public speakers. In the Creed Contest, Beth Gelsinger placed first and received an official FFA jacket; Sally Miller placed second; and Kristie Roth placed third. In the Prepared Contest, Katie Stewart placed first, Michelle Troutman placed second, and Pam Klinger placed third.

High Sales awards were presented. Lorraine Gechter placed first in the processed meats sale and Dawn Reider placed second. The high salesmen for the citrus sale were also recognized. The following members received trophies in recognition for their performance at the state FFA contests held at the Pennsylvania State University last June: Jon Bickel, conservation; Karen Fessler, prepared; and Katie Stewart, Creed speaking. Katie Stewart and Michelle Troutman entered the Scrapbook Contest and placed third.

A slide show was presented by the chapter officers. The show was entitled "Learning to Fly." It featured major chapter events of the past year, classroom work, and supervised agricultural experience projects.

Tammy Gelsinger, was named the Star Chapter Greenhand. Lorraine Gechter received the Star Chapter Award. The outstanding agriculture education senior for 1989 was Chris Blatt, presented with the DeKalb Award.

Smooth And Forceful 'Velvet Hammer' Gets Things Done

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — Folks call Lois Parker the "Velvet Hammer."

Her smooth and forceful tactics for getting things done earned her the nickname.

"Give 'Velvet Hammer' a job, and, if she is in favor of the project, it becomes her whole focus," said a Chester County extension spokesperson.

A person who has volunteered time, talent, and commitment to church and community activities, Lois is concentrating on helping 4-H grow.

The thought of buying a chair in usuable condition makes Lois Parker wince. "There would be no fun in that," she said. She demonstrates chair caning on one of the many chairs she has collected.

Best-kept secret

"The program is the best-kept secret in Chester County," she said. "I became interested in 4-H because of my kids, but long after they are too old to be members, I'll still be there."

Currently, her biggest project is compiling a history of 4-H.

Of her participation as a club leader and board member, she said, "I like to be innovative — I don't follow the leader. I jump into a project with both feet."

With a straightforward look, she admitted, "I'm tackless and I tell others if you can't accept me the way I am, I'm not interested in changing to fit your mold."

Didn't fit

When Lois first volunteered to become a 4-H leader, her ideas didn't fit any of the categories listed in the 4-H leaders' manual. So, she started a self-determined program project group.

"We have a history group — the only one in the county and possibly the only one in the state," she said.

The purpose of the group is to educate members and the public to 18th-century life.

The group demonstrates such lost arts as inkleloom weaving, marbelized paper, candle dipping, butter churning, and making silent, indoor toys.

Displays crafts

The group displays their crafts at Chadds Ford Days and community fairs, where they have earned ribbons.

"The club is self-supporting," Lois said. "From the projects we sell, we earn enough to pay for field trips and supplies and we don't even need to charge dues."

Lois has also given workshops on Quaker family life and traditions. Dressed as a Quaker, she explains garb, housing, education, family life, and traditions.

Lois has also taught 4-H'ers how to understand the elderly by illustrating the aging process.

To be elderly

"Every teen should know what it feels like to be elderly," she said. "Everyone has dreams, and being flat on your back in a nursing home is not one of them."

Her 4-H'ers learned what it felt like to have cataracts by looking through plexiglass smeared with vaseline. By wearing ear muffs they learned the difficulty of understanding muffled voices. Wearing rubber gloves, 4-H'ers learned what it feels like to have knarled fingers.

Disturbed that many groups only visit nursing homes at Christmas, Lois said, "We treat the elderly more like Christmas ornaments than people — to look at once a year. They have a lot to share and we need to tap their memories."

Furniture restoration

A person of many talents, Lois earned an art design degree. After working as a space planning designer, she became intrigued with antiques and started a furniture restoration business which she pursued in Arizona, Oklahoma, and New Jersey. When her husband was transferred to the Chester County area four years ago, Lois concentrated on chair caning and rushing.

"Few people continue to do chair rushing. They think it's too difficult to rush, but I think it is easy," Lois said.

The secret to finishing a professional chair, Lois said, is to keep a good tension on the rush.

With an insatible desire to try new things, Lois admits that she is generally self-taught.

Started caning

"I started chair caning when a friend mentioned that she needed six chairs finished. I told her if you pay for the materials, I'll do the work because I always wanted to try it."

She recalled, "My first one did not look too bad on top, but underneath it was full of knots. My the time I finished the sixth chair, it looked professional underneath also."

Lois is very proud of a six-foot antique sofa that took 250 hours to complete.

Originally Lois harvested her own materials to do the rushing, but now she finds it easier to order the supplies.

Restore pieces

She said, "I like to restore old pieces to original use. To some, it is a piece of trash, but the trained eye can see beauty beneath the layers of paint."

Lois prefers American Empire furniture styles. The 1825-1840 pieces are large and cumbersome and need massive room for placement.

Lois and her husband have two daughters, Christine, 15 and Carolyn, 12. Christine has won awards for her photography and Carolyn for her artistic talent.

At one time, Lois harvested the materials that she needed to weave rush chair seats. After slooshing through ponds in cold, deep water, she decided to purchase materials needed.

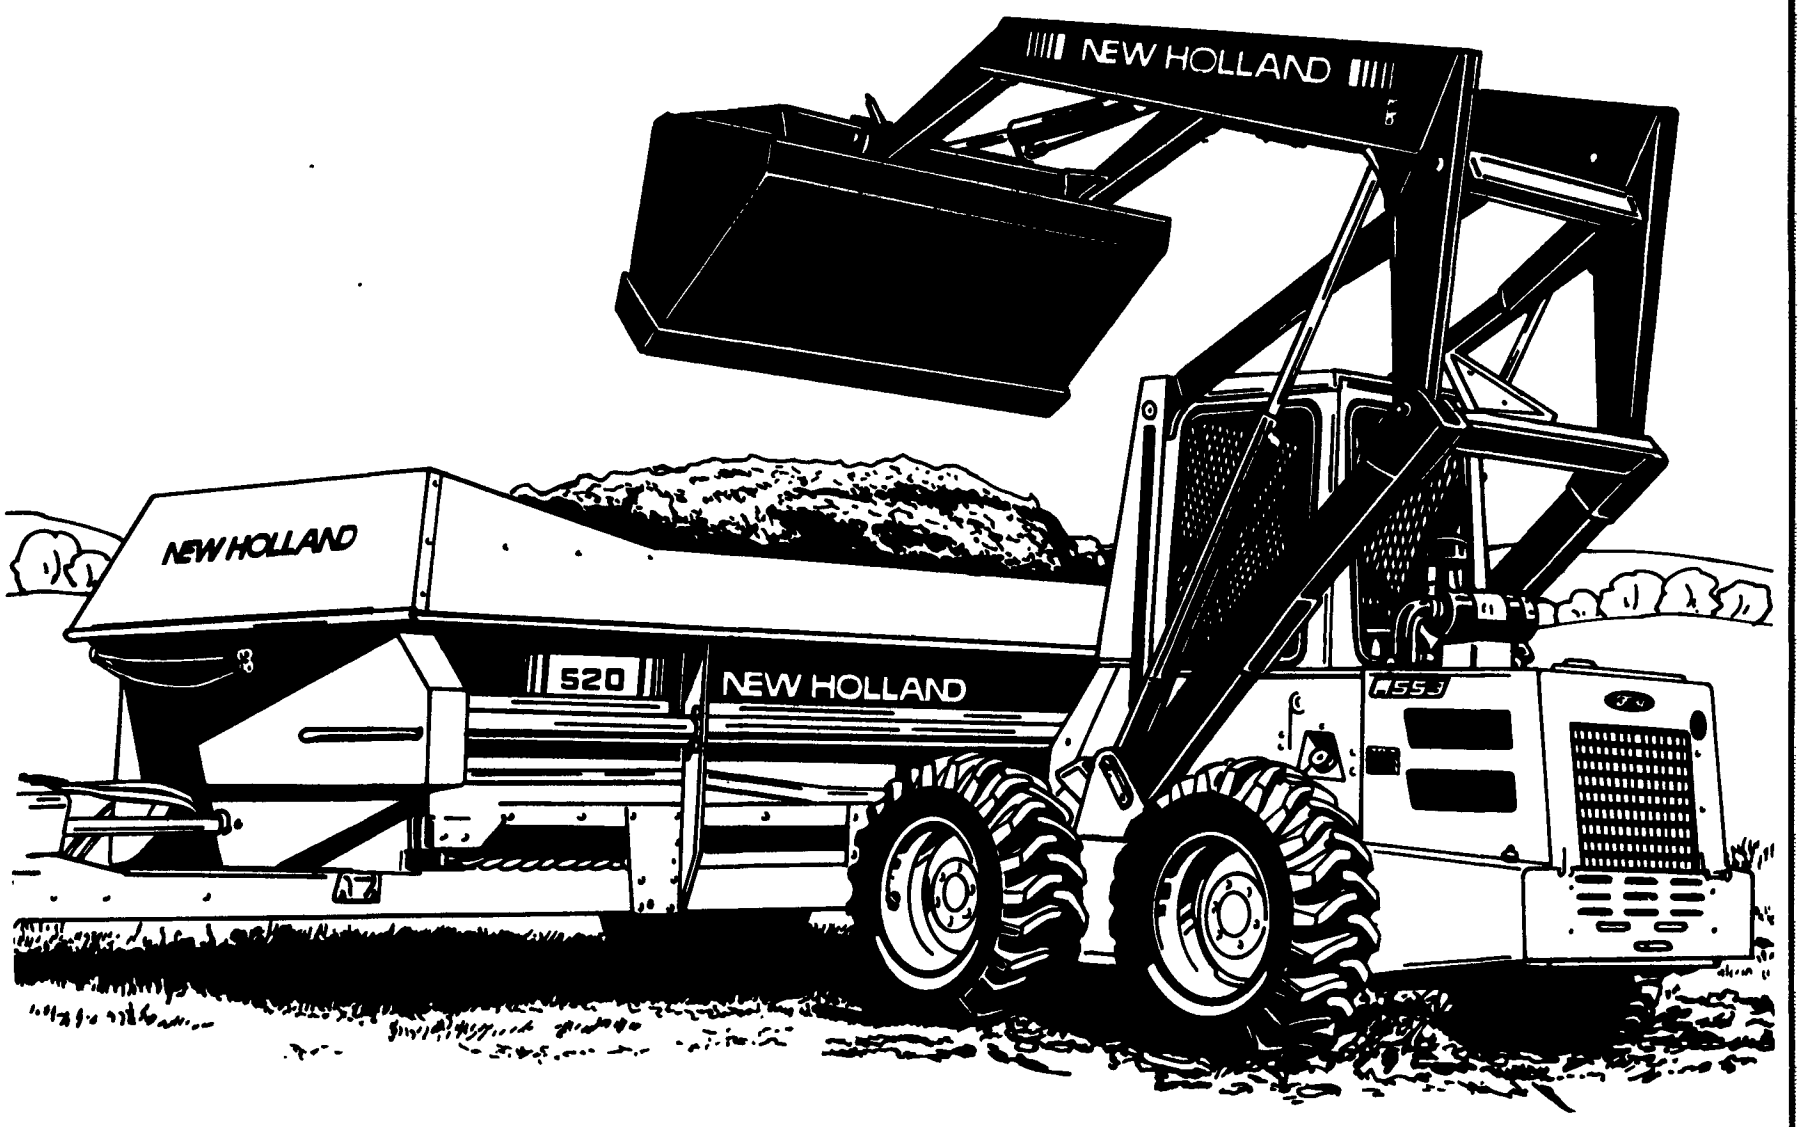
More stability, less spillback



New Holland L-550 Series skid-steer loaders handle loads with greater efficiency. Model L-550 loaders are highly maneuverable, and can lift up to 1,700 pounds (SAE). Their longer wheelbase lends greater stability and the exclusive boom lift linkage lets you put the load right where you want it. A faster boom cycle time speeds up your loading and unloading jobs. High performance is a standard with New Holland loaders. Stop in and run one today.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

March 17th — some folks would say it is time to have the sugar peas and sweet peas planted. I hear that some neighbors put theirs in the ground two weeks ago.

We plan to fly to Atlanta, Georgia, the beginning of April and I surely hope that my peas will be planted by that time. There is a new grandchild and two of our children living near Atlanta. I'm sure they'll have a nice five days planned for us.

Our geese feel that spring is coming and have started to lay eggs. They swim across the river and nest in a neighbor's old chicken house. Somehow one goose disappeared over the winter, but the others are laying many eggs. We will try selling some, although other years I baked cakes with them. They do not seem to hatch many goslings from the eggs that they sit on later in the spring.

We were surprised the other week to learn that a wild turkey is living on our farm as we are in a built-up area. Our corn crib is a big attraction for him as the loose grains provide an easy meal. But, he'll probably move on to find a mate.

I've finished the braided rug and hope to embroider some pillow cases before the garden work starts. Yesterday I put a heavy zipper in my husband's work jacket. It isn't a job that I'm proud of but I accomplished it after breaking a sewing machine needle.

Because we live in an old farmhouse, occasionally people who are descendants of the Weidlers will stop by to take a picture of the house. On Sunday a couple from Quakertown hunted us and then visited for a bit. The woman has a brother in Texas and she was raised near Erie. No wonder it is difficult to include all of Hans Michael Weidler's descendants in one book. They certainly have scattered in the last 250 years as have most other families. However, some of us just like to stay where we are now.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Viola Keefer needed recipes using sourdough. Thanks to Elizabeth Breneman, Millersville, and to Doris M. Brenezi, Shippensburg, for sending several recipes.

Sourdough Pancakes

2 cups sour dough starter
1 teaspoon sugar
1 or 2 eggs
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons oil

Beat ingredients with a fork. Fry on hot griddle. For waffles, use the same recipe but double amounts of fat and sugar.

Sourdough Chocolate Cake

½ cup sourdough starter
1 cup water
1½ cups flour
¼ cup powdered milk
1 cup sugar
½ cup shortening
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1½ teaspoon baking soda
2 eggs
3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted

Mix first four ingredients and let ferment two to three hours in warm place or until bubbly and doubled in size.

Cream remaining ingredients together, add one egg at a time, beating well. Combine creamed mixture with melted chocolate and sourdough mixture. Pour into layer pans or 1 large oblong pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

For spice cake: omit chocolate and add 1 teaspoon ground cloves and ½ teaspoon allspice. Tastes great with peanut butter icing.

Potato Doughnuts

1¾ cup milk
½ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
½ cup mashed potatoes
1 package yeast
½ cup warm water
2 eggs, beaten
½ teaspoon vanilla
6½ to 7 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 teaspoons salt

Scald milk, stir in shortening, sugar and mashed potatoes. Cool to lukewarm. Blend well.

Sprinkle yeast on warm water and stir unti yeast is dissolved. Add to milk mixture. Stir in beaten eggs and vanilla.

Sift 6½ cups with baking powder and salt. Add gradually to yeast mixture, mixing well after each addition. Add another ½ cup flour if needed to make a soft dough. Turn into greased bowl; dough dough over to grease top. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled about 1½ hours.

Roll to ½ -inch thickness on floured board. Cut with floured doughnut cutter.

Place cut out doughnuts on waxed paper; cover with cloth and let rise in warm place until doubled, about 30 minutes. Bake on greased sheet 25 to 30 minutes at 350 degrees.

Sourdough Carrot Cake

2 cups flour
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
2 cups finely shredded carrot
1 cup vegetable oil
1 cup sourdough starter
4 eggs

Combine flour, sugar, salt, baking powder, soda and cinnamon in large mixing bowl. Add carrot, oilk, starter and eggs. Stir until blended. Beat on medium speed of electric mixer 2 minutes. Pour into greased, floured 13x9x2-inch baking pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 45 to 55 minutes or until cake tests done. Cool. Frost cake; sprinkle with nuts.

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

MANNS CHOICE (Bedford Co.) — The unusual warm March weather will bring about a short maple syrup season, according to Vanira Wilkins of Manns Choice.

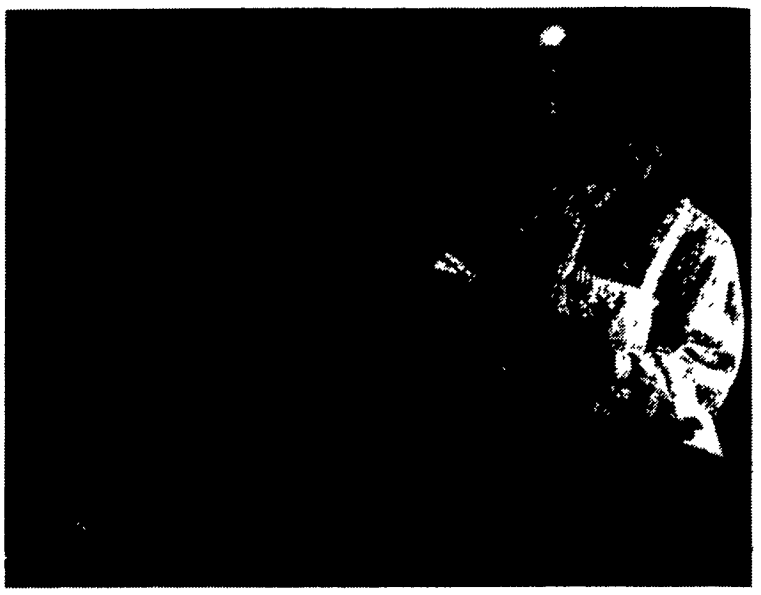
"It's just not been a good year for syrup," she said. "We didn't have enough cold weather. Then, this unusual warm spell will bring out the buds. Once that happens, the sap stops running."

Vanira's husband, Garry Wilkins of Manns Choice RD, is a third generation maple syrup producer who realizes that, like all businesses, it takes modern equipment to increase production.

Garry still has the old wood augers used by his grandfather to hand drill taps in the tall maples which proliferate the Wilkins farm.

Today, Garry carries a portable battery pack as he swiftly drills at least 1,100 taps every year.

"But that's only a small part of the work," said his wife, Vanira. "The work really begins when we have to start collecting sap and boiling it down each day."



Vanira does a lot of the boiling while Garry collects the sap. Here, he is partially hidden in the steam rising from the boiling sap which has nearly reached the syrup stage.

Collecting the sap is aided by plastic tubing which can connect several trees with the sap running into a central bucket.

Like all phases of farming, the success of each maple syrup season depends largely on the weather. "It takes a lot of freezing and thawing to get good syrup," Wilkins said.

This year, the Wilkins expect to get only about ¼ as much as they would expect in a good season. "The best kind of syrup weather is

Cut fast without cutting quality

Cut and dried, nothing does it better than John Deere mower/conditioners. The John Deere 1460 Rotary Mower/Conditioner lets you clean cut straight through your fields with no trouble, even at speeds up to 8 mph. And the exclusive John Deere urethane conditioning rolls speed drydown. They're the same rolls as on the 1219 mo/co. The John Deere 1219 Sicklebar Mower/Conditioner cuts and conditions efficiently and effectively, so you get better conditioning and faster drydown. Exclusive urethane rolls have more crimping points, more pressure per square inch, and it helps you get more out of your hay.

LEADERSHIP AT WORK

ather Ends Running Sap

cold nights and warm days and some snow on the ground," according to Garry.

In a good season, it takes 35 to 40 gallons of sap water to get one gallon of syrup. If the sap isn't as good, it takes 45 to 50 gallons. This year, Vanira says it has been taking at least 50. "We ran out of first quality syrup very quickly," she said. "First quality is very light in color. Some people prefer the darker syrup. But it takes the first quality to make good candy. That's why it competes with Lady Godiva chocolates in price."

From mid-February on, the entire Wilkins family, including son, Garron, 5, and two daughters, Jessica, 7, and Kristen, 2, have been working with the sap boiling. "At first it's fun," said Vanira. "Then, it begins to turn into work. The housework comes to a standstill. The children get to bed late. It takes its toll."

Some maple syrup producers have gone to oil, purchasing it in the summer months when the price is down. The Wilkins family, however, has preferred to stay with wood.

A lot of the rules of the trade were taught to Garry by his grandfather. "He always told me to look for last year's tap and then go to the other side of the tree," he said. "Then, go higher or lower. Never keep your taps in a straight line, or you will kill the tree."

It's important to boil the sap water down to syrup as quickly as possible following collection. "That can mean long hours during the season," said Vanira. And, she has also learned not to stir the boiling sap to end up with cloudy syrup.

The Wilkins had hoped for about 400 gallons of syrup this spring, but they now believe they will have a little over 100. "The price will go up in other places, but we will continue to sell it for about $22 a gallon," Vanira said. Most of their marketing is done from their home. During a good season, they sell excess syrup to producers in Somerset.

Garry's mother, Evelyn, handles the retail end. Vanira said her mother-in-law also makes the best maple sugar candy anyone ever tasted. Both of the women have developed ways to use the syrup in their cooking. "It's good on sweet potatoes, baked apples, and ham," Vanira said. "We use about seven gallons a year ourselves."

Vanira is quick to admit her fondness for the business. "I look at our children," she said. "And, I think this is something we can hand down to them. They can be the fourth generation."

The maple trees are located on the Wilkins 250-acre farm. In addition, Garry oversees farming on three other farms and is in the school bus business with his brother.

"I have to help with the maple syrup," said Vanira, "Or, I'd never see him during that season."

Selling the results to city dwellers is usually easy, regardless of the cost, once we get them to taste it, Vanira said. "At first they wonder why there is a such a difference in cost between what we sell and what they can buy in the store. Then, they taste it and they realize the difference. Bottled syrups in the store use a very small percentage of maple syrup and what they do use is the dark, sticky stuff that we would throw away."

"The color," said Garry, "depends largely on the weather and also the time of the season. The longer the season continues, the darker the syrup."

Even when the boiling is completed, the work isn't finished. There are still 1,100 sap collecting buckets to be washed and stored and the large boiling tanks need to be cleaned out.

"It's a lot of work," said Garry. "But, when we can stand here and watch spring actually happening here in the woods and see the results of our labors, it's all worthwhile."

Cook's Question

Beef Stew With Sourdough Dumplings

2 pounds beef stew meat, cubed
⅓ cup white flour
5 tablespoons shortening
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon celery salt
¼ teaspoon dry thyme
1 small clove garlic, chopped
2 cups water
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons catsup
6 whole cloves
6 small onions, canned
1 10-ounce package frozen peas and carrots
4 potatoes, precooked, cut into 8 wedges each
¾ cup white flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon baking soda
½ cup sourdough starter
¼ cup milk

Coat meat on all sides, using ⅓ cup flour. Save extra flour.

Melt 3 tablespoons shortening in heavy kettle. Add meat and brown it well on all sides. Remove browned meat from kettle.

Sprinkle salt, celery salt, thyme, garlic, and extra flour into kettle with shortening, stirring to make a smooth paste. Gradually add water, stirring constantly until gravy is smooth and thickened. Stir in Worcestershire sauce and catsup. Return browned meat to kettle. Cover kettle and cook meat over low heat about 2 hours.

Stick whole cloves into onions. Add onions, peas and carrots, and potatoes to kettle. Cover kettle and continue cooking about 30 minutes or until meat is fork-tender.

Combine flour, baking powder, salt, and baking soda. Cut in remaining 2 tablespoons shortening until mixture resembles cornmeal. Add sourdough starter and milk, stirring enough to blend.

Drop batter by heaping tablespoons on top of stew meat. Make sure dough is resting on stew meat and not swimming in liquid. Cover kettle and cook dumplings 10 minutes. Uncover kettle and cook stew another 10 minutes. Serve stew in kettle.

hillsboro flatbed trailer with flip-up beaver tail

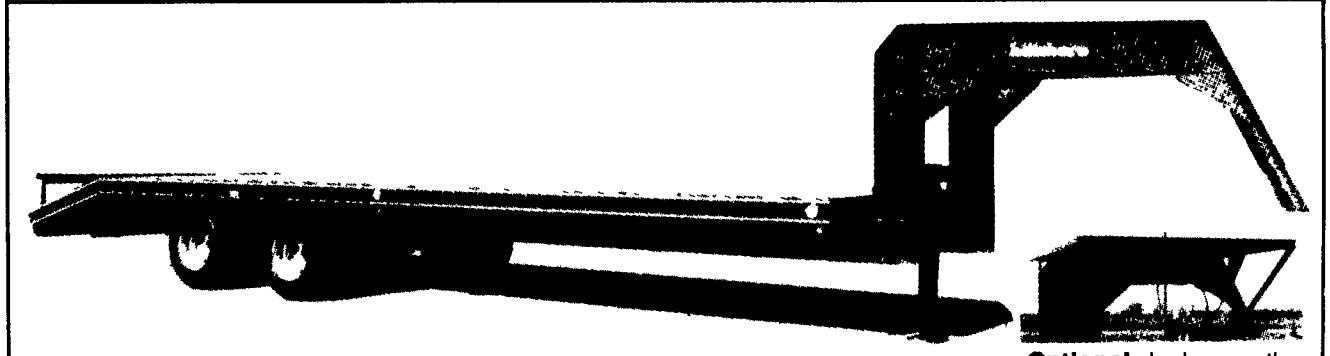
24 Foot Length Shown



28 Foot Length Shown

Optional deck over the neck is 7½ 'x8'

The FLIP-UP BEAVERTAIL raises and lowers in seconds -- slide out ramps are stored under the beavertail. The Hillsboro Flatbed features a full 96" deck width which is more value than the competition.

The Hillsboro Flatbed is available in two styles; the 20' and 24' trailer with standard neck, and the 28', 30' and 32' trailer with heavy duty neck.

VERSATILE — RUGGED — RELIABLE and REASONABLY PRICED!

The Hillsboro Flatbed Trailer with flip-up beavertail can be the one trailer that means lower cost for you. Here's why!!

VERSATILITY! That's what makes a Hillsboro trailer such a good investment. With the beavertail down it's an excellent trailer for moving wheeled equipment. Flip the beavertail up and it adds an extra four feet of deck space for hauling hay and other bulky loads.

HERE'S WHAT HILLSBORO QUALITY MEANS - All Hillsboro trailers are manufactured in precise jigs and fixtures which assures excellent alignment of axles, a better pulling trailer, a level and square trailer.

HILLSBORO WORKMANSHIP INCLUDES-Exceptional weld quality, material that is chemically cleaned, two coats of high quality paint, material strength engineered into the best flatbed value.

CONSTRUCTED FOR YEARS OF MAINTENANCE-FREE SERVICE.

You'll get more out of an Eby aluminum grain body. Lightweight and rugged aluminum provides rigid, fuel-efficient support to fill your grain hauling needs.

Eby packs years of experience, workmanship and performance into every aluminum body it manufactures. And special Eby options let you customize your body to your individual operation. Available in standard lengths, each unit is designed to provide you with an investment in durable performance and practical economy.

Look over these outstanding features.

- Less weight. Eby aluminum bodies weigh up to 30% less than comparable steel and wood construction.
- Less maintenance. Aluminum construction won't rust or rot - never needs painting.
- Long-life durability. Heavy-duty structural components and hollow-tube frame combine with aluminum floor and sides to stand up to years of hard work.

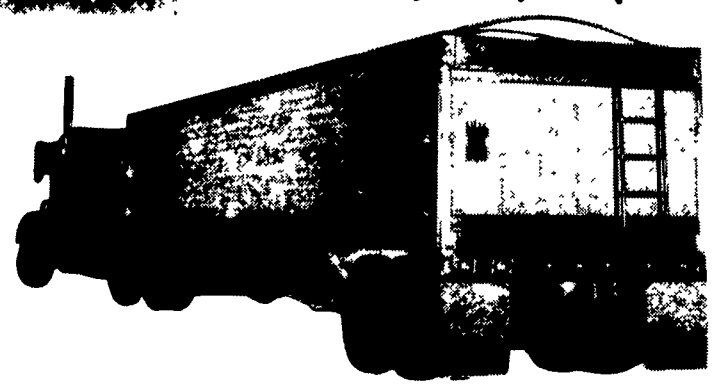
Flash (2) Late Model Used Timpte's Nice Priced Right



Got Grain? Then get the trailer that is Timpte tough... the Super Hopper. It's not only built to take it...it's also built to cut fuel costs. The Super Hopper is lightweight and aerodynamically designed to reduce wind drag. When there's grain to be hauled, Timpte does the haulin' best and pulls a lot easier than the rest.

Box 127, Blue Ball, PA 17506 (717) 354-4971

Get outstanding value in EVERY Eby trailer.

Whether it's a top-of-the-line Ruff Neck or an economical Wrangler, you know your livestock trailer is built to last if it's from Eby.

Aluminum construction is one of the main reasons these trailers are so durable and reliable. They'll never rust through or need welding. In fact, without ever being painted, an Eby livestock trailer will stay looking new for years.

Standard features make your Eby trailer a profitable investment. Extra-heavy axles, brakes, wheels and tires. Thick aluminum sheet flooring. Sturdy posts and rails. Even an aerodynamically designed front end is standard.

And, while standard features make even the economical Eby Wrangler far more than an average economy-model, we custom-build everything we make. So you tell us what you want. Choose from a long list of options. Select those features you need for your particular operation. Whether it's a Wrangler or deluxe Ruff Neck, the trailer you buy will be the trailer you need.

If you're a stranger to this lovely mountaintop county, perhaps a few comments regarding our agricultural status will be helpful. Somerset County has a strong agricultural community, with agriculture being the number one industry. The county ranks 1st in oat production, 9th in hay, 10th in dairy, and 10th in potatoes. In addition, there is an active maple syrup industry and the latest timber production showed $5 million in 1986. The support industries such as feed mills, equipment dealers, and repair facilities are also well established in the county. An excellent network of higways, particularly the PA Turnpike, facilitates the movement of agricultural products. Come and visit Somerset County and let us find the perfect farm for you.

House Hears Farm Bill Proposals

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Testifying before the House Agriculture Subcommittee on Wheat, Soybeans and Feed Grains, National Corn Growers (NCGA) Association President Alan Kemper outlined a number of proposals that should be included in the 1990 farm bill.

Kemper, a Lafayette, Indiana corn farmer, pointed out that while the 1985 farm bill helped the corn industry achieve marketing goals, the scenario is much different today than when the 1985 bill was written.

"Considering these cirsumstances -- and the fact that as target prices have fallen 10 percent over the past five years and inflation has increased 20 percent -- we feel the time has come to end the downward spiral in support levels," Kemper said. "NCGA is calling for the corn target price to be maintained at no less than the current level and to be adjusted annually as dictated by changes in the Consumer Price Index."

Kemper also cautioned the subcommittee to carefully consider any plan to cap program benefits which could cause corn farmers to abandon the government program, thereby defeating part of the program's acreage-reduction goal.

The need for a continued tough stance in general agreement on tariffs and trade (GATT) talks was urged by Kemper. "NCGA supports the use of a marketing loan program for corn to improve our competitiveness, give our trade negotiators a powerful trump card in GATT talks, and to further enhance the profitability of U.S. corn farmers," he said.

Kemper also stressed that NCGA is supportive of allowing farmers the flexibility to switch some of their program crop acres to specified oilseeds or other crops without losing program flexibility in future years.

In addition, Kemper expressed concern that the administration's farmer-owned reserve proposal, which calls for the maximum level of feed grains to be no more than 600 million bushels, may be too small.

"We think Congress should consider establishing a strategic corn reserve, isolated from the market, to be tapped during food and fuel emergencies," he said.

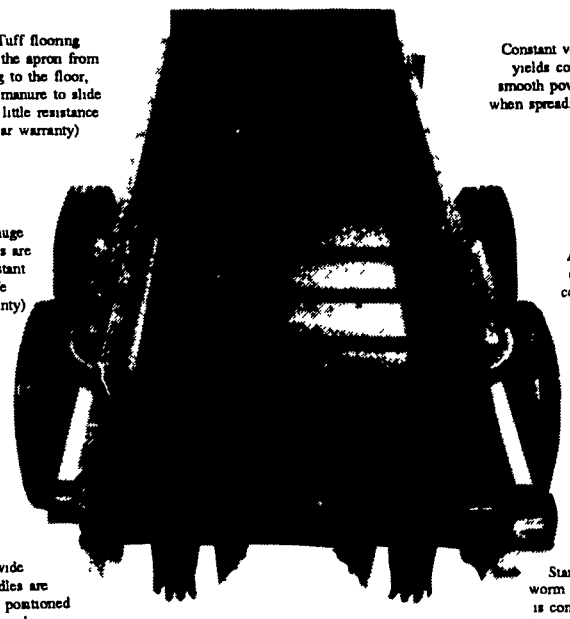
GEHL® Machines That Make Sense

HAUL MANURE WITH A GOOD SPREADER - Proven Performance Features & Economical Price Makes Gehl Your Box Spreader Choice!

Even when it's empty,



Gehl-Tuff flooring prevents the apron from freezing to the floor, allowing manure to slide out with little resistance (10 year warranty)
Constant velocity pto yields continuous, smooth power transfer when spreading on turns
Durable 12 gauge Gehl Steel sides are corrosion resistant for long life (10 year warranty)
Full length A-frame to axle design provides complete torsional support
Extra wide beater paddles are symmetrically positioned to deliver wider, more even spreads
Standard two speed worm drive transmission is completely protected by a polyethylene shield which won't rust or dent it's loaded.

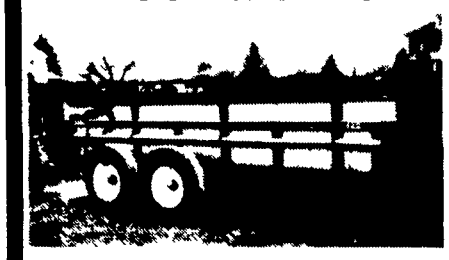
FULL 10-YEAR WARRANTY ON FLOOR & SIDES



Gehl-Tuff floor
In cold weather, the slick Gehl-Tuff surface reduces the force needed to break a frozen apron loose from the floor. So your whole load glides out with little resistance. And less apron pull means less wear and tear on drives and apron chains.

Heavy-duty gear boxes
Two heavy-duty gear boxes, one a 90 degree beater drive, the other a two-speed worm box with bronze gear and steel worm; provide efficient power transmissions, smoother operation and long life.

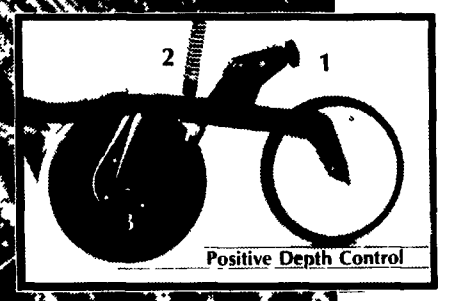
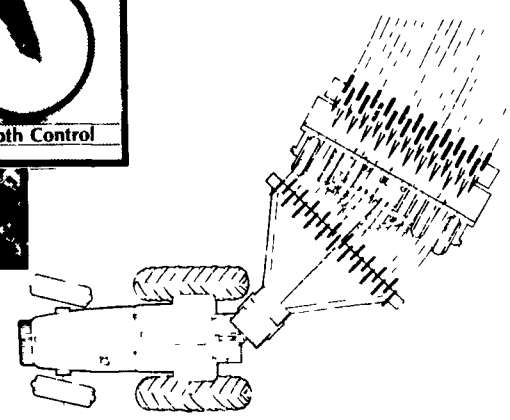
You Won't Find A Better No-Till Drill Than GREAT PLAINS



Great Plains Solid Stand® drills have the planting accuracy drilled soybeans need;
(1) Depth-Gauging Press Wheels keep the opener from penetrating too deep; planting depth can be quickly changed with exclusive dial-a-depth adjustment system. (2) Double Down-Pressure Springs hold opener firmly in the soil — preventing the bouncing action which leaves seed scattered on top of the ground.

(3) Special Seed Chute places seed in the very bottom of the v-slot, rather than allowing slot to partially close prior to seed release



THE NO-TILL HITCH THAT WORKS

Here's why:
A unique pivot between the coulter unit and the drill allows each disk opener to track exactly in the slot cut by the coulter in front — even while the unit is rounding a curve.

Excellent penetration is also achieved, thanks to a heavy-duty framework, calcium-fillable transport tires, and a special weight transfer design which applies some of the weight of the drill itself to the coulters. Should additional weight be needed, specially designed weight brackets are available which accept most tractor suitcase-style weights. In all, up to 400 lbs. of weight per coulter is possible — ensuring penetration even in the toughest ground.

Finally, all Combination Drill Hitches feature a quick hitch for attaching easily to 3-point drills. So you have the flexibility to no-till some acreage, then switch back to a conventional seeding method as conditions vary.

WARNING, ALL SILO OWNERS

Check Your Silo Now For Rotten Staves. If You Have Been Using Your Silo For 10 To 15 Years For Either Corn Silage Or Haylage, It Is Time To SHOTCRETE.

If you have a 15 year old silo... get it fixed or insure it better! But don't wait until the last minute to have it repaired because we may not be able to fix it if you wait too long.

REMEMBER your silo will not fall over when it's empty - it will fall over when it's full. It cannot stand on deteriorated concrete...

EGG SAFETY UPDATE
Milton Madison

About two years ago, information was released by a government agency questioning the safety of the U.S. Grade A egg supply. The processing techniques used in handling eggs and moving them from production to the consumer were designed assuming that the egg contents were sterile and all that was required was to prevent the egg from being contaminated by surrounding material.

The elimination of cracked and stained eggs from Grade A packages and the requirements for washing and sanitizing eggs had provided excellent protection for the egg contents in the past.

Eggs still are a safe food, as long as they are handled as a perishable product and cooked properly. Eggs, like other food products, cannot be considered sterile. The U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Food and Drug Administration offer these guidelines for handling eggs safely at home:

(1) Avoid eating raw eggs and foods containing raw eggs.

(2) Cook eggs thoroughly.

(3) Realize that eating lightly cooked foods containing eggs may be risky for people with weakened immune systems and other high-risk groups.

(4) Use Grade A or AA eggs with clean, uncracked shells.

(5) Purchase eggs where they have been kept refrigerated.

(6) Refrigerate eggs at home and do not wash before storing.

(7) Use raw shell eggs within 5 weeks, hard-cooked eggs within 1 week, and leftover yolks or whites within 4 days.

(8) Avoid keeping both raw and hard-cooked eggs out of the refrigerator for more than two hours.

(9) Wash hands, utensils, equipment, and work areas with hot, soapy water before and after they come in contact with eggs and egg-rich foods.

Marketers working hard

Egg marketers are working hard to make their eggs as safe as possible. The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA) is developing a proposal to change the standards for marketing eggs in Pennsylvania.

The regulations would require that eggs be cooled to an internal temperature of 45 degrees F before being delivered to retailers and held at that temperature until being purchased by consumers. Restaurants, food processors, and other food establishments would have to hold eggs at 45 degrees F until cooking or heating began. These temperatures are lower than what is currently required and are designed to increase the margin of safety for the consumer.

Egg producers are also working to keep their eggs safe. Pennsylvania producers have been participating in a voluntary testing program for breeding flocks that produce table-egg layers to insure they will produce the safest eggs possible.

This program was made mandatory and nationwide as of February 16, 1990. Pennsylvania's producers have also cooperated in diverting eggs to breakers when their flocks have been found by the USDA to be potentially not safe.

When eggs are diverted to breakers, the contents of the egg are pasteurized to ensure safety of the final product. These liquid egg products are a good alternative for consumers who still wish to consume raw or lightly cooked eggs.

HUTCHINSON, Kan. — Krause is announcing a new line of field cultivators. The 4200 Series will be available in a 3-section model with working widths of 18 feet to 39 feet or a 5-section model with working widths of 41 feet to 45 feet. Excellent trash flow results are obtained from the stretched frame and a new 25" underframe clearance shank which now has a minimum of 28" side-to-side spacing on each rank.

The 4200 Series will offer the K-tine shank, which carries a three-year warranty against breakage or a spring cushion shank.

For better balance, the 4200 Series has been designed with a rear rockershaft. Rugged 3"x4" frames have been stretched to allow 93" front-to-rear clearance. The new series also features a positive mechanical depth control.

Software Tracks Weather

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH — MarkTech Custom Weather Services announces the release of 'WeatherWare 3.2' for agribusiness.

The updated software has enhanced graphics capabilities that display weather phenomena on TV-broadcast quality, national, state and regional maps.

WeatherWare graphics are generated directly from satellite photos and are accurate up to the minute. Real-time data is taken from MarkTech's own satellite linkup and transmitted over the phone line to the user. Version 3.2 improvements include color banded displays of temperature, precipitation, and other meteorological data similar to that portrayed on the TV news.

Software is menu-driven and flexible. The user selects the categories of weather data and the geographic areas desired. Data choices are quickly downloaded onto a hard drive. Cost for on-line service is as low as $0.95 per minute at 2400 baud.

WeatherWare meteorological data includes precipitation measurements, hurricane tracking, forecast highs and lows, Palmer drought indices, jet stream maps, thunderstorm warnings, cloud cover, lightning strikes, wind speed, snowfall, and a dozen other categories. Forecasts of 2-day, 2-5, 6-10, 30, and 90-day outlooks are also available.

MarkTech spokesman David Brown said that the program was designed specifically with farmers in mind. "A corn farmer in Iowa can dial up our service any time, day or night, and get accurate readings of soil temperature, precipitation, or a 30-day forecast for his area or for the state," said Brown. "Likewise, a citrus grower in southern Florida can log into our system and get a forecast on temperature conditions if it looks like a cold front is moving into his locale. A farmer can focus on his state, his county, or his own farm. Instant response can be obtained by calling our 800 hotline. Our forecasters are on call 24 hours a day."

Brown said that WeatherWare was the only "industrial strength" weather broadcasting service available to individuals. Farmers utilizing WeatherWare were getting exactly the same service as provided to the company's large commercial clients such as John Deere, Dow Chemical, and Monsanto.

Liquid Manure Pump Improved

DEKALB, Ill.— A new, improved submersible liquid manure pump is now available from A. O. Smith Harvestore Products, Inc., headquartered here.

The model 460 Neptune Hi-Pro™ pump features a reliable motor, improved moisture protection system, and state-of-the-art controls. All components are manufactured in the U.S. including replaceable seals.

The new pump is powered by a 20 h.p. standard motor, replacing the custom-wound soft start motor in the previous model. The soft starting feature is now provided by the model 460's control box, resulting in a more economical package.

The motor and pump components further reduce the possibility of liquid entering the assembly. Electrical leads are butt-spliced and completely enclosed in epoxy to minimize moisture entry through the power cable. The model 460 also contains a new moisture detection system that warns the operator of possible seal failure before damage can occur. The new system has two separate probes and lead wires for greater reliability.

The model 460 replaces the original Neptune pump introduced four years ago with proven use on livestock farms across North America. It shares many features of the previous model, including its all-stainless steel fasteners and one-piece solid stainless steel shaft. Operating at 1750 RPM, the pump chops raw manure and bedding, agitates slurry within a reception pit, and transfers the processed liquid manure into an above-ground storage structure.

For new installations, the model 460 pump is sold as part of a complete reception pit package, including rock guard, cathodic protection anode, deck cover, and other required hardware. The pump can also be installed as a replacement in most existing reception pits, including many of those originally built to use pumps from other manufacturers.

This 20 h.p. pump is available with a choice of power options, including 240 volt single phase or three phase, as well as 480 and 575 volt three phase motors.

More information on the model 460 Neptune pump is available from your local authorized, independent Harvestore system dealer, Penn Jersey Products Inc. of New Holland, or by writing: Agricultural Marketing Department, A. O. Smith Harvestore Products, Inc., 345 Harvestore Drive, DeKalb, IL 60115.

HARVESTORE is a registered trademark and NEPTUNE HI-PRO is a trademark of A O Smith Harvestore Products, Inc

Belt Conveyor Introduced

DEKALB, Ill — A versatile new belt conveyor sized to fit lower feed-handling requirements has been introduced by A.O. Smith Harvestore Products, Inc.

The model 200 conveyor features a 15-inch wide belt and comes in lengths up to 90 feet. With an operating speed of 400 feet per minute, this conveyor moves feed fast.

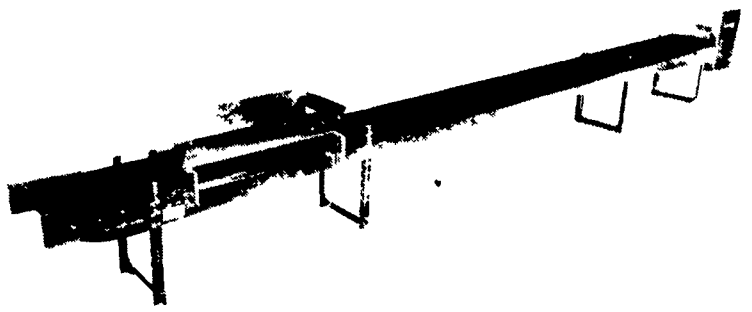
For example, the model 200 can deliver up to 1,000 pounds of medium-moisture cornlage per minute. With high-moisture shelled corn, the rated capacity is 560 pounds per minute.

The new belt conveyor is an economical alternative to noisy and obsolete auger or chain-and-flight conveyors. It is designed to mesh easily with existing feedroom equipment. Its low-profile design fits under unloaders, mixers, or roller mills, and in some configurations the conveyor can be inclined to elevate rations to feeders, feed carts, or mixers.

The model 200 features Dura-Glide® belting, a rugged material warranteed for two years and designed to give long life. Three different belt textures are available, depending on the specific application.

To move grain and forage on the level or at inclines up to 15 degrees, the smooth belt is recommended. A rough textured belt can handle inclines up to 30 degrees, depending on feedstuff, the mini-cleat belting will move forage at inclines up to 40 degrees and processed grain at up to 30 degrees.

An available undercarriage converts the model 200 into a handy portable conveyor that can be moved between jobs. Another option is an efficient belt-cleaning brush for use with rough textured or mini-cleat belting.



The model 200 belt conveyor from A. O. Smith Harvestore Products, Inc. features a 15-inch wide belt and comes in lengths up to 90 feet. It is ideal for applications where lower feed handling volume is required.

Chester Martin was appointed to serve a four-year term as a farmer director; Wilbur Kline was appointed to serve a four-year term as an urban director; and Joe Ausherman was appointed to serve a one-year term as county commissioner director.

Seven landowners were approved for conservation planning assistance. They are Tim Sollenberger, St. Thomas Township; Clyde Frey, Guilford Township; Ross and Harold Zeger, Antrim Township; James Kilgore and Paul Williamson, Fannett Township; and Richard Miller and Nelson Miller, Washington Township.

John Akers, district conservationist with the USDA Soil Conservation Service in Chambersburg and Thomas Kerr, county executive director for the Franklin County ASCS office, gave monthly reports of their offices' activities.

Mixer Has 4,000 Pound Capacity

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — Beachley-Hardy Seed Company has broadened their mixing service and improved customer response time with the acquisition of a new mixer.

The 4,000-pound capacity provides faster bagging and a doubled volume, according to Frank Welch, marketing director.

"An important advantage to the new equipment is that it can perform apron treatment on grass seed," Welch said.

Apron treatment, the addition of a fungicide which controls damping off diseases in the seedling stage, is critical to turf companies and professional landscapers who guarantee their services. "We see the addition of this equipment as a natural step in our expanding turf seed business," said Welch, "and we have been very pleased with our improved service, and our customers' response to it, since we put the mixer in operation several months ago."

Thurston Expands Facilities

Construction is under way to add 20,000 square feet to Thurston Manufacturing Company in Thurston, Nebraska, according to Layton Jensen, company president. With the steady growth in the company's Blu-Jet line of conservation tillage and fertilizer injection equipment, the expansion was necessary to provide the required storage and shipping space, according to the company.

NCGA Rejects National Checkoff Proposal

PHOENIX, AZ — Voting delegates to the National Corn Growers Association's (NCGA) 32nd annual Corn Classic, narrowly rejected a proposal for a national checkoff, but endorsed the continuation of state-by-state checkoffs at a uniform rate.

Although no specific plans have been made to study the issue of a national checkoff further, board members will take up the topic at their March meeting in Washington, D.C.

In a 102 to 93 vote, corn growers from 22 states rejected a mandatory checkoff of ½ of 1 percent of the net market price of a bushel of corn. The meeting began with a pro-national checkoff recommendation by a 13-member study committee which conducted 18 months of research.

Following the vote, the 195 delegates quickly closed ranks and affirmed their unity with a consensus statement. The NCGA will support "a uniform checkoff on all marketable corn, except sweet corn and popcorn, in all states to expand and enhance the use, marketing and efficient production of corn, and to do everything within the capability of NCGA that will benefit the commodity corn." The resolution concluded, "We believe the checkoff should be at a rate sufficient to promote the commodity corn to the fullest extent."

The consensus resolution resembled a substitute Illinois proposal for "the adoption of a uniform assessment (minimum of ½ cent per bushel) in all current and future state checkoff programs." The Illinois proposal was defeated by 103 to 92 immediately before the national checkoff vote.

In a calm and orderly debate, supporters of a national checkoff argued that it would spread the responsibility as well as benefits of promotion to all growers. They added that it would raise more funds. The study committee reported that, based on 1986 production and a $2.50 per bushel price, a national checkoff could have grossed $51.6 million compared to $9.8 million from 13 state checkoffs.

Under the proposed national checkoff, collections on every bushel of corn marketed in the U.S. would have begun upon passage of federal checkoff legislation. Funds collected during an 18- to 26-month interval before a national referendum would have been refundable. If the referendum passed, subsequent collections could not have been refunded.

Half the funds would have remained under control of "qualified state boards." The other half would have gone to a new 50-member national corn board (NCB), appointed by the secretary of agriculture. The NCB would also decide the eligibility of the state boards.

Another appointed, 18-member corn operating board (COB), under the same chairman as the NCB, would have developed and approved budgets and contracted with industry organizations such as the NCGA and the USFGC to carry out projects.

The secretary of agriculture, through the Agricultural Marketing Service, would have had oversight over the NCB, COB, and qualifying state boards. The ASCS would have collected funds in each state.

'Workhorse' Tractors Available From Ford

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Ford New Holland has four new 3-cylinder diesel tractors designed for "workhorse" duty on dairy, livestock, vegetable, and specialty farms as well as grounds maintenance and utility work.

The new 30-Series tractors feature increased horsepower, improved transmissions, stronger axles, larger fuel tanks, new cabs, and improved operator seat suspensions.

Horsepower has been increased and noise levels are lower. The new 3230 has 32 PTO hp. The 3430, 3930, and 4630 are rated at 38, 45, and 55 PTO hp, respectively. Optional four-wheel drive can be engaged and disengaged on the go.

Transmission options provide user choice to match the lugging power of the new units for a wide range of tractor work, said Ford New Holland Product Manager John Hundley. In addition to the standard 8 X 2 transmissions, a new 8 X 8 forward/reverse shuttle transmission is offered for more efficient loader work. Main, range, and shuttle are synchronized.

A 16 X 8 dual power option will be offered (mid-summer 1990) for the 3930 and 4630 tractors with a dash-mounted rocker switch to change ground speed up to 23 percent without using the clutch. "Creeper" and "super-creeper" gears for precision vegetable planting and harvesting are also available.

All the new units have quick-response hydrostatic steering that reduces steering effort. Front axles are straight, inverted "U" designs that have improved durability with tight turning radius. Constant velocity U-joints and 6-degree caster angle on four-wheel drive models allow shorter, 52-degree turns, a 10 percent improvement on the models they replace.

Hundley said that other improvements offered by the new tractors include larger 65-liter (17.3 gallon) rust-proof polyethylene fuel tanks, new quiet cabs, improved seat suspension, improved hydraulic linkage level adjustment, rear axle oil level dip stick, and larger tool boxes. Turf tires are available for four-wheel drive options.

DAIRY NEWS

BY C.M. BURNS
Pneumonia
Extension Veterinarian

With the cold weather upon us, many barns are being closed up for the season. The windows and air inlets are closed, and ventilation fans are turned off. Cattle are kept inside longer. The environment in the barn becomes dusty and humid. This establishes good conditions for respiratory problems within your herd and, most likely, in your replacement heifers.

Bovine respiratory disease is caused by a variety of factors which allow microbial colonization in the lungs. The consequences are respiratory distress, such as coughing, runny nose and difficult breathing. Cattle may also have an elevated temperature. Infectious Bovine Rhinotracheitis (IBR), Bovine Respiratory Syncytial Virus (BRSV) and Parainfluenza-3 (PI3) are common problems at this time of year. A major factor which determines the occurrence and severity of a disease is the environment which then affects how the immune status is able to fight the infectious agents.

The environment covers a wide variety of factors. It would include any stress the cattle were under, such as weaning or overcrowding. It also includes rapid weather changes outside, or poor ventilation and excess moisture in the barn. These are all factors which can reduce the immune system of the cattle or raise the bacteria or viral numbers to a level to make them sick.

Your veterinarian can prescribe the best methods for treatment. Antibiotics are generally given, although not effective for a viral infection they do reduce the chance of a secondary bacterial infection. Maintaining an immune status within the herd can be achieved with a vaccination program. There are many nasal, modified live and killed vaccines available. Consult with your veterinarian on the selection of diseases to vaccinate for and the vaccines to use.

Attitude Makes A Difference

Proper milking procedures and a positive attitude are required to minimize mastitis and maximize quality production from a milking herd. Milking should be done by responsible and conscientious persons. Good management dictates that the person milking must be constantly alert to conditions that may spread mastitis organisms from cow to cow. Correcting such conditions assists the production of high quality milk from healthier udders.

Sire Selection
For Milk Components

We have always valued cows with high butterfat test. Prior to the 1970s many dairymen felt that the "4%" Holstein was the ideal cow to have. Selection for fat percentage received less emphasis in the 1970s and early 1980s, and more attention was paid to total milk yield and to the dollar value of the product. However, bulls with low fat tests (less than 3.5%) on their daughters were discriminated against while sires with higher test averages were put back in regular service even though they were transmitting average or below average milk production.

Recently, the picture has changed. Consumers are constantly told to reduce their intake of fat and the dairy industry has a major butterfat surplus on its hands. This has caused a shift in emphasis from fat to protein content in our dairy cattle breeding procedures. The change is encouraged by the export market for semen and embryos wanting pedigrees that are positive for protein. The July 1989 release of the Animal Model sire evaluations was important because it ranked sires by percentiles that were based on Predicted Transmitting Ability for Protein Dollars (PTAP$), rather than on the traditional PTA dollars for

NCGA Approves Resolutions

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Voting delegates to the National Corn Growers Association's (NCGA) 32nd annual Corn Classic reaffirmed their commitment to a corn-friendly federal farm policy.

Following the final voting delegate session, NCGA President Alan Kemper highlighted the following policies approved by the 195 voting delegates from 22 states:

- Extension to the year 2002 of the 6-cent per gallon federal tax exemption for ethanol and now ETBE, an ethanol-derived fuel additive.
- Continued support for the U.S. sugar program with expanded research into crystallized fructose.
- Wholehearted support for the concepts embodied in the U.S. position at the Uruguay Round of GATT negotiations.
- Maintenance of target prices at current levels, to be adjusted by the Consumer Price Index.
- Support of greater corn producer flexibility in crop planting decisions.
- Continuation of voluntary multiperil crop insurance, pending further recommendations by the NCGA board and conclusions of the Congressional study commission.
- Establishment of health--based maximum contaminant levels (MCL) by the EPA for all toxic substances to determine their significance if found in groundwater.
- Retention and upgrades in the U.S. rail transportation system.

Delegates also responded to developments in Eastern Europe with a "Food For Freedom" resolution that would target "previously communist countries in the process of democratization" for food aid and trade concessions.

Specifically, the PL480 "Food for Peace" program should return to greater USDA control and be used more aggressively. The GSM-301 program, which directs profits from U.S.-financed commodity sales to building infrastructure, should be fully funded. Favored nation status should be extended to Eastern European nations by repeal or waiver of the Jackson-Vanik Amendment. Targeted Export Assistance should be expanded and used to help newly democratizing nations develop trading systems compatible with the GATT. And funding should be raised to help USDA and cooperators maximize trade opportunities.

'Workhorse' Tractors Available From Ford

Model 4630 "workhorse" 3-cylinder diesel tractors from Ford New Holland feature higher horsepower, improved transmissions, and quick-response hydrostatic steering. Transmission options include 8 x 8 forward/reverse shuttle for loader work, 16 x 8 dual power, and "creepers" in addition to the standard 8 x 2 range.

SCABBLING is an effective way to avoid unnecessary losses of cattle. The SCABBLER makes bands about two inches wide approximately 1/8" to 3/16 in. depth. This gives sufficient area for good footing while allowing you to scrape the smooth surface as before. It is near enough to the surface to give your cows full advantage of the roughness and deep enough to remain effective for years. It greatly aids in heat detection.

And the good news is that it is reasonably priced. You have the choice of doing it yourself or having us do it for you. We offer service right to your door. Call us for more details.

Tuber Disease, Disorders Studied At Potato Growers Meeting

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

WILLOW STREET (Lancaster Co.) — It's simple. Don't plant potato seed with scab in it.

As if that were at all possible.

But what are the problems in treating scab and internal heat necrosis on potato crops? That was the focus of one session at the 74th annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Cooperative Potato Growers and the 39th annual Potato Growers Institute at the Willow Valley Resort last week.

About 120 Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York, Maryland, and Delaware potato growers and 60 exhibitors attended the two-day seminar, sponsored by the Potato Growers and Penn State cooperatives.

Effective and promising

"Host resistance is the most effective and promising way to control scab disease," said Rosemary Loria, professor of plant pathology at Cornell University. Loria spoke about the orders of magnitude of common cab infestation of potatoes and some of the control methods to help stop scab infections.

"Potato scab can't be completely stopped by host resistance," Loria said, "especially if disease pressure is too high. But when the disease pressure is not high, you can get almost complete resistance to scab. However, when the disease pressure is high, complete host resistance won't work."

By weighing the "disease risks at hand," potato producers can select the method, by combining land management and herbicide/pesticide use, that will work best with them. Loria cautioned that there is no "one way" that will completely work to eliminate a problem such as potato scab.

Potato growers should keep in mind the following:

- Scab pathogens survive on the seed even when lesions are not present.
- Pathogens survive in the soil.
- Scab disease is more severe in course-textured soil.
- Scab disease is more severe under dry soil conditions.
- Scab disease is more severe after manure applications.
- Scab disease is more severe in soil with a pH above 5.2.
- Crop rotation reduces the severity of the disease.
- Integration of several different strategies using herbicides and pesticides is necessary for good scab control.

Increase the severity

Soil conditions that are too dry increase the severity of scab in the cases studied by Loria. Her tests, lasting several years and reviewing hundreds of different test samples, have shown that soil conditions have a "profound influence" on potato scab formation. Soils that are below 5.2 pH and are kept moist reduce the incidence and severity of scab.

Pesticide applications, cultural practices, and host resistance together contribute to scab control. Mancozeb seed treatment is best for potato scab control, said Loria.

Irrigation at 0 to -40 centibars controls scab. And soybeans and alfalfa rotation "have been long known to have a suppressing effect on scab formation," said Loria.

"Alfalfa and rye give best disease control," she said. Seed types such as NY-79 and NorKing were

"We may not have learned how to control heat necrosis, but we certainly know how to cut potatoes," said S.B. (Rikki) Sterrett, assistant professor of horticulture at the Virginia Truck Research Station, at the potato seminar.

Tuber Disease, Disorders Studied At Potato Growers Meeting

Pesticide applications, cultural practices, and host resistance together contribute to scab control, said Rosemary Loria, professor of plant pathology at Cornell University, at the potato seminar in Willow Street.

"essentially scab free," though NemaRus, Norchip, Norgold Russet, and several other seeds were "moderately resistive" to scab.

Cut potatoes

"We may not have learned how to control heat necrosis, but we certainly know how to cut potatoes," said S.B. (Rikki) Sterrett, assistant professor of horticulture at the Virginia Truck Research Station.

Sterrett explained, in detail, the background of a research project called the Environmental Influence On Internal Heat Necrosis, a co-op study undertaken across locations in New Jersey and Virginia and the University of Arkansas to predict internal necrosis.

Factors which lead to internal heat necrosis (IHN) include temperatures above 77 degrees F early in the growing season; reduced rainfall; and growing conditions which foster poor set and large tuber size.

A wet, cool spring, a hot early summer, a long dry spell, no rain after first trace, and a low set should put growers on "red alert" for signs of IHN, said Sterrett.

Largest tubers

"Internal heat necrosis starts at the largest tubers first," said Sterrett. "The condition increases with time." Sterrett said that unfavorable environmental conditions early in June can also hasten the development of IHN.

Better irrigation procedures, planting the seed late (order seed in storage longer can promote IHN), and more stems per hill with different spacing had a minor effect on IHN conditions. Delaying some planting to avoid bad spring conditions is beneficial, but waiting too long has a detrimental effect on the potato.

"It depends on the situation and year involved," she said. "But last year was not a severe year for IHN."

'Honoring America's Providers'

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — The Berks County conservation district along with the Berks County Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service (ASCS) will be sponsoring a banquet to honor conservation efforts in Berks County at the Shartlesville Grange Hall on Monday, April 2, at 7:00 p.m.

To be honored as outstanding conservation farmer of the year will be Stephen Burkholder of Rockland Township, who has a hog, corn, and soybean operation. Burkholder is active in several organizations and has served as president of the Eastern Pennsylvania Pork Producers and the Berks County Farm/City Council. By using conservation tillage and installing terraces and waterways, Burkholder has dramatically reduced soil losses.

This year an Urban Forestry Award Winner for 1989 has been chosen, the Borough of West Reading, for the job their Shade Tree Commission has accomplished along with the guidance received by Jeff Stuffle, service forester.

Dave Nace, of the Brandywine Heights School District in Topton, was the state winner this year in the NACD/Deutz-Allis Conservation Educator Award. He was honored at the PACDD Convention in the fall but will also be recognized at this banquet. He was honored by the district in 1980 as the Outstanding Conservation Educator.

Donald N. Lacy of Riverview Park in Reading was chosen as the outstanding conservationist for 1989. He also placed first in the state contest and was recognized last October at the PACD Convention. He also placed in the "Take Pride in Pennsylvania Contest" and has already received that award.

Lacy has served many years with the Berks County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, including the last several years as president. He has been influential in that group and the Muhlenberg Lions Club, along with the Muhlenberg School District in providing funds and students for the Conservation Leadership School that the district has helped to sponsor. He recently retired from 40 years with Metropolitan Edison.

The Rhinelander Band of Berks County will be providing musical entertainment for the evening.

Jack Gounder, a District Director and former radio announcer, will act as the Master of Ceremonies and keep the awards and events moving along in his own style.

Corn Growers:

LISA Is Not Your Enemy

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Low-input, sustainable agriculture (LISA) should not be feared by farmers but should be embraced as a way to marry concerns about the environment and production.

That is the conclusion of Paul O'Connell, deputy administrator of the Cooperative State Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. O'Connell made the remarks at the National Corn Growers Association's Corn Classic, held here.

LISA looks to complement production and environmental goals, O'Connell said. "We're not going back to pulling weeds by hand," he said.

The emphasis on LISA is to maximize the net return on farming and not on maximizing yield, O'Connell said. Farmers in Iowa who have cut their chemical use by as much as one half have not noticed a decrease in net return.

That's because lower input costs have offset the somewhat lower yields that farmers have sometimes harvested because of reduced use of chemicals or pesticides.

O'Connell listed several misconceptions often connected with LISA, including the charges that world food supplies will be threatened if LISA is practiced on a wide scale and that LISA isn't based on science.

Funding for LISA-related research will be about $4.5 million in the current fiscal year's USDA budget, O'Connell said, out of a total USDA research budget of $1.2 billion. Research included 78 team projects on 189 farms in 33 research projects.

The LISA research projects are only beginning, O'Connell emphasized, and more research needs to be done to study the impact of LISA on both the environment and on farmers' bottom lines.

Changes to a LISA-type approach will not occur overnight, O'Connell said, and will only be made if it can be shown that profits increase because of LISA.

"Will LISA continue or will it be a short-term romance," O'Connell said. "The concepts will continue. There is a desperate search by farmers to find ways to farm without chemicals."

Even the major farm chemical companies are adapting to LISA by selling products and service, O'Connell said.

Ag Week Open House Set In Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, MD — The Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) will hold its annual "National Agriculture Week" open house on Saturday, March 24 at 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, west of the Parole Plaza Shopping Center.

Several MDA animal health facilities around the state also plan open house activities that day.

Kicking off the Annapolis event will be the "Maryland With Pride" 10-kilometer run, starting at 9 a.m. in front of the MDA headquarters building. Some 500 runners are expected to compete over the 6.2-mile course. Annapolis Striders, Inc., is co-sponsoring the event.

Other activities for the open house include country music, farm and craft demonstrations, a farm animal petting zoo, educational displays, and announcement of winners in a farm coloring contest. The latter event is being run in conjunction with Capital-Gazette Newspapers.

Food demonstrations and sampling also will be conducted.

Several of the MDA laboratories will be open so that visitors may view regulatory and research work being done in plant protection, gypsy moth and mosquito control, seed testing, and turf production.

The department's weights and measures section will present demonstrations to acquaint the public with its important consumer protection work.

Inviting the public to attend the open house, Wayne A. Cawley, Jr., Maryland's secretary of agriculture, noted how the MDA fulfills this year's theme for National Agriculture Week, "Honoring America's Providers — Tradition and Change."

"Our work involves support of traditional agriculture through the use of modern technology," said Cawley. "At the same time, we are engaged in unconventional programs like aquaculture to assist new methods of producing food."

Group Will Study Old Buildings

LANDIS VALLEY (Lancaster Co.) — Is there a 200-year old house near you?

A new study group would like to know. The group is forming to study old houses, barns, mills, churches, and landscapes in Southeastern Pennsylvania and the Susquehanna River watershed. The group will be having an organizational meeting here at the Landis Valley Museaum on Saturday, March 24, at 9:30 a.m.

Keynote speaker is Dr. Don Yoder of the University of Pennsylvania, an authority on Pennsylvania Dutch and Quaker culture. He will present his study on hex signs found on buildings, furniture, textiles, and "taufscheins" in Pennsylvania, Europe, and Wales.

"Some of Pennsylvania's oldest hex signs are found on buildings of Welsh, not Dutch or German builders," said Yoder.

Sponsors include Penn State, Millersville U., Susquehanna U., Elizabethtown College, Colonial Williamsburg, The Berks County Conservancy, The Mennonite Historical Society, The PHMC Bureau of Historic Preservation, and local representatives.

Write To Fight Animal Rights

R.E. GRAVES
Extension Ag Engineering

USDA receives more mail concerning the care of animals than about any other topic.

Much of this mail is from people concerned that modern farming practices result in animals being mistreated. The animal rights/animal welfare movement can not be ignored.

Legislators told a recent meeting of an agricultural professional society and farm group representatives that animal rights was among the top two or three topics they received mail on.

What many dismissed as a radical minority a few years ago is turning into a very well supported and financed organization that is attracting a lot of attention in Washington.

These groups play on society's good feelings towards pets and use distortions, half truths, fear, and the general ignorance of the public as to farming practices to sell their message.

What do we know about this issue?

- Its not going to go away.
- People are concerned and want to feel that animals are cared for humanely.
- Most people, including our legislators, don't know how farm animals are kept.
- Congress will act based on the interest shown by constituents' mail.
- Some of the driving force behind this movement is aimed at stopping the use of animals for food, clothing, education, and even development of medicine and health procedures.

Why should you care?

- Do you depend on animals or people who raise animals for your livelihood?
- Do you include animal products in your diet?
- Do you take advantage of modern medicines and surgical procedures?

What can you do?

- Keep your legislators informed as to how you feel about the care and use of animals.
- Help your legislators and their staffs become acquainted with animal agriculture in Pennsylvania.
- Become familiar with the many issues that are included under the umbrella of animal rights or animal welfare (State and national farm organizations can provide information).
- Participate in activities that help nonfarm people understand how animals are cared for on farms in your area.
- Help people remember that farmers have always been concerned with the welfare of animals and put in many long hard days (and nights) caring for them.
- Educate the mass media - publishers, reporters, food editors, pet columnists and wildlife reporters. Be available to help them interpret stories from non-agricultural people about animal agriculture.

Maryland Pork Expo Set For April

SALISBURY, MD — The 1990 Maryland Pork Expo will be held at the Howard County Fair Grounds on Saturday, April 28, 1990.

Highlights for the Expo include a junior market hog show, a swine judging school, and the feeder pig show and sale. Entries for the show will be accepted until April 20, 1990.

The swine judging school will provide 4-H and FFA members with an opportunity to learn how to select a feeder pig for the summer show season. Dr. William Curry will be conducting the school and premiums will be awarded to the 10 best scores in both the junior (under 14 years on January 1, 1990) and senior classes.

4-H and FFA students are encouraged to purchase their show animals at the feeder pig sale and are rewarded with a special award of $10 if the animal they purchase is chosen as champion or reserve champion at a county show in Pennsylvania, Virginia, or Maryland. They will be awarded $25 if the animal is selected as champion or reserve champion at the Maryland State Fair.

The feeder pigs on sale at the show are from top swine herds in the state who currently have pigs on test at the Maryland Pork Producers test station in Westminster. The test animals will be judged at the Pork Expo for conformation and show quality before being shipped to Hatfield for carcass scoring.

Pork

According to recent articles, the first clinical sign of swine reproductive failure syndrome occurs with sows and gilts in gestation feeling sick and going off feed. Ten to 14 days later, abortions are observed. These are followed by stillborn pigs and finally a high incidence of mummified fetuses. In some of the stillborn pigs, the head may have a dome shape or otherwise odd appearance. Pigs that do survive often suffer from respiratory problems.

Most researchers agree that an infectious agent is causing the problem, but to date no organisms have been positively identified. However, possible causes that have been suggested include feed mycotoxins, encephalomyocarditis (EMC) virus, and a bacteria called chlamydia which can be carried by birds. Evidence supported both EMC virus and chlamydia as causative organisms is stronger than the mycotoxin theory.

While there is no effective treatment against viruses, chlamydia can be treated with tetracyclines in the feed or the water. A few herds have observed some improvement with the use of tetracyclines.

Pigs stay salmonella-free on meat and bone meal

Many swine producers are curious about feeding meat and bone meal to pigs because of possible Salmonella contamination.

If not processed or handled properly, meat and bone meal can lead to Salmonella infections in pigs. (Recent Salmonella problems in egg laying operations have convinced that segment of the poultry industry to avoid using meat by-products in laying feed).

A recent study from Purdue Univ. indicates meat and bone meal can be safe. In their trials, Purdue researchers fed the following diets to weaning pigs: corn-soy; corn-soy with 5 percent added fat; corn-soy with 8 percent non-sterilized meat and; bone meal; and corn-soy with 8 percent sterilized (autoclaved) meat and bone meal.

Results

1. Average daily gains, feed intakes, and feed conversions were similar for all diets.

2. All pigs were negative for Salmonella, both before and during the experiment.

3. The meat and bone meal used in the diets contained one strain of Salmonella: (+)E4(O):G COMP(H).

Conclusions

Existence of naturally occurring non-pathogenic strains of Salmonella in meat and bone meal did not adversely affect post-weaning performance or induce any Salmonella growth in the intestines of pigs under the conditions of this study. However, producers feeding meat and bone meal must still demand good quality in meat by-products.

Sulfa update

As most producers are aware, problems with sulfonamide residues have been nearly eliminated. However, the FDA plans to take another look at the sulfa problem in early 1990 to decide the fate of sulfamethazine.

A brief history of the problem

- 1977- 13 percent of livers from swine carcass had illegal sulfa residues.
- 1980- Through educational efforts, the problem seemed to be subsiding. Residue rate had dropped to about 4 percent.
- 1987- Residue rate dropped 3.8 percent and FSIS began an enhanced regulation program.
- 1988- The 100 largest packing plants began taking samples first from tissue, then from urine. By mid-year, the residue rate was down to .54 percent.

Some additional notes

Most violations have been with sulfamethazine (97 percent of all sulfa residues in 1987). The next most frequent violator has been sulfadimethoxine.

Sulfamethazine has been linked to cancer in rats and mice. However, it doesn't appear to be a primary carcinogen. If it is not a direct cause of cancer, then the restrictions as a feed additive would be less severe.

Summary

The FDA will be deciding in early 1990 whether to change the tissue tolerance levels for sulfamethazine or to simply take the drug off the market. In the meantime, sulfathiazole continues to be an effective drug and has created very few problems with tissue residue. It is most commonly available in feed-grade form as CSP-250.

Pasture Management Program

Pasture is important to all who have livestock, whether it is 5 or 55 cows, 1 horse, or 15 sheep.

A pasture management program, to be held March 20, 7:30 p.m. at the Venango Co. extension office, will cover all aspects of pasture management.

Lyn Hoffman will be discussing reseeding and pasture renovation. Dave Fowler will be talking about pasture utilization and maintenance. There will also be a section on rotational grazing and the different options available in fencing.

UNIVERSITIES ADD LAMB TO MENU CYCLE

An increasing number of colleges and universities are adding lamb to the menu, and the trend is likely to continue. Recently the University of South Dakota, served lamb for the first time by making it part of its special monthly student menu. Proving to be successful, lamb may become a regular menu item for next year.

New Vegetable Marketing Campaign Under Way

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — With Americans now enjoying more than twice as many fresh vegetables as they did 25 years ago, it seems consumers have finally discovered what mom knew all along: fresh vegetables are an important source of vitamins and minerals in a healthy diet.

To keep pace with consumer demand for fresh produce, Pennsylvania's vegetable growers are launching a new marketing campaign this season promoting the quality and availability of their crops.

The campaign is being sponsored by the two-year-old Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program, a grower-funded organization representing more than 2,000 vegetable producers statewide.

"Pennsylvania vegetables are fresher and less expensive than those flown in from other areas of the country," said Daniel Schantz, Vegetable Marketing and Research Program chairman. "They are available almost year-round, and best of all they are plentiful."

Pennsylvania farmers produce more than 30 different vegetable crops, ranging from sweet corn — grown on more than 20,000 acres — to okra, grown on only 8 acres. Other popular Pennsylvania vegetables include tomatoes, snap beans, peas, pumpkins, cabbage, cantaloupes, peppers, and cucumbers.

Promotion of Pennsylvania vegetables will begin in April as the first stalks of fresh local asparagus reach farm markets and roadside stands. The campaign's centerpiece is a signature graphic featuring illustrations of the state's 10 most popular vegetables with the slogan "Pennsylvania Proven Produce." The new logo will be incorporated into full-color posters and point-of-purchase materials.

"Consumers should look for the Pennsylvania Proven Produce logo at their farm markets and roadside stands beginning this spring," Schantz said. "The logo is their assurance that the vegetables are the freshest and highest quality available."

The Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program was established in 1988. In addition to promoting the sale of fresh Pennsylvania produce, the program also funds ongoing vegetable research at Penn State University.

ADC Tells Mercersburg

BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin Co. Correspondent

KAUFFMAN STATION (Franklin Co.) — "One thing that contributes to the sale of milk and dairy products is that they're a good buy," Jim Fraher, an economist with Atlantic Dairy Cooperative (ADC), told members of ADC's Mercersburg local chapter. "As of January 1990, the cost of most food is up 30 percent from the years 1982-84. Dairy foods are up only 26 percent."

"The dairy industry is playing catch-up with the rest of agriculture," Fraher said of the recent increases in milk price.

Fraher made his remarks at the annual dinner meeting of the Mercersburg Local of ADC's District #15, held March 9 at the Kauffman Ruritan Building.

A hearing will be held in June, Fraher said, on the subject of a multiple component pricing plan. Supply and demand will probably continue to determine the price of milk, he said, with the value of butterfat and solids-not-fat also being determined in the marketplace.

Fraher predicted a "big slide" — as much as $3.50 per hundredweight — from the peak prices seen in January. "We're working on maintaining over-order premiums," he added.

The United States government's dairy programs have cut 75 percent of their costs since 1985, Fraher said. "The dairy programs cost $2.3 billion in 1985 and $600 million in the current fiscal year. I don't know any other government program that has cut 75 percent of its costs."

"There is zero government inventory of cheese and non-fat dry milk powder. All inventories of surplus cheese and non-fat dry milk powder have been worked off."

Fraher reminded the farmers that the local area is vital to ADC, and encouraged them to talk to their neighbors about the cooperative.

"We have secure, profitable markets for milk. We had a good year last year, and we're looking to equal or exceed that this year," he said.

ADC has revolved $29 million in equities to date.

Norman Sollenberger of Fayetteville, a member of ADC's board of directors since 1973, also addressed the membership.

"District #15 is ADC's largest," he said, "with 231 producer members-- 109 in the Mercersburg local and 122 in the Chambersburg local.

"We're $165,000 ahead of last year at this time," he added.

Holly Milk Cooperative has merged into ADC, according to Sollenberger.

"In December, 143 tractor-trailer loads of cream were made into butter at Holly. This produced 3.25 million pounds of butter for Land O' Lakes, which made $100,000 for the cooperative," Sollenberger said.

ADC paid out $169,000 in premiums in January, Sollenberger said, with 979 producers receiving 10 cent premiums and 450 producers receiving 20 cent premiums.

Sollenberger presented a plaque to V. Myers Metcalfe of Mercersburg in recognition of the 18½ years Metcalfe has served on the ADC's board of directors.

Receiving 25-year membership awards were Clyde and Lillian Burkholder, Chambersburg; Dean and Doris Meyers, Chambersburg; Joe and Betty Dulebohn, Greencastle; and Lester and Gerald Peckman, Chambersburg.

Get control of quack so it won't grow back, with Ranger® herbicide.

You're losing money every time you feed your dairy herd alfalfa that's infested with quackgrass. That's because quackgrass has less energy and about one-half the crude protein content of high quality alfalfa. As a result, you may have to supplement extra protein and grain to maintain production goals. Rations calculated by dairy nutritionists show it can cost *$51 per cow per lactation cycle to make up the protein lost from alfalfa with 30% quackgrass.

sburg Local Good News

V. Myers and Margaret Metcalfe received a plaque from the Atlantic Dairy Cooperative in recognition of Metcalfe's 18½ years of service on the board of directors.

Kulp, Kurtz Named Kutztown Outstanding Farmers

VAL VANTASSEL
Berks Co. Correspondent

KUTZTOWN, Berks Co. — Approximately 200 young farmers, FFA members and their guests honored Floyd and Beth Kurtz and Kevin Kulp as Kutztown's Outstanding Young Farmers.

The Kurtzes of Kurwood Farm were named the top young farmers over 30 at the Kutztown FFA/Youth Farmers Banquet last Monday night at the Kutztown Grange. The couple milks 70 head of Holstein with a rolling herd average of 18,000 pounds.

Kevin Kulp, Fleetwood R4, was the outstanding young farmer under 30. Kevin has worked for his father, Raymond for seven years. The Kulps have a rolling herd average of 16,500 pounds.

The FFA members voted Brian Tworkoski the chapter Star Farmer. Tworkoski, a sophomore and Kutztown's secretary, is a second-year member with a supervised occupational experience program in beef. The members chose freshman Michael Moatz as the Star Greenhand. A Brandywine student, Moatz's superviced occupational experience program includes dairy, beef and horses.

Beth and Floyd Kurtz were the Outstanding Young Farmers over 30 at the Kutztown FFA/YF banquet. Abby and Josh, front, watch while YF President Robert Tercha congratulates their folks. Missing from the family picture is sister Rebecca.

Instead, get rid of quackgrass with money-saving Ranger® herbicide. Ranger kills quackgrass all the way down to the roots so it can't grow back. And Ranger won't carry over like atrazine can—leading to significant increases in alfalfa stands and tonnage.

This spring, do the job right with Ranger herbicide. See your dealer for Ranger herbicide today.

Monte and Becky Schroeder, back, were honored with the community service award at the Kutztown FFA/JF banquet. Tim, Derek and Lisa, front, were on hand to see their parents pick up their award. Sister Lynmarie is absent from the picture.

The Young Farmers also honored Monte Schroeder and his wife, Becky with the community service award. According to Young Farmers President Robert Tercha, Schroder was instrumental in keeping vocational-agriculture at Kutztown High School.

Tercha and Assistant Principal Albert Cunningham were named honorary FFA members. Both were honored for their commitment to vocational agriculture.

Seven FFA'ers were presented proficiency awards, including: extemporaneous speaking, Jeannine Seidel; home improvement, Michael Moatz; special crops, Ed Harmon; cereal crops, Scott Zettlemoyer; beef, Brian Tworkoski; swine, Todd Rabenold; and leadership, Dennis Cooper.

Past state Young Farmers President Fred Bohn presented the Young Farmers with an award for having the largest percent increase in membership for the past year. He also displayed the honorary Young Farmers Award for Donald Reinert.

David Schantz had a chance to put his first aid training to the test when he found his hired hand caught in a PTO shaft. Schantz was honored with a special award during the Kutztown FFA/YF banquet for his life-saving efforts. Chapter Secretary Phoebe Bittler congratulated Schantz.

Computers: What Can They Do For Farming?

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Before buying a computer for your farm operation, the panelists had this advice: Consult those in the know.

"I suggest you deal with someone that understands ag software. You should try and purchase a turnkey system, which includes the hardware and software in the package," said Nevin Dourte, from Jacob H. Ruhl, Inc. insurance company. Dourte spoke on a panel, "Lessons I Have Learned," during the Agriculture Computing Conference last week at the Farm and Home Center.

Dourte was one of three panelists who agreed that, while it may be difficult at times finding the exact computer software for the right farm application, analyzing your needs, consulting the specialists, and becoming more knowledgeable about software products are keys to finding the right computer for the right application.

About seven computer exhibitors from the area were on hand to answer questions and display the latest computer and hardware products for the potential farm user at the conference, conducted by the Penn State extension. Farm computer experts spoke about new developments in hardware, environmental monitoring, expert systems, and telecommunications — and how they are used on the farm.

Nothing for sure

"Nothing is for sure anymore," said Dourte. "Software companies you look at may look totally solid now, but 6 or 12 months down the line they may not be around. If somebody goes out of business, there is a chance somebody may but the company and keep it going. But you can't be sure."

Dourte and the other panelists agreed that knowing the right specialists and getting an accountant's professional help before purchasing a computer are important.

"I rely on people specializing in certain areas," said Roger Garber, who operates a Mt. Joy farm with his father and brother. Together they farm about 1,000 acres and raise poultry, livestock, and crops. He uses an IBM-compatible computer.

Garber said, "There are certain people specialized in a certain area that you find, people who know a certain area — and you tie into them for their knowledge."

Value of computers

Garber's "school of hard knocks" experience has taught him the value of using computers on his farm. Certain accounting software elements, such as references, enterprising, check writing, and other accounting procedures are important to him.

"My advice is to sit down with your accountant and determine what you need before you buy a computer," Garber said.

Ed Zug, a Peach Bottom dairy farmer, purchased his Apple IIe in 1983. He manages 50 Holsteins on his 150 acres of cropland, keeps careful crop and profit and loss statements on a monthly basis, and tax records on his computer.

After purchasing his computer, Zug took a class in using the computer, and gives his advice for the potential computer buyer: "Find what you want and try to find the software that allows you to do that. And come to meetings like this to find out about computer software and hardware for farming."

Look for software

But the first thing to do is look first for the software that will work best for you, and then select the hardware accordingly, according to Zug.

Dourte, who purchased a "true blue" IBM, agrees. "The best and easiest way is to find a program that will meet your needs on the farm and operate it. Jump right in, but get what you need up front," he said.

But Dourte cautions that if you learn the program too fast, it may not be the right one for you. And custom-written software "is not the way to go — it's more expensive than a canned program."

You must examine whether the program, in the end, will save you time. The computer may not necessarily make you more money, but the "increased accuracy and the detail out" is what brings most farmers who use computers "back week after week for more," Dourte said.

Gospel of computing

"Time is money," said Garber. "But the gospel of computing is to back up your hard drive." If you don't back up the hard drive (which stores most of the software and data on a computer), "you could lose data," he said.

But the panelists who spend time learning on a certain machine purchased the same machine because it was what they were "used to." All said they would

How to find system experts? Garber suggests going to a third company that critiques packages for the farmer.

"They know more about software than me," Garber said. He mentioned the "Agriclutural Computing Newsletter," available on an $88 per year subscription basis from Doane Information Services, 11701 Borman Dr., St. Louis, MO 63146.

Look at computer

Dourte said that farmers should look at a computer "seriously to see how it can fit into his or her operation.

"To stay on the cutting edge of agriculture, you have to seriously think about getting (a computer) in the future," he said.

"One word of wisdom is that the computer will do exactly what you tell it, nothing more and nothing less," said Zug.

"Computers is an area where I can shine and increase our business," said Garber.

'Toy or Tool?'

Pat Richie, multi-county agricultural engineer, spoke about "Computers — Toy or Tool?"

According to Richie, computers could be used for "a lot of things" on the farm.

Through a small tutoring program, Richie demonstrated how easy it was to use a computer.

"Computer programs are becoming more user-friendly than 4 or 8 years ago," he said.

For the Mac, programs such as Microsoft Excel (also available for IBM computers and compatibles) can be written for agricultural purposes.

In a program set up to calculate the costs to raise dairy heifers, a farmer could determine expected net return from 0 to 30 months by inputting feed and other management variables.

"The computer can do anywhere from 85 to 100 percent of this kind of calculation," Richie said. "It doesn't do the whole farm 100 percent, but it can do part of it."

"Computers is an area where I can shine and increase our business," said Roger Garber, a Mt. Joy farmer, far right, at the Ag Computing Conference last week at the Farm and Home Center in Lancaster. Nevin Dourte, Jacob H. Ruhl, Inc., third from left, was one of three panelists who agreed that, while it may be difficult at times finding the exact computer software for the right farm application, analyzing your needs, consulting the specialists, and becoming more knowledgeable about software products are keys to finding the right computer for the right application. Left to right: Ed Zug, a Peach Bottom dairy farmer; Glenn A. Shirk, Penn State dairy extension agent, moderator; Dourte; and Garber.

Penn State Opens New Extension Office

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — A new era for the Penn State Cooperative Extension began officially on March 2, when the new headquarters of the extension's capital region, located at Penn State Harrisburg in Middletown, opened its doors.

The ribbon-cutting ceremony completes the recent restructuring that separated the extension's former southeast region into two administrative areas.

"We formed two regions in this part of the state to better serve the area's diverse needs," said Dr. Lamartine F. Hood, dean of the College of Agriculture at Penn State and director of the cooperative extension. "Philadelphia has become the extension's largest urban center, calling for a host of urban-specific programs. On the other hand, the Lancaster area is rich in agricultural resources. Two separate regions serve both areas more effectively."

The seven counties in the capital region are Adams, Cumberland, Dauphin, Franklin, Lancaster, Lebanon, and York counties. The new Southeast Region includes Berks, Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Lehigh, Montgomery, Northampton, Philadelphia, and Schuylkill counties.

The strategic office location contributes to effective regional service. At Penn State Harrisburg, the capital region will be better able to incorporate outreach activities of both the college and the university.

"Our placement at Penn State Harrisburg is very positive," said Dr. Paul Wangsness, director for the capital region. "We feel very comfortable about our new base. The potential for university-wide collaboration is enhanced because our office is located close to programs such as the Small Business Development Center, the Ben Franklin Program, the Institute of State and Regional Affairs, and the Continuing Education Office."

"We are proud to have the Capital Region office headquartered at Penn State Harrisburg," said Dr. Ruth Leventhal, provost and dean and professor of biology. "Extension educational programs will complement and strengthen the many community outreach services offered from Penn State Harrisburg. We look forward to a fruitful relationship with the cooperative extension."

Spearheading daily activities at the regional headquarters are assistant to the regional director Michelle S. Rodgers, a former Berks County extension agent and secretary Linda Zubler. The office's address is Penn State Cooperative Extension, Capital Region Office, Penn State Harrisburg, 64 CRAGS Building, US Route 230, Middletown, PA 17057, (717) 948-6326.

Berks Dairy Banquet Highlights 4-H Achievers

VAL VanTASSEL
Berks Co. Correspondent

SHARTLESVILLE (Berks Co.) — Members of Berks County's five dairy clubs and the veal club filled the Shartlesville grange recently for the annual dairy banquet.

More than 175 members and their families joined together to honor project winners, club officers, leaders, and coaches for their efforts in the last year.

Tammy Balthaser, Western Berks Dairy Club, served as toastmaster for the event. Heidi Schlegel, eastern Berks, gave the invocation.

Duane Stump and Gary Bicksler showed slides of their European dairy judging trip.

Six 4-H'ers were honored for their outstanding project books, including 8-9 year-olds, Erica Davis, northern Berks; ages 10-11, Lynn Koinski, northern Berks; ages 12-13, Jennifer Hoffman, western Berks; ages 14-15, Jennifer Hix, northern Berks; ages 16-17 Kirk Sattazahn, Stouchburg; age 18, Heidi Schlegel, eastern Berks.

Among the blue form winners were a brother-sister combination of Janice and Scott Youse of the Eastern Berks Dairy Club. Janice won the ages 8-9 award and Scott topped the 16-17 age group. Suzanne Dietrich and Brandy Moser of the Virginville Dairy Club won the 10-11 and the 12-13 age groups, respectively. Tammy Balthaser picked up the 18-year-old award.

The veal club also had two project book winners. In the junior division, David Nirshel had the first place entry. Brian Gougler had the best book in the senior division. Leader Lee Gougler encouraged more 4-H'ers to become involved in the veal club and the contest in the future.

The officer book awards were won by girls from three different clubs. Melissa Bicksler, Stouchburg, submitted the top secretary's book. Eastern Berks member Denise Hoch had the outstanding treasurer's book. Erica Davis, a northern Berks 4-H'er, won the club scrapbook award.

Troy Koenig won the Dairy Judging Team Award. Troy was the second place individual at Penn State 4-H Days and a member of the state team at the 1989 World Dairy expo.

Special thanks was also offered to dairy judging coaches James Younker, Doris Alspaugh, William Lesher, and Roy Malik. Thanks were also given to George Merrill, Dagney Leidinger, and Connie Troutman for their work with the Dairy Bowl Team.

Stouchburg member Melissa Bicksler, right, had the top secretary's book at the Berks Co. 4-H Dairy Banquet. Erica Davis, Northern Berks Dairy Club, led the scrapbook category.

Davis Nirshel, Jr. and Brian Gougler submitted the top project book for the Berks Co. 4-H Veal Club.

Delmarva Poultry Banquet Set

GEORGETOWN, DE — Thousands of supporters of the Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc. (DPI) will gather in Salisbury, Maryland, April 24, 1990 for the annual Delmarva Poultry Booster Banquet. The banquet will conclude the 1990 DPI Fund Drive.

"I'm pleased with the progress we're making toward reaching our goal of $425,000," said Fund Drive Chairman Alden H. Balfany. The Fund Drive is DPI's method of raising money for its many programs which benefit Delmarva's poultry industry. In the next few weeks, hundreds of solicitors will continue making contact with past and prospective community and allied industry investors.

The entertainment at the Booster Banquet will be John Gunter, "The Singing Sheriff," according to banquet chairman Joel A. Boren, a DPI director. Gunter, an Indian law enforcement officer, calls himself a country homorist with a message for the family and America. Gunter will tell what is wrong with America and what must be done to correct its problems. Using humor and song, Gunter will speak about "America: Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow." Investors of $100 or more will receive tickets to the banquet.

In addition to Gunter's program the booster banquet will include recognition for Delmarva's outstanding growers and the presentation of awards to individuals who have made exceptional contributions to the poultry industry.

milk and fat. PTA has replaced the Predicted Difference (PD) values that we were accustomed to with the previous sire evaluation procedure. Percentile rankings for sires are published by several major dairy magazines and by the breed journals. The change in the way sires are ranked will influence decisions made by AI units and by dairymen.

In the most recent turn of events, interest in the solids-no-fat (SNF) and the total solids (TS) portions of milk has emerged. The non-fat solids in milk are made up of protein and lactose plus the ash content. Total solids also includes the milkfat content. While protein content influences cheese yield, SNF content has an important bearing on the yield of all manufactured dairy products, not just cheese. This has created interest among dairy farmer organizations to have milk priced on its SNF or TS content. If this should happen, there will be cause for concern in the breeding industry. Most dairy records processing centers test only for fat and protein. They do not provide SNF or TS values on individual cows or herds because there is no testing equipment which will provide direct values for these components. Two years ago, the USDA discontinued evaluating cows and sires for SNF because only a few of the lactation records they received contained SNF data.

How do we help dairymen who want to know which bulls to use to improve SNF or TS production in their herds? For the present, the best course of action would be to monitor the protein values on their cows and to select sires based on PTA protein dollars. This will select for the most profitable combination of milk, butterfat and protein. Secondly, sires with very low protein tests, for example, those with a PTA protein percentage of minus 0.10 or more can be avoided. Dairy records processing centers do not have a direct and quick test for SNF or TS and USDA does not have the necessary genetic evaluation procedures. For the present, breeding programs need to be directed towards improving the protein content of milk by selecting sires on Predicted Transmitting Ability for Protein Dollars.

The training program included classroom and hands-on study of the MAXXUM™ transmissions, engines, hydraulic systems, hitches, and electronic systems. Students received an overview of the manufacturing processes used to assure high quality in the MAXXUM™ models.

To sharpen their service and repair skills, students disassembled and reassembled components. They also practiced performing critical adjustments and learned precise testing and troubleshooting procedures.

Pioneer Recommends Alfalfa Hay Inoculant

WEST DES MOINES, Iowa — Hay producers can now use crop-specific Pioneer brand 1155 alfalfa hay inoculant on large, round bales, baled at 13-20 percent moisture.

"We have conducted extensive research on large round bales throughout the country and now are confident hay producers will benefit from using 1155 on large, round bales," said Dr. Steve Soderlund, technical services manager for Microbial Genetics.

"1155, available in water soluble and dry, granular formulations, is a non-toxic, non-corrosive bacterial hay inoculant," Soderlund said. "We have previously recommended 1155 for use on small, square bales baled at 15-25 percent moisture. That recommendation still applies."

During the time 1155 has been on the market, technical services has emphasized the importance of accurate moisture testing and proper storage of the alfalfa hay.

"Moisture testing will be especially important when 1155 is used on large, round bales. Producers can expect the best results from the 1155 when they follow the moisture guidelines," Soderlund said.

Microbial Genetics technical service also recommends producers not stack the inoculated large, round bales until they are fully cured. Nor should the bales be covered with plastic or any other protective device until they have stabilized.

Whether producers use the water soluble 1155 on large round or small square bales, they may leave the mixed solution in the applicator tank overnight.

"They should agitate the tank and check the applicator filter screen to make certain it is clean. The 1155 solution can be used for up to three days after mixing. However, if producers detect a foul odor, the solution should be discarded," Soderlund said.

Ag Week Reflects Biotech's Promise

ANNAPOLIS, MD — Farmer Brown needs no insecticides because his plants have their own built-in insect defense systems. He can diagnose what virus is attacking his cattle by using a simple, in-field diagnostic kit. And he doesn't worry about drought as much anymore, now that he has drought-resistant corn seed.

No, these aren't imaginary scenes created for the benefit of National Agriculture Week to be held March 18-24. Rather, they indicate the promise for agriculture brought on by biotechnology.

Biotechnology - applying biological processes to develop a product - is not new. Gregor Mendel, the 18th-century Austrain monk considered to be the "father" of classical genetics, used biotechnology when he developed new garden pea varieties by sexually crossing plants with various characteristics.

In the 1950s, scientists James Watson and Francis Crick discovered the structure of DNA, the material that contains the genetic blueprint for all life processes. Revealing DNA's structure led the way to understanding how genetic information is stored, reproduced, and transferred.

Scientists today can locate and transfer specific genes that code for the formation of certain products. They can even transfer the ability to produce a protein — an insect toxin, for example — from one species to another.

"A recent National Academy of Sciences report states that biotechnology's potential benefits for agriculture will far outweigh the medical applications, but have yet to be realized," said Dr. Robert Kennedy, director of Maryland's Agricultural Experiment Station (AES).

Biotechnology has the potential to save billions of dollars lost each year to diseases, insects, droughts, and other plant and animal stresses, said Kennedy. One of biotechnology's most important benefits is increasing production efficiency — resulting in safer, higher quality products with lower costs and less environmental impact.

Kennedy noted that current AES research includes using biotechnology to create synthesized "designer" proteins, locating and identifying the genes controlling plant flowering and reproduction, and understanding the genetic control of proteins involved in milk secretion.

National Agriculture Week, with the theme "Honoring America's Providers — Tradition and Change," is sponsored in Maryland by Maryland Agriculture Week, Inc., the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, and the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

"A NEW CHOICE"
KRONE NIEMEYER'S AMG-282 DISC MOWER CONDITIONER

Technology advances through new concepts. Consider a new patented hitch allowing the tractor to drive around the machine while making a 90 degree corner. Consider a main frame design that allows the cutterbar to be pulled rather than pushed over uneven terrain, providing a higher degree of float without the use of heavy springs or cylinders. And finally, consider conditioner rolls designed to bruise rather than crush your valuable crop while providing the fast drying time you demand.

The AMG-282 Disc Mower Conditioner has a 9'2" cutting width with a 10' transport width. See your Krone Niemeyer dealer for further details.

Beware Water Drainage Problems

BY EDWARD J. WOODS
County Agricultural Agent

Drainage Problems

The recent heavy rains provide a good chance to observe the water drainage problems around many barns and storage buildings. If surface water drains into farm buildings or into homes, then something should be done about it. Surface water should be directed away from buildings by way of terraces or diversion ditches.

Water should not be permitted to flow down against buildings from an upgrade. This will weaken the structure and wash soil away from the foundation. Water that seeps into a building from underground is a different problem and more difficult to control.

However, the surface water can be directed around and away from farm buildings. Also, the area round wells should be protected from surface water contamination. Water from feedlots and barnyards should not be allowed to flow directly into public streams; pastures or holding areas will help prevent the possibility of pollution.

Plan Legume Seeding

It's not too soon to make plans for seeding clover or alfalfa or winter grains. Many of our good stands have been obtained by seeding in late February or early March. The value of seeding at this time is to take advantage of the alternate freezing and thawing to work the small seeds into the topsoil.

Wheat is usually the best grain to make late winter or early spring legume seeding. Barley and rye tend to develop too much growth and increase the potential for lodging, which smothers out the small legume plants. Broadcast seeding when the soil is "honeycombed" in early March works very well, but the use of a band seeder may be a better way to establish a new legume stand.

Control External Parasites

External parasites such as lice, mites, and mange can become more severe as the winter progresses. In addition to causing rough hair coats, slower weight gains, lower milk production, and discomfort for animals, excessive parasite loads can cause anemia and a host of secondary anemic-related problems such as a weaker immune response, slower rates of healing, poorer response to treatments, and lower conception rates. Parasites can also spread skin diseases such as ringworm.

To reduce the risk of parasites, clip dairy cattle that are housed for the winter and apply approved insecticides in accordance with label directions.

Recognize Lime For Weed Control

You have never heard us recommend lime for weed control; however, lime is important to obtain good herbicide weed control. Both research and farm experience have indicated that herbicides are not as effective in sour soil. So for best control with chemicals, the soil test requirement must be satisfied.

Poor weed control experience has been reported in sour soils. A complete soil test will indicate the amount of lime needed. There are many other advantages to crop production in addition to better herbicide action.

YOUR MASTER MIX DEALER HAS EVERYTHING WE NEED TO PUT YOUR REPLACEMENT HEIFERS IN THE MILK LINE AT 24 MONTHS.

EXCEPT FOR DIRECTIONS TO YOUR PLACE.

The benefits of Bovatec® (lasalocid) for replacement heifers are well worth a visit. Bovatec is the only feed additive approved to both control coccidiosis* and improve growth rate.

As a result, she reaches breeding weight sooner — and the milk line sooner.

But that is just part of the story. Bovatec improved growth rate puts her in the right condition for calving earlier at less cost.

Let's get together — the sooner the better — because we want to see your replacement herd on the milk line earlier.

Good idea?

*Up to 800 lbs. body weight

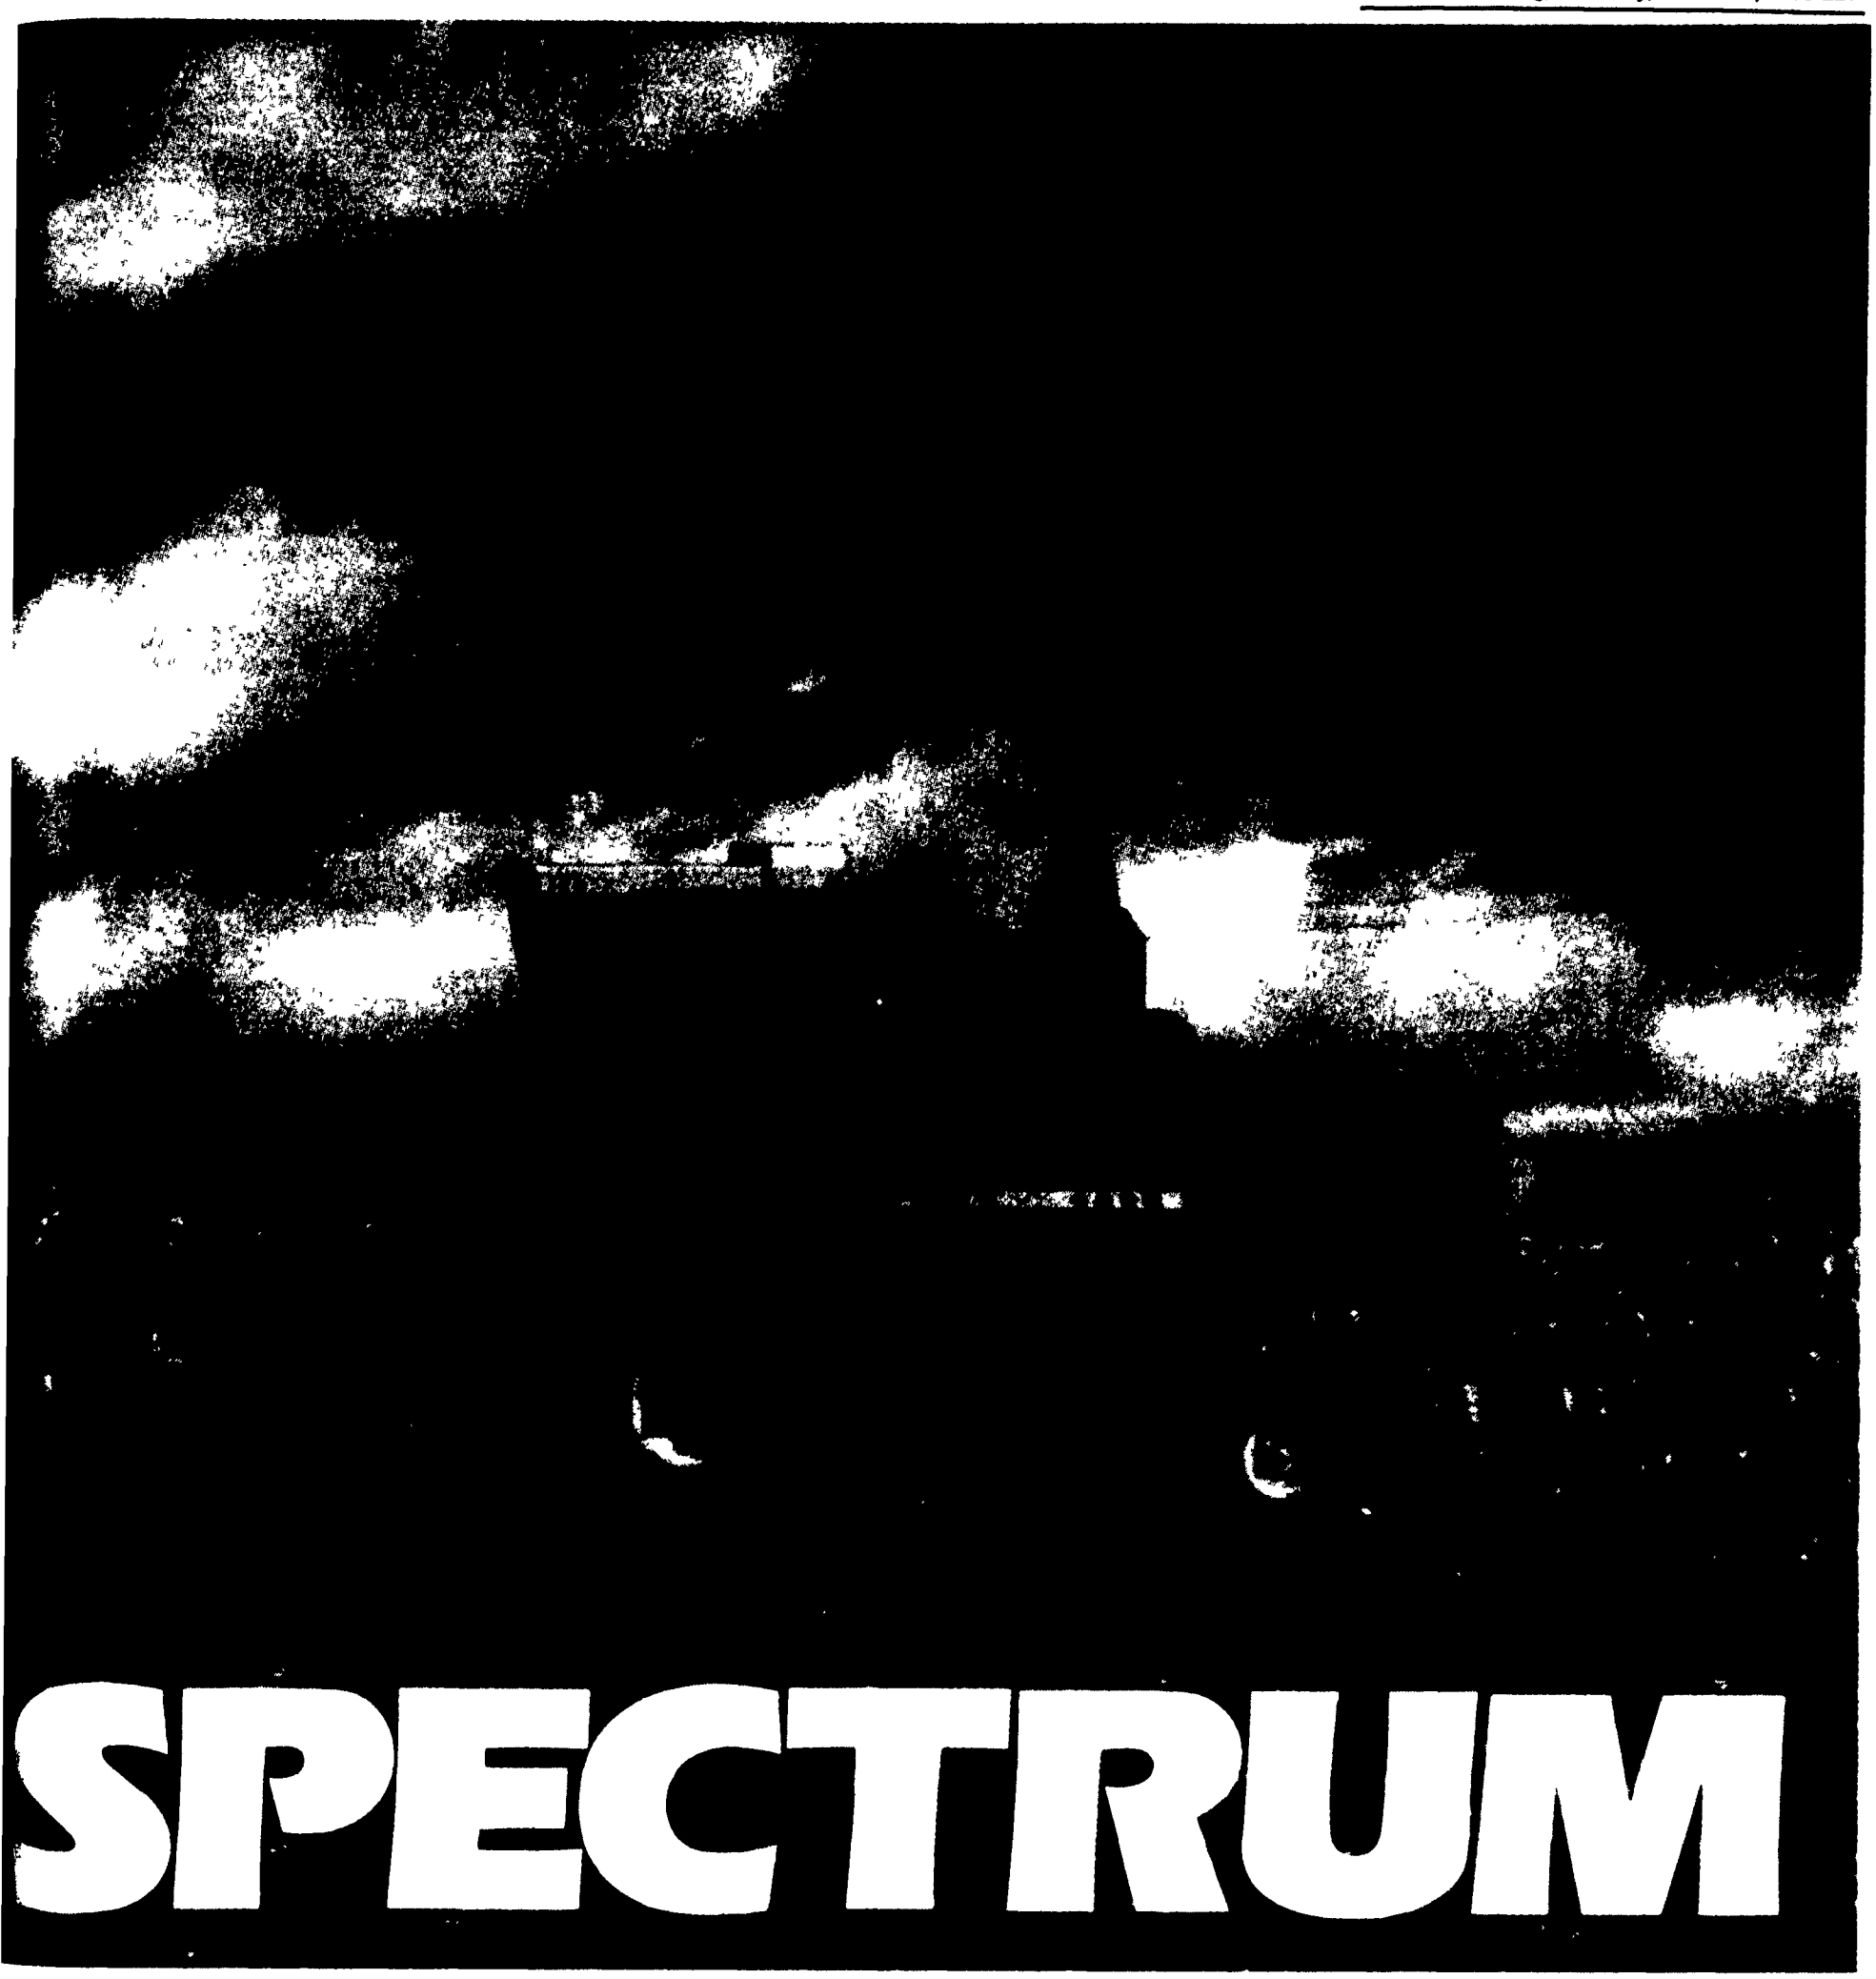
COUNTER® CONTROLS MORE MAJOR CORN PESTS FOR HIGHEST YIELD POTENTIAL.

COUNTER® systemic insecticide-nematicide controls more major corn pests than any other insecticide. Nearly twice as many as some products. And that's critical when you consider the complex of pests that can attack your corn crop. You can't afford to miss an important part of your total insect control.

BROADEST SPECTRUM CONTROL

For more than 10 years, COUNTER has been the undisputed leader in rootworm control. But it also controls a broad spectrum of other pests, including wireworms, white grubs, nematodes and other insects that can attack your crop and reduce yields. More major corn pests than any other product. And COUNTER gives you guaranteed cutworm protection.*



HIGHER YIELDS

The greater protection of COUNTER gets your corn off to a fast, healthy start, with stronger, more developed root systems. And that means your crop gets the moisture and nutrients necessary for the best possible yield.

In fact, National Corn Growers Association yield winners have used COUNTER 2-to-1 over the next corn soil insecticide. They must be on to something.

CONSISTENT PERFORMANCE

Tests by major universities in top corn-producing states continue to prove that, applied banded or in-furrow, COUNTER consistently outperforms all other corn soil insecticides by a wide margin. And it delivers outstanding control of corn pests, regardless of years of continuous use. So, you can start with COUNTER and stay with COUNTER. There's no need to periodically take chances with less reliable or unproven products.

Don't risk a performance gap in your total insect control. Get proven, broad-spectrum control, the highest possible yields, and consistent performance. Protect your crop and your investment. With COUNTER insecticide.
